U. S. Directs 3-Way Blast At Soviets, Satellites

Reds Get Protest; American Envoys Behind Iron Curtain Are Called to Talks

The United States banged at the Iron Curtain yesterday with three assaults.

In separate actions, the State Department:

1. Called American diplomats assigned to eastern European countries to an extraordinary conference in London, October 24. Purpose was said to be to plan ways of counteracting anti-American propaganda.
2. Sent an official note to Moscow protesting the "shocking mistreatment" handed out by the Russians to Americans in eastern Germany.
3. Charged that Russia has reduced eastern Germany to "an oppressive police state" and now is trying to create a "dictatorial, unrepresentative" puppet government to rival the western German Republic.

Top United States diplomats from Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria will attend the London meeting.

Assistant Secretary of State George W. Perkins will fly from Washington to sit in.

No Details Available

The State Department announcement gave no details on what will be discussed. It called the session "informal" and said the diplomats will "exchange views and discuss questions of mutual interest and concern."

Lincoln White, a department spokesman, said that as far as he knew the meeting will be the first of its kind.

Other officials summed up the reasons for the conference in these words:

"They will discuss how best to handle the outrageous propaganda disseminated (by the Iron Curtain nations), completely distorting everything this country stands for, and how it may be possible to make the peoples, as opposed to the governments, understand what we stand for."

"International Decency"

The American Ministers and Ambassadors who will gather in London are Alan G. Kirk, Russia; Waldemar J. Gallman, Poland; Ellis O. Briggs, Czechoslovakia; Cavendish W. Cannon, Yugoslavia; Nathanial P. Davis, Hungary; Rudolf E. Schoenfeld, Romania, and Donard R. Heath, Bulgaria.

The State Department accused Russia of violating the "most elementary standards of international

Stocks Achieve Third 1949 High; Steels in Demand

New York, Oct. 6 (AP).—The stock market, for the third straight day, climbed to a new 1949 high today.

Demand for steel shares was particularly keen. Leading shares closed with gains of fractions to a point or more.

Demand was linked with financial district rumors that the steel and coal strikes are about to be settled.

Atom Probers Vote to Drop AEC Inquiry

Joint Committee Plans A Closed-Door Quiz Into Two New Fields

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

In a straight party ballot, the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy yesterday voted to drop further investigation of charges of "incredible mismanagement" on the part of the Atomic Energy Commission.

But at the same time, the committee unanimously approved a closed inquiry into two other atomic energy fields. They were not disclosed.

The first vote had the effect of ending further committee sessions on a long series of charges against the AEC originally made last summer by Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa).

The ranking minority member had hoped to continue the investigation in further closed sessions, arguing there still were subjects which demanded further digging.

All eight Republican members of the committee voted to continue the inquiry; all 10 Democrats voted against.

One of the Republicans, Senator Knowland (Calif.), thereupon declared he was unable to help frame a committee report on the present state and operations of the AEC without study of two other subjects. He won full committee agreement.

The new fields of investigation presumably relate to military matters. Committee Chairman McMahon (D., Conn.) announced that among the witnesses will be Secretary of the Air Force Symington and two of his deputies. They are to be heard today or Saturday.

Meantime, Hickenlooper yesterday again objected to the state of atomic affairs. He accused the Truman Administration of violating a promise to Congress in discussng a revived wartme atomic partnershp with Great Britain and Canada.

In commenting on recent three-power atomic talks, Undersecretary of State Webb used the word "partnership" in mentioning the objectives of the discussion and said good progress was being made toward that goal.

He pointed out that any cooperative arrangement for sharing information or partnership in atomic work would require congressional approval.

But Hickenlooper said he feels even a discussion of the idea was "a direct violation of the understanding the Joint Congressional Committee had with the State Department and the Administration."

Hickenlooper said there had been a complete understanding that the partnership question would be discussed with the British and Canadians without prior clearance from the congressional atomic group. He said there had been no such clearance.

Tokyo Rose Given 10 Years in Prison

San Francisco, Oct. 6 (AP).—Iva Toguri D'Aquino was sentenced to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine in Federal Court today for making treasonable "Tokyo Rose" broadcasts from Radio Tokyo in wartime.

Yankee Stadium, New York, Oct. 6.—The good citizens of Ashflat, Ark., can stand up and cheer tonight because of one of their boys, the doctor's son, pitched Brooklyn to a classic 1-0 World Series victory today.

Elwin Roe did it—to the Yankees, with a grimly magnificent display that gripped 70,053 fans in admiration of the way he could throw a baseball.

He stood off every Yankee scoring threat to fashion the exact reverse of the New York club's 1-0 triumph of the day before, and square the World Series at one game each.

At the finish, the 31-year-old left-hander from the Ozarks owned a tremendous six-hit performance in which he didn't walk a man, and permitted only one Yankee to see third base.

He had to out-pitch Vic Raschi, and he did. Roe made stand up for him the game's lone run that Jackie Robinson's two-bagger and Gil Hodges' single wrenched out of Raschi in the second inning.

The big crowd saw Roe meet the big test in the eighth, and again in the ninth when the Yankees put the tying run on base with none out, and then it was that he was superior. He wasn't letting go of that precious one-run lead

New Anderson Farm Bill Push Is Slated Today

Backers of Low-Level Props to Try Again on Rewrite of Measure

Supporters of lower support levels for farm products will try again today to get the Anderson long-range farm bill through the Senate.

The Senate Agriculture Committee, with Senator Clinton P. Anderson (D., N. Mex.) taking the leadership away from the committee's chairman, Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.), approved a rewrite of the bill the Senate turned down Tuesday night.

Thomas opposed the Anderson proposal, because it would cut the present scale of price supports of 90 percent of parity for basic crops to a sliding scale of 75 to 90 percent.

He was joined by one other Democrat, Senator Olin D. Johnston (S. C.), and Senator Milton R. Young (R., N. Dak.). The vote was 9 to 3, with Majority Leader Scott W. Lucas (D., Ill.) supporting Anderson.

The new draft of the bill:

1. Includes the sliding scale of the original bill. This was knocked out by the Senate Tuesday, and a program of supports at a rigid 90 percent of parity, introduced by Senators Young and Richard B. Russell (D/, Ga.) substituted.

It was this defeat, which took place on reconsideration of an

House Asked For Probe of D. C. Crime

Davis Resolution For Inquiry Into 'Deplorable' State To Come Up Tuesday

House action will be asked Tuesday to launch a sweeping investigation of Washington crime and law enforcement agencies.

A special resolution, calling for the investigation to be made by the House District Committee, was forwarded to the House yesterday by its Rules Committee.

The move was sponsored by Representative James C. Davis (D., Ga.), chairman of the District subcommittee which handles police legislation.

Davis said he called for the investigation because he feels that "the lack of proper law enforcement in Washington has reached such a deplorable stage that some proper investigation should be made to determine the reasons for the lax law enforcement or observance of the laws here."

Davis said his idea for the investigation developed from information like that presented in FBI summaries of the Washington crime situation, and in this week's comments of the retiring District grand jury.

The latest FBI report, covering the first six months of 1949, placed Washington second among major cities in aggravated assaults, seventh in murders, sixth in burglary.

This week the grand jury sharply criticized the light punishment criminals are getting in District Court. It called for harsher treatment of second and third offenders. At the same time, the group praised the work of the Police Department, particularly the detective bureau.

Davis commented that the crime problem here is "noticeable to everybody, to the grand jury and to the casual observer, and now it's forcing itself upon the attention of Congress."

During his term on the District

GI Not to Get Dividends Before Next Year, VA Says

The Veterans' Administration yesterday said it will not be able to start paying the $2,800,000,000 GI insurance dividends until next year.

Harold W. Breining, assistant administrator for insurance, said reports that the checks might start going out before Christmas are "absolutely without foundation."

On Wednesday a Veterans' Administration press officer, Paul Benedict, told a reporter "there is a possibility that we might start the payments before the first of the year."

Breining said yesterday that "the real fact is that we are even working overtime in an effort to get the dividend checks out to veterans entitled to them according to the present schedule, which calls for the first checks to be dispatched some time around the middle of January."

Capt. Crommelin Has Spent 24 Years In Naval Aviation

CAPT. JOHN CROMMELIN

Restricted to city limits

Capt. John G. Crommelin, jr., the naval officer whose disclosure of service documents led yesterday to his arrest and to an all-out Congressional inquiry into Pentagon policies, has made naval aviation his whole career.

Now 47, Crommelin was born in Montgomery, Ala., on October 2, 1902.

He attended the University of Virginia before getting an appointment to the United States Naval Academy in 1919. He played football and was on the varsity boxing squad. He was commissioned an ensign in 1923.

He went to the Naval Air Station at Pensacola, Fla., in 1925 for flight training and has served continuously in naval aviation ever since. He has served on the aircraft carriers Lexington and Ranger and with the aviation units of the battleships California and Colorado.

From December, 1929, until mid-1933 he was an instructor at Pensacola. On June 29, 1942, he was assigned to the carrier Enterprise and served as air officer until the following December and then as executive officer until September 30, 1943.

During that time the Enterprise took part in the occupation of Guadalcanal and in the Battle of the Stewart Islands in August, 1942; the battle of Santa Cruz in October, the battle of the Solomon Islands in November, 1942, and in the battle of Rennel Island in January, 1943.

For his services on the Enterprise he received a letter of commendation which praised his calm courage and the fighting spirit which he instilled in the men.

From September, 1943, until May, 1944, Crommelin served as chief of staff and aide to the commander of Carrier Division 24.

During that assignment he was aboard the flagship Liscomb Bay

Plan to End Dock Strike Is Agreed On

Hawaii Stevedores Agree to Take Less Than 30-Cent Demand

Honolulu, Oct. 6 (AP).—A formula for settling the 159-day-old Hawaiian dock strike was agreed on today by waterfront employers and leaders of the CIO Longshoremen's Union.

The basis for an agreement to end the costly walkout was announced a few hours apart by CIO Longshoremen's Leader Harry Bridges and the employers.

Bridges made his announcement as he was leaving by plane for San Francisco at the end of three days of conferences with employers. He said he had "negotiated settlement."

Employers later announced they had accepted the proposal of the Longshoremen's chief for an immediate 14-cent-an-hour wage increase for 2000 island stevedores with an additional boost of 7 cents an hour effective next February 28.

The wage boost, the issue that touched off the strike May 1, hikes the pay of island dock workers from $1.40 an hour to $1.54. The CIO International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union originally had demanded a 30-cent-an-hour boost to bring the Hawaiian stevedores closer to parity with the $1.82-an-hour paid mainland stevedores.

Bridges imposed only one condition on a back-to-work movement: That negotiations "will continue"

Auriol Looks For Successor To Queuille

French President Holds Conference With Red Leaders

Paris, Oct. 6 (AP).—President Vincent Auriol began today his search for a Premier to replace Henri Queuille, devaluation's first major political casualty.

Queuille's cabinet, which had lasted more than a year, foundered yesterday on the demand of Socialist Labor Minister Daniel Mayer that wages be increased generally to meet rising prices as an aftermath of the recent cut in the value of the franc. Queuille, a Radical (moderate) Socialist, had insisted that any boosts go only to the low income groups. He resigned.

The 65-year-old President, described by one official as running a temperature of 102.5 degrees, was closeted with Queuille for 35 minutes.

The former Premier emerged with the comment: "I am no longer in a position to make any statement."

Then Auriol saw the president of the National Assembly, Edouard Herriot, and Communist leaders Maurize Thorez and Jacques Duclos.

Mother Claws Baby Away From Jaws of Bear

Tampa, Fla., Oct. 6 (AP).—A quick-thinking Tampa mother saved her 20-month-old son from the jaws of a city park bear today.

Mrs. Joseph Longo jabbed her sharp fingernails in the 300-pound animal's nostrils until it let go. The boy, John, got off with a gash in the buttocks which a physician pronounced "pretty severe" but not dangerous.

John, watching the squirrels and pigeons, had backed against the gate to the bear's cage. There is a little gap between the gate and the next section of the cage and Susie, the bear, shoved her jaws through and clamped down on Johnny.

House Group Overrides Protest by Matthews

Order Restricting Crommelin to Home Changed to Include Limits of District

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Over the protests of Navy Secretary Francis Matthews, the House Armed Services Committee voted yesterday to permit top admirals to present their attack on current Pentagon policies in open session.

This victory for the naval dissenters came after Matthews had ordered the limited house arrest of Capt. John G. Crommelin, the rebellious Navy flier who blew the lid off the whole unification row.

Last night, the Navy modified the order to confine Crommelin to the city limits rather than his home, but continued his suspension from duty and went ahead with court-martial plans.

Matthews Objects

The decision for a wide-open hearing of the admirals' complaints came after a stormy session behind closed doors. Matthews, obviously expressing Defense Department views, objected to the committee's hearing Admiral Arthur W. Radford, Pacific Fleet commander, in public.

He told the group that Radford—who was scheduled to open the Navy's "presentation" of its case against Defense Department policies—would disclose "serious differences of policy and proceedings" at the Pentagon. The effect, he added, would be harmful to national security.

As the other Navy men to follow are to give supporting testimony to Radford's general outline of the admirals' complaints, Matthews' objection would have meant hearing the case in secret. The committee listened to the veteran air admiral's statement behind closed doors and then voted 9 to 6 to let him testify in the open.

Officers Oppose Secretary

He'll give what is declared to be sensational testimony this morning. Twenty-two other naval officers, including virtually the entire Navy high command, will follow him to the stand.

The unusual spectacle of the Navy closing ranks in opposition to its own Secretary in an attack on Defense Department policy developed yesterday.

First Matthews took the witness chair to castigate the Navy's aviators as responsible for the whole trouble. He lauded Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson and the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and declared that they presented "a good court" and "proper forum" for deciding military differences. The rebellious admirals contend the court's "packed" against them.

Next, Committee Chairman Carl Vinson (D., Ga.) announced that Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, had given him a list of 23 Navy witnesses who would present the Navy's "case."

It provides for Radford's leading off and Denfeld summing up, with such figures as Fleet Ad-

15 Eggs for Each Person in U. S. Bought Up By Government; Question Before Congress Is Where to Give Them Away

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Uncle Sam is getting ready to give away 2304 million eggs and 35 million pounds of canned beef.

The eggs have cost the Government 85 million dollars; the beef about 10 million.

(This is equal to about 15 eggs for every man, woman and child in the United States; and a pound of canned beef for every five persons—a normal-sized American family.)

One question remains—who to give it to. Two classes of recipients have been suggested, (1) hungry and needy Americans and (2) hungry and dollar-shy Europeans.

The Senate today will vote on the first plan. It is a proposal stuck into the new farm bill by Senator Elmer Thomas (D., Okla.). The Thomas amendment was approved by the Senate Agriculture Committee yesterday.

Thomas would distribute the meat and eggs to, first, the Bureau of Indian Affairs, second, the school lunch program, and third, Federal, State and county public welfare organizations.

Some officials of the Agriculture Department urge that the supplies be turned over to the State Department, or to the Economic Cooperation Administration, for free distribution to nations that would buy the stuff if they had enough dollars.

(Thomas also would have the

Hannegan Dies in St. Louis; Man Who 'Stopped' Wallace

Charles E. Davis, Jr.
Post Reporter

Robert E. Hannegan, whose master political stroke in 1944 placed Harry S. Truman on the path to the Presidency and barred the door of the White House to Henry A. Wallace, died yesterday in St. Louis.

Hannegan, former Postmaster General, former chairman of the Democratic National Committee and former president of the St. Louis Cardinals, was only 46.

He died of a heart ailment at his home shortly after 10 a. m. (EST). He became ill during the night and his physician was called.

His death was unexpected, although he had been in ill health since 1946. He underwent an operation in Boston in 1947 for hypertension (high blood pressure).

Hannegan's chief claim to fame, as most politicians saw it, was his prime role in getting the vice presidential nomination for Harry S. Truman in 1944.

Hannegan was proud of this, naturally. In talking about it, however, he put the emphasis on the first part of that political drama. He thought his greatest achievement was the ditching of Wallace.

Talking to Edward T. Folliard, reporter for The Washington Post, in 1947, when he was Postmaster General, he said:

"When I die, I would like to have one thing put on my headstone—that I was the man who kept Henry Wallace from becoming President of the United States."

Hannegan at the time had just undergone the operation.

He told The Washington Post reporter that he felt he deserved full credit for "stopping" Wallace. He said he talked to President

Lobby Probe Unit Chosen by House

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.) yesterday announced the appointment of a special House committee headed by Representative Frank Buchanan (D., Pa.) to investigate lobbying.

The committee, created by special resolution, has an initial appropriation of $50,000. Other members are Representatives Henderson Lanham (D., Ga.), Carl Albert (D., Okla.), Clyde Doyle (D., Calif.), Charles A. Halleck (R., Ind.), Clarence Brown (R., Ohio), and Joseph P. O'Hara (R., Minn.).

Buchanan has stated that he hopes hearings can get under way about the middle of November. He has taken the position that he wants a competent bipartisan staff headed by a well-trained lawyer.

Hearings will not open, Buchanan asserted, until the staff has had an opportunity to make a thorough survey of the situation.

The investigation is scheduled to last three to six months and will go into all phases of lobbying, including the so-called Government lobby.

Perez Cites 1782 Treaty On Tideland

By The Associated Press

Terms of the 1782 treaty between Great Britain and the United States were under discussion yesterday by a Senate Interior Subcommitee which is studying tidelands ownership legislation.

Photostatic copies of the document, in which England surrendered title to lands taken over by the 13 original colonies, were presented to the committee by Leander Perez, Louisiana political leader.

13 States Listed

Under the treaty, Perez said, England recognized America's sovereignty over lands occupied by the colonies and all islands in the Atlantic out for a distance of 20 leagues, or roughly 67 miles, from the mainland.

The document referred collectively to the United States. It specifically listed the 13 States in relinquishing sovereignty and land titles.

Perez contended the treaty is proof that the submerged coastal lands belong to the individual States. Although Louisiana was not one of the original 13 States, it came into the Union with the same rights as to land titles, he added.

He urged passage of legislation which would give the States unquestioned title to their oil-rich tidelands.

States File Briefs

Meanwhile Louisiana and Texas filed briefs with the Supreme Court denying they are using "delaying tactics" in their battle with the Government over tidelands ownership.

Louisiana charged in its brief that the Justice Department is trying to get the court to discriminate against it.

Texas said it "ill behooves" the Government to rush proceedings.

Both States were answering a Justice Department assertion last week that both were using "delaying tactics" by filing various documents before the court. The Government contended that because of such "tactics" the court should decide the case at once.

Award for Policeman-of-the-Month

The Washington Post

Sgt. A. G. Keene Wins Policeman-of-Month Award for August for Subduing Crazed Man

For courage in laying down his own gun to help in disarming a crazed shotgun-firing man, Sergt. Arthur G. Keane was awarded a citation yesterday as the outstanding policeman here for August.

The incident which brought Keene's display of bravery did not come to public view until he was nominated for the "policeman of the month" certificate of merit.

He was honored yesterday at a luncheon of the Friendship Lions Club at the Westechester Apartments and in addition to the customary medal and certificate, received a bronze plaque from the club commemorating his deed.

Citation Quoted

The citation read:

"About 4:11 a.m., Sunday, August 7, a police scout car was summoned to arrest a drunk at a rooming house in the 5300 block of Reno rd. nw. When the two policemen in the squad car arrived, they found the drunk was armed and had already driven a man and woman from the house. Both were standing on the street in nightclothes.

"A woman at the house told the policemen her son, later identified as Lester A. Reeves, jr., 26, had come home drunk, threatened his roommate with a shotgun, and that the roommate had been forced to flee. She also said her son had been a patient at Gallinger Hospital in 1947 after a suicide attempt.

"The two policemen entered the house by a rear door. A shot was fired from within. The policemen could see their man standing on the second floor at the head of the steps, armed with a shotgun. 'I'll shoot anyone who tries to get me,' he shouted. The policemen made a radio call for assistance.

"Shortly thereafter, Sergt. Arthur G. Keene of the Eighth Precinct arrived. After interviewing the two policemen already there. Sergt. Keene tried to persuade Reeves to surrender. Reeves responded by again firing the shotgun. Sergt. Keene kept talking. Reeves finally told Sergt. Greene he would put down his gun if the sergeant would do likewise. Sergt. Keene put his revolver on the downstairs hall table and started upstairs. Sergt. Keene had his man disarmed just at the moment two more policemen rushed in the door to help him.

"In selecting Sergeant Keene as policeman of the month for August, the Award of Merit Committee wishes to commend the officer for the way he handled this case. As Acting Capt. Earl Noble of the Eighth Precinct, pointed out, Sergeant Keene would have been within his rights if he had used a firearm to make his capture. As it was, by outstanding self-control and quick thinking, he got his man without bloodshed and in doing so exhibited great courage in putting aside his revolver to go after a man known to be a mental case, under the influence of liquor, and armed."

Reeves, according to police records, was taken to Gallinger Hospital for mental examination, and subsequently was committed to St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Sergeant Keene is 46 years old, married, and lives at 3326 Reservoir rd. nw. He was appointed to the Metropolitan Police Department September 3, 1930. From then until 1942, when he took military leave, he had a dozen commendations. In that time, he served in the traffic bureau, Fourteenth Precinct, Eighth Precinct, as a precinct detective, and in the United States attorney's office.

Served Overseas

During the war, he saw nearly four years of service, much of it in the Pacific theater, and was discharged a major of military police. Since then he worked as a detective for a time, finally returned to uniform, and worked in the Sixth and Eighth Precincts, accumulating more commendations.

I. William Hill, chairman of the Award of Merit Committee, read the citation at the Friendship Lions Club meeting, and Inspector Floyd Truscott, assistant superintendent of police, pinned on the medal. Inspector Clarence Lutz presented the certificate. Capt. John Fondahl, Eighth Precinct commander and also a member of the Friendship Lions Club, presented the plaque for the club.

He also presented a similar plaque to Pvt. Edwin L. York, 33, of the Eighth Precinct, who was honored as policeman of the month of September, 1948, for a fire rescue. Private York received the medal and certificate at that time, but was not honored until yesterday by the Friendship Lions Club.

Sergeant Keene is the third officer from the Eighth Precinct to be named policeman of the month since the award was created in January, 1948. The committee on the award is made up of city editors of Washington newspapers.

Hanging Called Most 'Humane' Of Executions

London, Oct. 6 (U.P.)—A royal commission on capital punishment was told by prison heads today that hanging is the most "humane" method of executing criminals.

The commission heard evidence from the governors of four prisons. One governor suggested execution by gas, and another by use of a hypodermic syringe of poison.

The commission also was informed that condemned prisoners ought to have their own radios.

It also was discovered that a "tremendous" number of persons in Britain want to be official hangmen.

Crime Probe In D. C. Asked

Committee Davis has won warm regard in the Police Department for his sponsorship of retroative salary increase legislation for its active and retired members and increased pension benefits for widows and children of police and firemen.

In moving into the investigation, Davis said: "The first thing to do is to find out where the trouble is, whether in the Police Department, the prosecuting attorney's office, or the courts, or probation office. I don't where it is."

He said the fact that the investigation is to be launched is no reflection on any official.

Maj. Robert J. Barrett, superintendent of Metropolitan Police, told reporters that "as far as this department is concerned, we welcome any investigation. We have a crime report and it shows a good record of clearances (arrests)." (The most recent annual report of the Police Department for the fiscal year ending last June 30 showed a continuing increase in Washington crime, along with a gain in the percentage of clearnces.) The report expressed the view that serious crime is leveling off in the District.

United States Attorney George Morris Fay declined comment on the forthcoming crime investigation.

Davis said that if it were felt the District Commissioners could throw light on the crime situation they would be called into the inquiry.

House Majority Leader John W. McCormack (D., Mass.) said the resolution is to be called up in the House Tuesday. House approval—the only step needed to launch the crime study—is expected.

District Chairman John L. McMillan (D., S. C.) said he would assign Representative Davis to head a special District Subcommittee to make the investigation.

Davis said about $2500 is on hand in committee funds to launch the study. He said preliminary research will be done during the adjournment of Congress, with hearings probable early in the new year.

The resolution gives the investigating subcommittee full power to subpena persons and records.

The resolution calls for "a full and complete investigation and study of the number and character of crimes committed in the District during recent years."

It specifies investigation "of the action taken by responsible officers and employes of the Federal and District governments in identifying and punishing the persons who commit such crimes."

Results of the investigation and recommendations by the committee are to be reported to the House as soon as practicable during the present Congress.

Davis said he had not discussed the investigation beforehand with officials of any of the local law enforcement agencies that may come under scrutiny. He said he had discussed it with other members of Congress.

London Paper Sees Mrs. Mesta As 'Blundering' Into Success

London, Oct. 6. (U.P.)—The Daily Mail said today in a dispatch from Luxenbourg that Mrs. Perle Mesta, American Minister there, is a success in her new post despite lampooning by the United States press.

The Mail's correspondent said the Washington hostess "is in a fair way to blunder a path into the hearts of the 300,000 people of this microscopic grand duchy—if she can stick it for awhile."

The dispatch said that "the people of Lnxenbourg are pleased as punch to have her here," but added:

"Mrs. Mesta apparently approached her job like the task of arranging a rather large tea party complicated by the presence of some quaint foreigners."

The dispatch said that "any serious interview with her is a study in embarrassment and frustration. Questions about international affairs are met with a vague, hurt look as though one had dropped ashes on the best rug."

It added, however, that Mrs. Mesta's weaknesses may become her greatest strength and that Luxembourgers react to her pleasantly.

"As far as the American press is concerned, Mrs. Mesta is already a ridiculous figure," the correspondent wrote. "But in Luxembourg she is a success."

In Slow Duel

Blood Let By Fiery Parisians

Paris, Oct. 6 (U.P).—An irate film producer drew blood today from a drama critic in a furious three-minute duel with swords over a lady's honor.

The producer, Willie Rezier, nicked critic Francois Chalais in the arm.

Rezier challenged Chalais after brooding for months over the critic's assertion that a certain actress' "career was behind her." The producer said Chalais' reference was more anatomical than literary. They muttered over the phrase to their friends for months and glowered at each other whenever they met.

The strain finally became too great and Rezier challenged.

They invited a large audience of 30 reporters and 15 photographers.

Chalais, the less skillful swordsman, was at a disadvantage. The short encounter was interrupted by the umpire twice after Chalais faulted by touching his sword to the ground. After each fault, the sword was sterilized.

Then Rezier cut Chalais across the arm. Chalais was not hurt seriously.

"It wasn't too dangerous," one witness said. "That cut of Chalais' —why a man runs a bigger risk every morning when he shaves himself."

Because millers have improved their product so much, the farmer gets far less of the consumer's dollar than he used to get, L. N. Perrin, president of General Mills, said yesterday.

Perrin told a Senate committee that wheat makes up 85 percent of the cost of flour. He included transportation costs in the wheat values.

But, he said, "in specialty foods the cost of raw materials represents a comparatively low percentage of the sales prices—in the range of 35 to 40 percent."

Perrin was a witness before a subcommittee headed by Senator Guy Gillette (D., Iowa) investigating why retail food prices don't follow farm prices downward.

Among General Mills specialty foods are Wheaties, Betty Crocker cake mixe Kix and other breakfast foods.

Perrin said that salaries and wages in his company had more than doubled in the 10 years since 1939. In 1939, 7531 employes drew 13 million dollars (about $1733 each) and that now 12,000 draw 43 million (about $3583 each.)

Philip W. Pillsbury, president of Pillsbury Mills, told the subcommittee that it is up to the baking industry to tell why bread prices went up while flour and wheat prices dropped.

Pillsbury insisted that flour prices closely follow wheat price trends.

Anderson Plan Fails To Gain Truman Favor

President Truman indicated yesterday that he favors the position of Vice President Barkley over that of his former Agriculture Secretary, Senator Anderson, and Majority Leader Lucas on price supports.

Barkley cast a tie-breaking vote Tuesday night that defeated the Anderson-Lucas farm program of sliding-scale price supports, and supplanted it with one calling for a flat 90 percent of parity.

When asked at his news conference which he favored, the President told reporters to read his message on the subject.

Robbed Model Goes to Bellevue

MRS. ELEANOR JOLLY, 22, a New York model, who was recently robbed and beaten and later helped police catch the suspects, was in Bellevue Hospital yesterday after what police called a "possible suicide attempt." She was found unconscious in her apartment, the victim of an "unknown intoxicating agent." She is also known as Donna Lee Lawrence earlier vote, that brought about the move to recommit the bill to committee.

2. Includes an amendment by Thomas to direct the Agriculture Department to give to charity several hundred million dollars worth of surplus commodities bought by the Government to maintain high price levels. This program would be additional to a similar program now financed by a portion of Government customs receipts, known as Section 32 funds.

3. Removes mohair from commodities for which price supports would be mandatory, and adds honey and "pulled" as well as "shorn" wool to the list.

4. Directs that broilers be included in any price support program that includes other poultry.

4. Adds the Maybank amendment prohibiting the sale of any Government-owned farm commodity at less than the current support price plus other costs such as storage, insurance, transportation, etc.

5. Adds an amendment by Lucas to prohibit consideration of "abnormal exports" in determining "normal demand" used in figuring the percentage of price supports available under the Anderson sliding scale.

The Lucas amendment is aimed principally at peanuts, for which an abnormal demand has existed in the last five years as a result of world shortages of fats and oils.

6. Modifies Anderson's proposal for setting up a sales agency in the Agriculture Department to aid in disposing of Government-owned surpluses. This was objected to by farm cooperatives, particularly elevators.

Arlington Democrats Laud Progress

Progress of Arlington County during the past 20 years was recounted in glowing terms last night at a meting of Arlington Democrats who also were urged to keep progressing by supporting their nominees in forthcoming elections.

At a meeting of the Arlington Democratic Club at Lyon Park Community House, about 75 members heard reports by committee chairmen on public health, welfare, utilities, recreation, and streets.

None of the reports contained anything but praise for the manner in which these divisions of the county have grown.

Calls for Unity

At conclusion of the reports, J. Maynard Magruder, who seeks reelection to the Virginia House of Delegates, and Basil DeLashmutt, nominee for reelection to the Arlington County Board, uttered the call for unity.

They added to this a prediction of victory for Democratic candidates, both State and local, at the November 8 elections.

The session started at 8:15 p. m. on the theme "What Is Right About Arlington?"

So far as Arlington's public utilities were concerned, the message of Lester R. Conley, member of the county PUC and the Democratic club's utilities chairman, was that they had kept up with the county's expansion.

Conley praised the efforts of telephone, gas, light and bus companies to give service to Arlingtonians, and stressed that they had been successful in meeting the demands of the growing community.

He pointed out that until a year or so ago, buses of the Arnold Lines were breaking down every 300 miles. "Now there is only one breakdown in every 6000 miles," he declared.

On the subject of streets, Stanley Stanton of the club told the audience that the county had less than 20 miles of paved roads in 1928 and that it now has more than 300 miles.

More Value Claimed

The county's recreation department is giving more than value received for the money it takes to support it, W. A. Richardson, county chairman of the department, said.

He asserted the 28-playground system "is considered through Virginia by recreation people as the best setup in the State." Richardson also traced the recreation program's growth from its outset in 1935, with eight playgrounds, to its present size.

Scheduled to be present last night but unable to be present were John S. Battle, Charlottesville, Democratic candidate for Governor; Lieut. Gov. L. Preston Collins, nominee to succeed himself; and George Damm, the county's junior member of the House of Delegates, who also is seeking reelection.

Weekend's Meat Prices Off 1-10 Cents

Meat prices locally will be 1 to 10 cents easier on the pocketbook this weekend, with sirloin steaks at 79 cents a pound featured in many food advertisements.

Wholesale food prices as a whole, according to the Dun & Bradstreet index, dipped to their lowest point since just before the last OPA controls on meats were lifted three years ago this month.

But spokesmen for two large chain stores in the District yesterday warned that steak prices—10 cents down from last weekend—probably will start again in the next few days.

Competition from lower-priced pork is offered as the reason for the beef drop, first in several weeks.

Center-cut pork chops also are quoted 10 cents lower than last week in several large Washington food stores.

Center-cut pork chops advertised yesterday at 86 cents a pound in two local chain stores compares with 86 cents a pound last October 15, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

A notable exception to this lower trend of food prices is coffee. Some stores have bumped it up 1 to 2 cents a pound.

Surplus Eggs Pose Problem

Commodity Credit Corporation give away about six million dollars worth of butter, 16 million dollars worth of dried milk, $2,400,000 worth of dried prunes and $1,100,000 worth of dried raisins.)

Agriculture Department officials, in opposing Thomas' plan, say that they have already distributed about all the dried eggs to the school lunch program and welfare organizations they can use.

Health Laws Cited

They also point out that the canned beef can't be distributed domestically without a change in American health laws, because it comes from Mexico, where hoof and mouth disease has not been eradicated.

This country bought the canned beef in an agreement to keep live Mexican cattle from being moved across the border.

The Government bought the eggs to keep prices high.

Housewives who have to pay from 80 to 90 cents a dozen for eggs in Washington retail stores, are confident the Government high price scheme has worked.

These million of pounds of dried eggs are beginning to spoil. They soon will be a complete loss. A total of 9810 tons are stored in a limestone cavern near Atchison, Kans.,—the strangest and biggest single-floor refrigerator in the world.

If the Government supplies were dumped or given away in this country, experts say they would break the domestic market, and send egg prices down again, thus defeating the price-support plan. The law requires purchases to keep the price up to 90 percent of parity.

(Parity is a price level for farm products designed to maintain price equality between the commodities that farmers produce and the things farmers have to buy.

(In other words, it is a scheme whereby a dozen of eggs will buy the same amount of nails, gasoline, or anything else a farmer uses as a dozen eggs bought 40 years ago —during the basic period of 1909 to 1914.)

The beef was canned by this Government in Mexico. It is the product of a transaction worked out by Congress to aid Mexican cattle raisers whose herds were smitten by an epidemic of hoof and mouth disease two years ago.

The Government bought 115 million pounds of this meat. It sold about 40 million pounds to the Army for use in Occupied Areas, and another 40 million pounds to Great Britain.

The loss on these sales amounted to about 10 million dollars. The meat cost 28 cents a pound; it was sold for about 15 cents.

It still has 35 million pounds, now in danger of spoiling. The cans are beginning to rust. This huge supply is stored in Houston, Galveston and other Texas cities.

American law prohibits the shipment of cattle or meat from any country where there is hoof and mouth disease. Mexican cattlemen for years have shipped hundreds of thousands of cattle into this country. When this Government barred such shipments it agreed to buy canned Mexican beef to make up for the loss. American authorities also felt such a move would halt smuggling of infected Mexican cattle across the border.

Agriculture officials have informally discussed their idea of giving the stuff away abroad with several members of Congress. They say the question is one Congress must decide soon. Congress ordered the department to acquire the stocks. Now, say Agriculture heads, it is up to Congress to decide what to do with it (whether to give it away or let it spoil.

U. S. 'Terrorizing' Doctors, Says AMA

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

The trustees of the American Medical Association yesterday charged the Justice Department with campaigning "to discredit American medicine and terrorize physicians."

Purpose of the campaign, they charged is to frighten physicians "into abandoning opposition to compulsory health insurance."

The statement disclosed that 16 State and county medical societies and other medical organizations, including the AMA itself, have been made targets of investigation by the antitrust division of the Justice Department within the past 30 days.

Furthermore, the trustees charged, it was more probably investigators than "ordinary burglars" who broke into their board room and even into their briefcases in Chicago last February 10.

Justice Department officials at first declined comment, but by late afternoon a formal statement was issued by Attorney General J. Howard McGrath, admitting the department was investigating reports of AMA's "efforts to monopolize" prepaid medical care plans not sponsored by organized medicine.

McGrath said the department had recived "numerous complaints" from both doctors and the general public in this regard.

"Should the investigation disclose that the complaints are well founded and a violation of law exists," he said, "further action by the Department of Justice to eliminate such violation would seem to be indicated."

Yesterday's complaint was not new, but bore the weight of a special pronouncement subscribed to by the full 11-man membership of the board. Similar charges were made here August 22 by Clem Whitaker, hired publicist for AMA's campaign against national compulsory health insurance.

One month later, David Brown, of New York, former editor of Liberty magazine, gave up his job with Whitaker's public relations firm, expressly in disapproval of Whitaker's "tactics." Brown said then he had looked into Whitaker's charges against the Justice Department and believed them to be untrue.

The AMA statement said, in main part:

"This is an official statement of the board of trustees of the American Medical Association, protesting the use of a police arm of the Government—namely, the antitrust division of the Department of Justice—in a campaign to discredit American medicine and terrorize physicians into abandoning their opposition to compulsory health insurance.

"The AMA has opened its records to the Justice Department, without reservation, and medical societies throughout the country will undoubtedly do likewise, but we intend to keep the public fully informed of developments, as we are convinced that these are not bona fide antitrust investigations, and that the American people will not tolerate police state methods in this country.

"We would be naive, indeed, if we ignored the political implications of this sudden rush of investigations, attacking medical societies, at a time when the Administration is doing its utmost to settle opposition to its proposed system of Government-controlled medical care."

The statement then recited what the trustees termed a "chronology of events" which followed AMA decision in November 1948 to assess its membership for a fund to finance "a campaign of public education on this issue." The events included the "search for information" last February after someone gained access to the trustees' board room through a window.

"The facts indicate this was a search for information, rather than an ordinary burglary," the trustees stated. "Certainly no friends of medicne would take this means of obtaining medical data."

Also included in the chronology were "threats" by Administration leaders of "investigations."

"The threats made then are now realities," the trustees said. "An epidemic of 'investigations,' aimed at medical societies and voluntary medical care plans, has broken out in widely separated States and cities all over the country.

"We want to make it clearly understood that we believe this attack on the medical profession stems from the antitrust division of the Justice Department and political string-pullers who have exerted influence on that agency. We believe it to be an outrageous abuse of public power which far transcends in gravity the issue of compulsory health insurance, vital as that issue is.

"We recognize that politically motivated attacks have been made on many other groups by this division of the Government—and we invite their cooperation with American medicine in an effort to alert the American people to the seriousness of this trend toward police state methods.

"If the police arm of the Government is used to intimidate doctors and others, and this abuse of power goes unchallenged, it may next be used to terrorize publishers or grocers, farmers or lawyers, Catholics or Jews, or any other minority in the Nation."

FCC Experts View CBS Color Video

By J. Frank Beatty

Associate Editor, Broadcasting-Telecasting

The color television system developed by Columbia Broadcasting System was demonstrated yesterday before Government officials who will chart the immediate future of visual radio.

In an all-day demonstration behind locked doors in the Carlton Hotel, CBS showed a series of spectacular tests that ranged from test patterns to pictures of a dancing girl. The network will conclude its tests at the Carlton today with outdoor scenes.

Radio Corp. of America will unveil its new system Monday before the same group, climaxing two weeks of technical testimony before the Federal Communications Commission and other Government officials.

CBS is pitting its scanning-disc system against RCA's three-tube all-electronic system. The FCC will decide whether color video has progressed far enough to justify adoption of the CBS, RCA or one of a number of other methods.

As several dozen of the Nation's leading electronic engineers looked on, CBS ran through a long series of maneuvers designed to show that its color is ready for FCC blessing. These technical viewers asked pointed questions aimed at the finer points of color telecasting.

At the end of the day CBS officials pointed out they had shown that color television can cover a wide range of programming. They added that the colored pictures had been successfully put on a network cable from Washington to New York and return plus a Washington-Baltimore radio relay hookup.

The demonstration closed in a battle of public relations officials as the Du Mont network held a news conference which in turn was followed by CBS with a statement by its president, Frank Stanton.

Dr. Allen B. Du Mont, head of the organization bearing his name and one of television's leading scientists, declared after the Columbia tests that commercial color television is still 10 to 20 years away.

CBS showed its version of color television on a half-dozen, especially built receivers used by the Smith, Klein & French laboratories for demonstration of surgery. In addition it used two regular table-model TV receivers equipped on the inside with adapters and on the outside with a scanning-wheel device containing red, green and blue filters. All the sets contained magnifying lenses in front of the picture tube.

Dr. Peter Goldmark, director of the CBS engineering and development department, conducted the tests, assisted by John Christianson, chief engineer. Models performed in a fluorescent-lighted studio adjoining the Carlton Room. Dr. Goldmark invented the CBS system, on which he has been working for nearly a decade.

Studio scenes were transmitted by telephone cable to the transmitter of WOIC, local television station, and then received off the air via antennas installed atop the hotel. First pictures shown the viewers presented a three-color test pattern, with onlookers commenting on technical aspects of the picture.

Pictures of live subjects brought ohs and ahs from the viewers as Patty Painter, New York model, and Jody Miller, Miss Washington of 1948, performed in brilliant gowns. Miss Miller sang selections from the musical show "South Pacific" while seated on a multi-hued davenport. She held a bouquet and wore a bright blue gown which was seen against a light-green backdrop. Three mannequins followed with a style show.

Dr. Goldmark showed the subjects in black-and-white as well as full color.

Live subjects and test patterns were demonstrated over a Washington-New York coaxial cable. Two types of cables were used, one with the 2.7 megacycle band now employed for network telecasts and the other with a 4-megacycle band. The latter showed better detail on test patterns, according to many of the viewers, but this was not so apparent when live programming was used.

Viewing engineers kept up a running fire of questioning, mostly dealing with flicker or flutter in the color pictures and color fidelity. The color range of the equipment was demonstrated by Miss Painter, who held up a series of gaudy scarves and a number of familiar household items such as cereal boxes and canned foods.

When the WOIC transmitter was no longer available because of the World Series, CBS continued its demonstrations with programs transmitted via a short cable from the adjoining studio.

Dr. Goldmark showed that a bright light aimed at the color screen had scarcely any effect on the picture whereas a black-and-white World Series picture on an adjoining screen appeared washed out, in the opinion of viewers. Many of the engineers thought that the "bubble" lens used in front of the color pictures reflected the lights from various parts of the room. CBS officials conceded the lens will have this effect.

The cause of science suffered a setback when Betty Cannon, Alexandria dancer, lost her blue lace skirt in a demonstration of the ability of the CBS system to use programs employing moving objects. Color receivers were turned off and the World Series turned on just as the Dodgers came to bat in the first half of the ninth.

By majority consent, the assembled officials and scientists studied the technical aspects of black-and-white television until the last Yankee was out in the ninth.

Winding up the day's show was a juggler who tossed white balls around, then red ones, and ended by juggling blue-gray Indian clubs. Viewers generally agreed that the color system held up well under this test of moving objects.

After CBS had closed its demonstration, Dr. Du Mont made his news conference statement. He declared no company has yet come up with a system that can be used commercially. "All you have seen is a limited range of program subjects," he said.

Dr. Du Mont said any color system finally adopted by the FCC should be a type that can be received in black-and-white on present TV receivers. Those who want to pay for color should be able to get color, he said, but the millions who have present types of receivers should be able to get the colored pictures on their sets in black-and-white.

He said color programs will be more costly to stage and involve higher transmitter expense. Referring specifically to the CBS system, Dr. Du Mont said the definition of the picture is not good enough for adoption since it can show only 405 lines instead of the present 525-line black-and-white pictures.

2-Year Drop in Age of Puberty In 2 Generations Is Reported

Berkeley, Calif., Oct. 6 (AP).—Puberty now is coming to children one to two years earlier than it did two generations ago, says a University of California child specialist, Prof. Harold E. Jones.

The average age for the beginning of adolescence in American and European girls now is about 13 years, he said, and recent data indicate a drop even below 13. Sixty years ago the average was between 15 and 16 years.

In the past 20 years boys have been reaching puberty at about 14 years of age, Jones said in a report made public tonight. Prior to 1900 the average was 15 to 16 years.

Why this is happening, Jones does not know. Some of the factors influencing the lives of children should delay rather than advance adolescence, he said. Among them are the efforts to reduce child mortality. This might be expected to produce a larger number of physically below average children with a tendency toward late maturity.

The best available explanation, Jones said, is that earlier development is due to environmental factors such as better nutrition, improved medical care and greater emphasis on mental welfare.

Earlier than average puberty is a handicap to girls but an advantage to boys, Professor Jones found. The precocious girl finds herself "physically very conspicuous" at a time when conspicuousness is not valued in her age group.

Late maturing girls do not have this trouble, Jones said, because they are in step with the average boy of their age group.

Boys who develop slowly, howver, are handicapped because their age group values physical strength and sports prowess.

Contrary to popular belief, puperty does not occur earlier in the tropics than in the temperate climates. The mean age for California girls was 13.1 years. This figure matches closely the age average found by other researchers elsewhere in the United States and Europe.

Studies in Brazil, Peru, Panama and the Philippines show the mean age for puberty in girls is one to two years more than 13.1, Professor Jones reported.

1934 Milk Act Ruling Seen

Richmond, Va., Oct. 6 (AP).—The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals today agreed to rule on the constitutionality of the State Milk and Cream Act of 1934.

The Supreme Court was asked to review the case by the Elizabeth City county board of supervisors and various civic organizations in the Newport News area after the act was upheld in Richmond City Circuit Court.

The ruling last March by Circuit Court Judge Harold F. Snead upholding the act said that "emergency is not the controlling element which justifies the Milk Control Act."

American Provincial Friendliness

expressed in your dining room in our softly glowing, comfort-wise maple furniture

Because so many modern dining rooms are scaled down, these hospitable pieces are junior size. Yet see how much stow-away room they offer . . . how easily you can back the table against a wall . . . or spread its leaves to dinner-party size. Its well-rubbed finish is a soft brown, that harmonizes well with other woods. Buying from open stock, you select the pieces exactly to your needs . . . and see how friendly the prices are, too.

Table with double, deep drop leaves	$70
China Cabinet . . . come marvel at its storage space	$125
Buffet . . . five roomy drawers and two cupboards	$125
The Chairs, with rayon-cotton covers, each	$18

Kaiser-Frazer Gets RFC Loan of $34 Million; Production of New Low-Price Car Indicated

By The Associated Press

Kaiser-Frazer Corp. borrowed $34,400,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday, with every indication that the money is to finance a new lower priced automobile.

The stated purpose of the loan is to "help complete their line of cars."

K-F is known to be well advanced on planning for a new model, reportedly to compete with Chevrolet, Ford and Plymouth in the low price bracket.

The loan is for 10 years at 4 percent, the usual terms of the Government lending agency.

This is the first time RFC has lent money to Kaiser-Frazer, though other interests of Henry J. Kaiser have been getting Government financing since early in the war. His Fontana steel mill in California, for instance, now owes RFC a balance of about 90 million dollars.

RFC's rules require industrial borrowers to try for private financing before they can get Government money. In the past K-F has obtained big loans from California's Bank of America, and from the Mellon National Bank in Pittsburgh.

The motor manufacturer was understood to want the money for tooling up for 1951 models.

K-F resumed assembly operations at Willow Run Monday after a five-day shutdown for inventory adjustment.

The shutdown, second such production cutoff this year, occasioned a good deal of speculation in the industry. There was nothing but optimism and determination, however, in statements from company officials busy with a program of efficiency and economy.

Part of the inventory adjustment, of course, covered cars in dealer hands, but such K-F stocks actually amount to about 10,000 cars. That is less than several K-F competitors have on hand. The industry total is about 600,000.

So far this year the company has put together about 54,000 vehicles, as compared with a little over 139,000 at this time in 1948.

"This is a rough business," one K-F official conceded as the assembly lines started rolling again "Perhaps it's a bit rougher than we thought when we got into it. But we're not scared. We know where we're going and we'll get there."

Trial Witness

Toy Maker Designed Tucker Auto

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP).—An Ohio toymaker testified today he designed Preston Tucker's rear-engine torpedo shaped automobile after Tucker drew one that "looked like a potato bug with wheels sticking out in the air."

The witness, first summoned by Federal prosecutors in the mail fraud trial of Tucker and seven associates, is George S. Lawson of Perry, Ohio, a partner in Future Products, Inc., a rubber toy business in Cleveland.

He said he drew up plans for Tucker's model car, which never went into production, in five weeks in 1944 at Tucker's request.

Tucker was elated over the blueprints, Lawson testified, and said the drawing board car would be accepted by the public because " 'it had the appearance of speed, like a car that was racing when standing still.' "

Truman Backs Party's Drive To Seat Olds

By the United Press

President Truman yesterday threw his support behind a party drive to whip Senate Democrats into line on his nomination of Leland Olds to the Federal Power Commission.

The President told a news conference that Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, jr., acted on his instructions in telegraphing State Democratic leaders to put the heat on their Senators to vote for Olds.

Mr. Truman said it was necessary for party discipline. He did not say what discipline would be imposed on Senators who vote against Olds' confirmation.

Boyle sent his telegrams Wednesday after the Senate Commerce Committee voted 10 to 2 against confirming Olds' nomination to a third term on the utility-regulating commission, despite an urgent plea from the President.

[Olds' second term on the FPC expired June 22. Mr. Truman sent his renomination to the Senate June 8 but action on confirmation has been delayed. Consequently, Olds has been out of his $10,000-a-year post since his term expired.—Editor's note.]

Senators opposing Olds for his allegedly "radical" views predicted he would not get more than 20 votes for confirmation when it comes up on the Senate floor next week, probably Monday.

Mr. Truman told reporters it is quite proper for the Democratic National Chairman to put pressure on Democratic Senators. He said party discipline and party loyalty are a necessary part of government under the two-party system.

He recalled that when he was a Senator he had the heat put on him many times by James A. Farley, then Democratic Chairman.

In one instance, he said, Farley put the pressure on him to vote for Alben W. Barkley, who was named Senate Democratic Leader in a one-vote victory over the late Senator Pat Harrison (D., Miss.). Mr. Truman said he voted for Harrison because of a prior commitment and he had nothing against Barkley, now his Vice President.

Confronted with his own example of bucking the President and party chairman, reporters asked Mr. Truman what he would do about a similar case in the Olds dispute.

Mr. Truman laughed until his face was red.

Then, he explained that the circumstances are different. The Harrison-Barkley race was purely an intra party matter and, he said, he would have voted for Barkley if he had known about the Roosevelt-Farley wishes before committing himself to Harrison.

CSC Rules Rogers Eligible to Keep Examiner's Job

The Civil Service Commission held yesterday that Will Rogers, former Oklahoma Congressman, is eligible to continue as a $10,000 a year hearing examiner for the Agriculture Department.

In announcing its decision, the commission disregarded recommendations of civilian consultants who investigated Rogers' case.

The consultants reported that while Rogers met general requirements for the office he did not have six years' experience in conducting hearings or acting as an attorney at hearings.

When Congress decreed that Agricultural Department hearing examiners should be under Civil Service Commission control, the CSC appointed the civilian consultants to investigate qualifications of examiners then serving.

Rogers appealed from the ineligible rating given him by the consultants.

UMW Chief Agrees To Mediate Tieup

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

A two-word telegram from John L. Lewis yesterday gave at least a long-shot chance of success to the Federal mediation conference scheduled here today in the soft-coal strike.

The often-brusque boss of the 400,000 striking United Mine Workers wired "Will Attend" to an invitation to participate in the conciliation session called by Cyrus S. Ching, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

Ching, who stayed home all day yesterday nursing a cold, will meet this morning with Lewis and top spokesmen for the coal industry in an effort to find a formula for settling the walkout which began September 19.

Contract Talks Halted

It will be the first time this year the Government has entered the coal dispute. But, as Ching pointed out earlier in the week, the coal strike must be ended if any settlement of the steel strike is to be effective.

At White Sulphur Springs and Bluefield, W. Va., spokesmen for the major segments of the coal industry broke off contract talks with union representatives so the officials could leave for the Washington conference. "No tangible progress" was reported at any of the collective-bargaining tables.

Without specifically detailing what he wants for his miners, Lewis has indicated he will hold out for shorter hours, higher pay and an increase in the present 20-cent-a-ton contribution to the miners' welfare fund. The welfare fund benefits were suspended in mid-September for lack of funds.

At his press conference yesterday, President Truman said in reply to questions that Cabinet-level warnings about the seriousness of the steel and coal strikes were both well-timed and necessary. Mr. Truman added, however, that the strikes had not yet reached the point where it was necessary for him to intervene.

2 More Plants Idled

The six-day steel strike, which has idled a half-million CIO Steelworkers—who are demanding company-financed welfare benefits—yesterday showed little change in the deadlock.

The union struck two more plants, 15,000 at Atlantic Steel in Atlanta and 2800 at Acme Steel, Riverdale, near Chicago.

First "incident" in the steel walkout was reported yesterday at East Chicago, Ind., where two officials of Inland Steel were refused entry into the plant by pickets. The officials argued with the pickets for 30 minutes, then left the scene. Near Pittsburgh, other union men picketed the unorganized Mesta Machine Co. plant.

Pinch of the steel strike was being felt acutely in Detroit, where some 25,000 workers were idled. Packard laid off 7856 employes until Monday. The Briggs Manufacturing Co., which makes bodies for Packard, laid off 5000 employes.

Both companies plan to resume operations Monday on a reduced schedule because of lack of steel. Over 12,000 steelworkers also are out of work in the automobile capital.

Hartley Blames Truman

The steel strike idled 13 iron-ore carriers in Cleveland harbor. The unloading job is usually done by the striking steelworkers. A similar tie-up is reported at other Great Lakes docks.

At Battle Creek, Mich., former Representative Fred A. Hartley, jr. (R., N. J.) blamed President Truman for the steel strike. The co-author of the Taft-Hartley Act insisted the walkout could have been averted if, instead of setting up a special fact-finding committee, the President had used Taft-Hartley procedure instead.

The "basic mistake," according to Hartley, was the presentation of recommendations—for company-paid insurance and pensions—by the President's fact-finding panels. A Taft-Hartley fact-finding board is limited to presenting the facts and is prohibited specifically from making recommendations.

AFL Renews Plea to CIO For Unity

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 6 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor today renewed its bid for a merger with the CIO.

The AFL convention authorized its leaders to "initiate and support" unity efforts. The action may prompt new merger negotiations with the CIO.

Several prior CIO-AFL merger talks have bogged down over the relative influence rival leaders of the two organizations would have in a single, new labor group. There is no indication this and other basic defficulties have been overcome.

But the AFL convention today declared that "cooperation in the economic and legislative fields, as in the political field, can be only partially successful as long as division within the ranks of labor continues."

Dan Tobin, head of the Teamsters Union, criticized John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, for pulling his union out of the AFL two years ago. Tobin pleaded for labor's organic unity by saying:

"The curse of the labor movement is that we are in three or four families. If we were united we could handle the Tafts and Hartleys without much trouble. No wonder these men laugh at us."

Some reply to the AFL's latest merger invitation may come from the CIO convention at Cleveland later this month. Right now both CIO President Philip Murray and Lewis are busy directing strikes in the steel and coal industries.

In another convention action the AFL pledged an organizing drive in Hawaii where Harry Bridges, head of the CIO Longshoremen's Union, now has an upper hand among workers.

A. S. Reile, convention delegate from Honolulu, said AFL unions are losing ground in Hawaii. He urged AFL support to prevent "Communist influences from bringing about another Pearl Harbor" through Hawaii's workers.

House approval in Washington of expanded Social Security legislation was hailed by AFL President William Green as "the outstanding legislative victory for labor during this session of Congress."

Green called for quick Senate action on the measure this year and said the AFL will also press for approval of the Administration's health insurance plan.

The convention unanimously approved resolutions calling on Congress to pass legislation for Federal aid to education and middle-income housing.

Police Recover Suitcase Of Chinese Ambassador

New York, Oct. 6. (U.P.)—Police finally found out today what happened to Dingle-Dingle and Wellington Koo's suitcase.

They arrested six men accused of a systematic looting of parked cars. Among the stolen items was a suitcase belonging to the Chinese Ambassador to the United States and a performing dog named Dingle-Dingle.

They recovered the suitcase.

Dockers Set To End Strike

on wage hikes for non-stevedoring employes in outside ports.

Bridges had flown here October 1 when his island stevedores were in the 154th day of the walkout.

The strike in six Hawaiian ports cost the Territory and its people more than 100 million dollars by the end of September.

Research Associates of Honolulu placed the loss rate at one million dollars a day in mid-September. Earlier estimates by the Hawaii Economic Foundation were smaller.

However, a brisk revival of shipping was brought about through Territorial dock operations ordered by the Legislature. A fleet of barges and small ships operated under "escrow contracts" in late September was presumed by officials to have cut the rate of loss.

Deputy Tax Commissioner Torkel Westly estimated the Territory was losing $39,000 a month in payroll taxes directly due to the strike.

Taxes and income to the Territory from sugar and pineapple exports—the island's main economy—were delayed but not entirely lost. But 61 million dollars worth of sugar and 50 million dollars worth of pineapple were backed up in warehouses.

The Matson Co., largest ocean transportation company serving the islands, estimated that immobilization of its big liner, Lurline, and 10 freighters would cost $20,000 a day.

Funds Bill Deadlock Is Broken on 'Hill'

By the United Press

Under the promise it may quit soon, Congress broke a long deadlock on $841,918,190 of Federal spending yesterday and moved up other bills providing for additional billions.

The $841,918,190 was provided in two appropriation bills on which the Senate and House finally agreed and forwarded to the White House.

The additional billions—$2,328,387,447—represented the total of four other bills that got either floor or committee approval in the adjournment-drive flurry.

Another big spending measure—the 14 billion dollar defense budget—continued deadlocked, however, on an argument over how much should be spent on the Air Force and stockpiling of strategic materials.

Sent Back to House

Efforts at compromise collapsed and the bill was sent back to the House for another vote Monday. The House must decide whether it will agree to Senate cuts of 806 million dollars in Air Force funds and 275 million dollars for stockpiling.

Senators objected that the House figures for defense spending were one billion dollars higher than the President's budget requests and would run the Government still deeper into the red.

The day's accomplishments, particularly on the big spending bills, included:

Final congressional action on a bill providing $664,178,190 for rivers and harbors and flood control work by the Army Corps of Engineers. It was the one that House speakers said was loaded with Senate "pork." The House approved it by a roll call vote of 269 to 18 and the Senate approved it by voice vote. It now goes to the White House.

Final action on a $177,740,000 deficiency bill providing funds for several Government agencies. It also goes to the White House.

House approval of $584,098,797 for the Interior Department, including $354,014,510 for reclamation projects. The compromise version is $11,163,460 less than originally approved by the Senate and $37,636,889 more than the House originally voted. It now goes to the Senate, where it may be voted on today.

Loans for Works Plans

Final action on a bill to authorize 100 million dollars in Federal loans to States and local governments for planning public works projects to be built in the future. Sponsors said it would provide a three-billion-dollar backlog of public works as a hedge against some future depression.

Senate approval, by voice vote, of a bill to authorize up to 80 million dollars a year in Federal subsidies to stimulate exploration for strategic and critical ores, metals and minerals. It now goes to the House.

Approval by the Senate Public Works Committee of an omnibus rivers and harbors and flood control bill carrying authorizations that totaled $1,564,228,650. The Senate committee added projects costing $447,228,650 to what the House had voted. The authorization bill now goes to the Senate. Funds for it would have to be provided later in a separate appropriation measure.

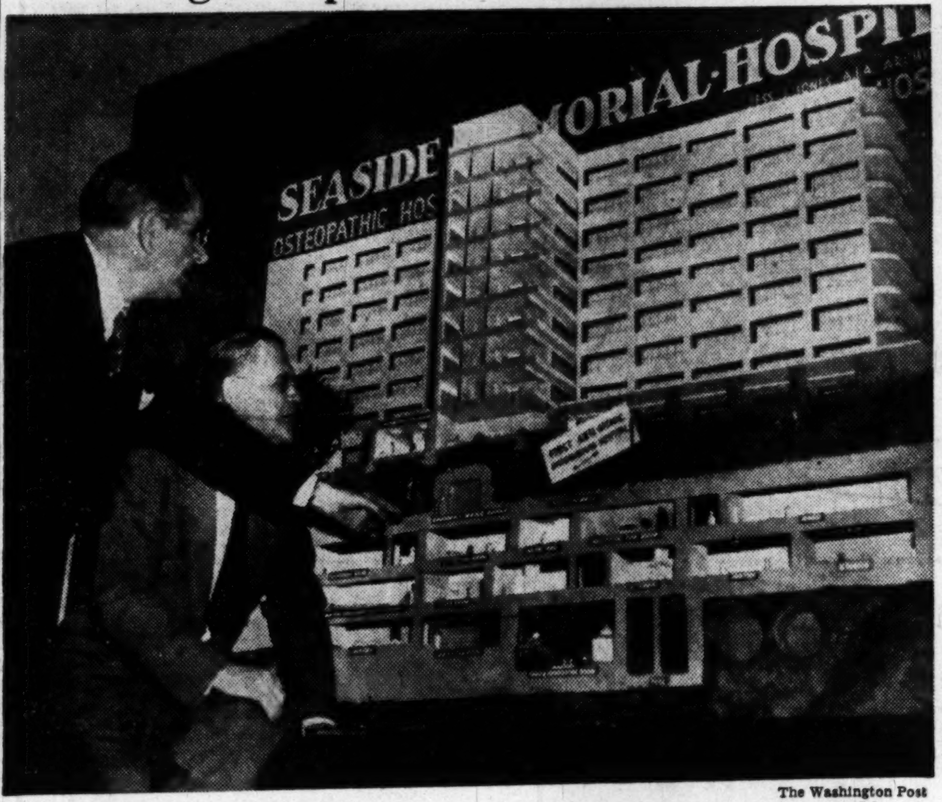
Atomic Age Hospital Model . . .



The Washington Post

Smithsonian Will Get 1st British Turbo-Jet

Great Britain yesterday announced it will give the United States the first turbo-jet engine ever to power a British aircraft in flight.

The engine is one of two Whittle originals built in the dawn of the jet era—about 10 years ago. It will be presented to the Smithsonian Institution on November 8 by Sir Oliver Franks, British Ambassador.

Model of Atom Bomb-Proof Hospital Is Unveiled Here

A $3000 model of a proposed atomic bombproof underground hospital was unveiled here yesterday.

The model, which will be exhibited here at Hotel Mayyflower for the remainder of the week, was designed this summer for consolidation plans of three Long Beach, California, hospitals.

Its three-story subterranean structure and revamping of present above-ground facilities would cost an estimated 20 million dollars, its sponsors said. They hope the exhibition will stir Government officials to help in financing the project.

Two Support Project

Two California Representatives Clyde Doyle, Democrat, and Gordon L. McDonough, Republican, jointly officiated at the unveiling in the hotel's Sapphire Room. Both urged encouragement of its building and the promotion of other defenses against atomic bomb attack for civilian morale as well as future use.

The proposed hospital would have subterranean wards, laboratories and service facilities capable of accommodating up to 5000 persons in event of atom bomb attack. A 22-foot covering of solid earth would be the main shock cushioner. Underground bed capacity would be 2750 beds, or about three times the capacity of the three hospitals.

Doyle Urges Support

"It is essential that the Federal Government and all its departments take demonstrative and experimental steps to inspire and encourage all communities . . . to embark upon programs of civil defense," Congressman Doyle declared.

In a more critical vein, Congressman McDonough declared that "billions have been spent for the military defense of the United States and for the defense of foreign nations abroad, but to date the Administration has failed to propose plans to provide adequate defense for our civilian population."

17 Area Men Are Named for Commissions

Seventeen men from Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia are among 421 enlisted men nominated by President Truman for second lieutenants in the Regular Army, subject to Senate confirmation.

Staff Journal Of Agriculture Dept. Issued

First issue of the AERA Reporter, unofficial fortnightly for Agriculture Department employes, is now out.

The Reporter is published by the Agriculture Employes Recreation Association, which set aside $200 to experiment with the project. But the first issue has already paid for itself in advertising, according to T. Swann Harding, editor in chief, who is also editor of USDA Employe News Bulletin, official house organ for the department.

In addition, there willl be some revenue from the sale price of the publication, one cent a copy. Some 7500 copies of the first, six-page issue were run off.

The staff is composed of department employes. Besides Harding, it includes Ike Arneson, news editor; Hilja Ketola, features; Lance G. Hooks, photography; Edward J. Seidel, anvertising, and George E. Hanna, circulation.

Truck Driver Acquitted

Maurice W. Hager, Lanham (Md.) truck driver, was acquitted in Hyattsville police court yesterday of manslaughter and reckless driving charges resulting from the death of a 20-month-old Greenbelt (Md.) boy on Tuesday.

Hager, 43, employed by the city of Greenbelt as a garbage truck operator, was exonerated by Judge Arthur P. Owens in the death of Daniel Eugene Brown, who was crushed beneath the wheels of a city garbage truck in front of his home at 15-R Laurel Hill rd. in Greenbelt.

Judge Owens, in releasing Hager, said testimony had brought out no evidence of gross negligence in connection with the accident, "nor of any other form of negligence to warrant finding this man guilty of any charge."

$12.60 in Stolen Purse

Miss Olga H. Roper, 26, 1417 N st. nw., told police her pocketbook containing $12.60 was snatched from her lap yesterday by two youths while she was sitting in the park at 8th st. and Independence ave. sw.

Senate Confirms Chapin As Netherlands Envoy

The Senate yesterday confirmed the nomination of Selden Chapin of Washington, D. C., to be the United States Ambassador to the Netherlands.

Also confirmed was the nomination of Lowell B. Mason, Chicago Republican, for a seven-year term on the Federal Trade Commission.

The Senate also approved Myron M. Cowen of New York to be the United States representative at the fifth session of United Nations Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East.

Police Declare $4000 Holdup Was 'False'

Montgomery County police yesterday branded as "false" the report of a $4000 payroll holdup made September 23 by Thomas Pigmataro, a bricklaying contractor.

The 25-year-old Pignataro told police he was robbed by four men who stopped his auto, ostensibly to ask directions, at Franklin and Flower avenues in Silver Spring. He said he was carrying a payroll for workmen on several of his jobs in Montgomery County.

A World War II veteran, he lives at 764 Princeton pl. nw. The company's offices are at 508 14th st. nw.

Police 'Lookout' Ended

A cancellation of the 13-State lookout for the four men was sent over the interstate teletype from Rockville headquarters yesterday.

The order, authorized by Lieut. G. W. Linthicum, chief of detectives, read in part:

"From certain verbal admissions made by the victim that the holdup and robbery report was false, and from other facts brought out during the investigation, the case will be closed at this time."

There is no penalty in Montgomery County for making a false report to police.

Linthicum told reporters that Pignataro, under questioning at the Silver Spring station, admitted the report was false. Later, however, he said Pignataro returned with an attorney and repudiated his statement, contending he made it after being "browbeaten in a smoke-filled room."

Claim for Money Filed

The decision to close the case was reached, the detective head said, after a conference with State's Attorney Walter W. Dawson and Chief of Police Charles M. Orme.

Pignataro made no statement on how the money was disposed of, Linthicum said.

A spokesman for the American Casualty Co. said Pignataro has filed a claim for the entire amount. The claim has not been acted on, he said.

Insanity Plea Expected in Holober Case

T. Brooke Howard of Alexandria yesterday said he has agreed to act as attorney for Charles F. Holober, who faces trial in Fairfax on charges of murdering his wife and baby last February 26.

Howard indicated he intends to plead insanity for the 40-year-old former Washington jewelry store clerk, despite a report from the Southwestern State Hospital at Marion, Va., pronouncing Holober sane. Holober was kept at Marion under observation for more than six months.

Howard said, "I believe from what I have learned in talking to the family and the defendant that he was not at the time (of the killings) capable of distinguishing right from wrong.

"At the proper time, I expect to submit competent medical testimony to prove it. If successful, I will ask that he be committed to a mental instituton for the rest of his life."

Holober, who lived at 1216 Girard st., is accused of shooting his 37-year-old estranged wife at a remote nudist camp between Pender and Herndon in Fairfax County, and then burying their 8-month-old daughter alive alongside her in a shallow grave.

He was indicted on two separate murder charges before he was sent to Marion for observation. No date has been set for the trial.

Hannegan, 46, Dies; 'Stopped' Wallace

Roosevelt well in advance of the Democratic national convention in Chicago in 1944.

He said he also talked to the outstanding city bosses of that time—Kelly of Chicago, Hague of Jersey City and Flynn of the Bronx.

At least two of these bosses, he said, felt he was just borrowing unnecessary trouble.

He said their attitude was, "As long as we have the Big Fellow (Roosevelt), what difference does it make who else is on the ticket?"

"Understanding" Claimed

Hannegan said that he finally persuaded Roosevelt that he owed it to the party and the country to get rid of Wallace, and that they had an understanding on it well ahead of the Chicago convention.

Much of this is substantiated in the recently published book, "F.D.R., My Boss," by Grace Tully, who was President Roosevelt's private secretary.

She recounts how Hannegan strongly advised the President that Wallace was not acceptable to the convention delegates. As an alternative, Roosevelt suggested Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, but Hannegan proposed Truman.

According to Miss Tully's account the President wrote a letter to Hannegan just before the convention met in Chicago in which he said that either Douglas or Truman (in that order) would be acceptable to him as a running mate. The President then left by train for the West Coast.

At Hannegan's request, the Presidential train stopped over in the Chicago yards so Hannegan could again discuss politics with Roosevelt aboard the train.

Emerges With Letter

After a lengthy conference, Miss Tully relates, Hannegan came from the President's sitting room carrying the letter naming Douglas or Truman as an acceptable running mate.

She writes that he came directly to her and said:

"Grace, the President wants you to retype this letter and to switch these names so it will read 'Harry Truman or Bill Douglas.'"

By naming Truman first, writes Miss Tully, it was plainly implied that he was the preferred choice of the President.

Truman was Hannegan's choice for the No. 2 spot on the ticket even before Truman had a glimmering of the campaign. Six or seven months before the 1944 convention, Hannegan bet Edward A. Harris, St. Louis Post-Dispatch Washington correspondent, a new hat that Truman would be the Vice Presidential choice of the convention.

Hannegan later confided to Harris that he also had to sell Truman on the nomination.

By prearranged plan, there was a telephone call between Roosevelt, aboard his train in the Chicago yards, and Hannegan in his hideout hotel room in Chicago, according to Harris.

Truman was listening in and heard Roosevelt say that he would be happy to have Truman as a running mate. That was clincher enough for the Senator from Missouri.

Roosevelt, of course, fully realized that the conversation was to be heard by Truman, Hannegan told Harris.

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch newsman is also authority for the story that Hannegan made repeated attempts to have Wallace withdraw as a candidate before the convention. Harris says that several weeks before the 1944 convention, Hannegan visited Wallace's Washington apartment and appealed to him to withdraw in the interest of the party, but Wallace met this plea with a flat refusal.

With Hannegan there was nothing personal in his campaign to shunt Wallace aside in favor of Truman. It was strictly politics. In fact, say his friends, Hannegan got to like Wallace much more after this.

Something Like Farley

There was something of the flavor of Jim Farley to Hannegan. He remembered names and faces and was a practical politician.

But his close friends claimed he gained added stature after his elevation to the Cabinet as Postmaster General in July, 1945, that his liberal views often clashed with those of more conservative members of the Cabinet.

Washington also knew him as a careful dresser. He wore expensive ties. His suits were always immaculate. Some considered him handsome.

He liked night life and was an intimate of many of the country's top entertainers. Once, he took Toots Shor, the New York restaurateur, and Singer Frank Sinatra to the White House for tea.

But it was not always bright lights and political prominence for Hannegan. He was born in St. Louis, the son of a policeman and of Irish, Welsh and English ancestry.

Played Pro Baseball

He worked his way through college and law school at St. Louis University. Part of his tuition was paid from wages he received as a professional baseball player. He played in a small league near St. Louis. In high school and college he played football and later coached the St. Louis University football team.

Hannegan started as a ward politician, first as a member and then chairman of the St. Louis Democratic City Central Committee. It was in 1940 that his destiny was cast with that of Truman.

Truman faced formidable opposition in Missouri for renomination to the U. S. Senate. Hannegan's 11th-hour efforts with St. Louis ward leaders were credited by many with swinging the big city vote in Truman's favor, thus offsetting the margin against him throughout the rest of the State.

Truman remembered the favor. At his insistence, Hannegan was named Collector of Internal Revenue at St. Louis in 1942 by President Roosevelt. He was elevated to the post of Internal Revenue Commissioner the following year.

Democratic Leader Dies at His Home

ROBERT HANNEGAN
Heart fails

Hannegan was only 41 and virtually unknown in national politics when Roosevelt selected him in 1944 to revitalize a creaking Democratic Party machine and direct the fourth-term campaign.

Comments Angered Roosevelt

Hannegan accompanied President Roosevelt when the 1944 campaign visit to New York City was made. That was at a time when there were worried comments in the press about the state of the President's health. Hannegan later said that this angered Roosevelt, that before they left for New York, the President declared, "I hope it rains."

It did rain, and with a vengeance. The President rode through New York in a downpour.

Because of his failing health, Hannegan resigned his chairmansip of the party machinery in the fall of 1947. And in late November of 1947 he also resigned his Cabinet post.

As Hannegan severed his last official tie with party and Government, it was announced that he and other members of a syndicate had purchased the St. Louis Cardinals, the National League baseball team in Hannegan's home town.

Just over a year later, he sold his interest to his major partner, Fred M. Saigh, at a price reported unofficially as one million dollars. He said his doctor had ordered him to take a year's rest.

An active Catholic, Hannegan fulfilled a long-time dream this past summer when he took his family to Europe and had a private audience with the Pope. He was made a Knight of St. Gregory, Grand Order of the Holy Cross, by the Pope in 1946.

Hannegan's last meeting with Mr. Truman was at a testimonial dinner in Kansas City last Thursday night for William M. Boyle, the new party chairman who once was Hannegan's assistant. Mr. Truman mentioned at that dinner that Hannegan "had something to do" with his becoming President.

Executive "Distressed"

The President's press secretary, Charles G. Ross, said the Chief Executive was "terribly distressed" at the news of Hannegan's death and had sent a message of condolence to the family.

Other political leaders in Washington joined in the tribute to Hannegan.

Vice President Barkley said he was "shocked" by the news and said of Hannegan: "He was a faithful public servant and patriotic citizen. The country will mourn his death."

Boyle, the new party chairman, said: "The unexpected death of Robert Hannegan is a tragic loss to the Nation and to the Democratic Party. My personal grief is deep, for Bob Hannegan was a close friend."

Mrs. Hannegan, the former Irma Protzman, and three of their four children, Patricia, Sally and William, were at Hannegan's bedside when he died. Another son, Robert E. Hannegan, jr., was here in Washington, where he is a student at Georgetown University.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 10 a. m. at St. Louis Cathedral.

Fairlington Fire Station Fund Sought

The Arlington County Board will be asked this Saturday to appropriate $3500 for purchase of the Fairlington Fire Station from the Federal Government.

County Manager A. T. Lundberg said yesterday the Federal Bureau of Community Facilities had accepted the county's purchase officer for the fire station constructed in 1944, with $12,236 in Lanham Act funds. It is situated in the 3100 block of S. Abingdon st., Arlington, and has been used by the county since its construction.

The Fairlington station, if purchased, will be the first county-owned fire station, according to Lundberg. All others are the property of volunteer fire companies.

Lundberg said yesterday negotiations also are under way for acquisition of the County Health Department building, at 1800 N. Edison st. Occupied by the county since its construction in 1944, its original cost was $163,000. No purchase price has been set.

Other items scheduled for consideration at the County Board meeting, to be held at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the Courthouse building, are:

A progress report on a survey now being conducted of the county's insurance coverage.

Approval of a proposed contract for a $6500 engineering survey on the adequacy of present pumping stations in the county's sewer system.

C-47 Hunt Centers On Mt. Mitchell

Sensor

Cross

Jett

Clark

Search for a C-47 transport plane, missing from Bolling Air Force Base, last night centered on Mount Mitchell, N. C., where mountaineers reported they heard a loud explosion Wednesday morning.

Searchers there were hampered badly by heavy mists and rain as they futiley checked the steep slopes of the 6684-foot mountain.

As danrkness fell, and with it cold rain, one party of searchers gave up. Another group of 15 men continued.

"You'd almost have to step on the wreckage to find it in the heavy fog surrounding the mountain." said Russell Reynolds, engineer for FM Station WMIT, which has its transmitter on Mt. Mitchell.

Reynolds said Capt. C. K. Maxwell, of the Fifth Air Rescue Squadron, Greenville, S. C., had arrived on the scene and had ordered an air search to begin tomorrow as soon as the fog lifts.

Nor were about 50 sorties by planes from Bolling over the area between Washington and Roanoke, Va., any more successful. Bad weather kept the searchers from the mountainous regions.

The C-47, with nine men aboard, seven of them stationed at Bolling, left Washington at 8:55 a. m. Wednesday, en route to Mobile. Ala. The route was directly over Mount Mitchell, where the explosion was reported about 11 a. m. the same day. The plane has not been heard from since it left the base here.

Meanwhile, anxious families of the missing airmen kept vigil by their telephones and radios at home, waiting for word of the overdue plane. They were given hourly bulletins by Bolling personnel.

On the missing plane, according to Bolling spokesmen, were:

Capt. John W. Sensor, 27, of 4206 Wheeler rd. se., the pilot.

First Lieut. Frank J. Clark, 26, of 15 Danbury st. se., copilot.

Capt. John J. Jett, 31, of 1600 Fort Davis pl. se.

First Lieut. Charles W. Cross, 26, of 1014 Barnaby ter. se.

T/Sergt. Walter E. Crosby, 27, of 331 Anacostia rd. se., crew chief.

S/Sergt. Reginald E. Silva, 29, of 2927 1st st. se.

S/Sergt. John W. McDonald, 35, of 829 Virginia ave., Hagerstown Md.

Pfc. C. J. Grimes, stationed at Fort Belvoir.

Pvt. Louis H. Acree, stationed at Fort Meade.

Captain Jett, Lieutenant Cross and Sergeant Silva were to bring back a B-25 from Brookley Air Force Base, near Mobile, where the plane was due Wednesday at 1:24 p. m. Privates Grimes and Acree were described as hitchhikers.

Rescue Planes Ready

In addition to search parties sent out from Bolling to Roanoke, beginning at dawn yesterday, there were searchers operating from Greenville, S. C., from Maxwell Air Force Base at Montgomery, Ala., and MacDill Air Force Base, Tampa, Fla.

The search concentrated during the late morning on Mount Mitchell, highest peak east of the Mississippi, after the mountaineers reported hearing the explosion. Their report did not come until they had learned about the missing plane.

They later said the mountain was fog-bound at the time and they thought the explosion was only a mine blast.

Bolling officials said rescue planes are prepared to drop parachute doctors as soon as the plane is sighted.

3 Patrolmen Are Suspended In Alexandria

Alexandria Police Superintendent Edgar Sims yesterday announced the suspension of three patrolmen pending investigation of charges of conduct unbecoming an officer.

Sims refused to disclose the nature of the charges against the officers. He said he would make a complete report to City Manager W. Guy Ancell today after he had completed his investigation.

The suspended officers, Sims said, were: Clinton G. Ferguson, 26, of 314 Prince st.; Jack W. Holmes, 26, of 105 E. Windsor ave.; and William J. Vaughn, jr., 24, of 323 Mansion dr., all of Alexandria. Ferguson and Holmes have been members of the department for three years, Sims said. Vaughn has been a policeman for about a year and a half.

Sims heard testimony at a closed hearing yesterday morning. The city has no police trial board, and the city manager will have final authority in the case.

Sims said as far as he knew no other policemen were involved.

Truman Alone Cuts Expenses, He Says

In a homily-coining mood, President Truman yesterday observed ruefully that it is always the Chief Executive who carries out economy drives. The rest of the people just talk about it.

The crack came at his weekly press conference, when a reporter asked if a recent mention of an economy wave by Defense Secretary Johnson meant that the program was confined to the armed services.

Not at all, Mr. Truman replied. It extends to other departments, all of which have cut down. Some day, he went on, he would present startling figures to prove the point. He mentioned particularly cuts in the Agriculture Department.

Enjoys Press Talks

The Chief Executive opened his conference with the observation that yesterday was the 200th such meeting with the press since he assumed office, some 234 weeks ago.

He likes press conferences, he said, and doesn't even get annoyed with the reporters. But, he added quickly, sometimes he gets annoyed with the reporters' bosses.

In answer to questions over a wide range of subjects, Mr. Truman declared:

The steel and coal strikes have not reached points at which it would be necessary for him to intervene.

Progress Report

The Army's recent report on steps toward equality for Negro personnel was only a progress report, but a good one. There will be continuing recommendations and eventually there will be reached what was contemplated in the beginning. But all that is hoped for cannot be done at once.

The President has given attention to the program for development of synthetic fuel, in connection with shale deposits in Utah, and experiments for making liquid fuel from coal in Virginia.

He refused to comment on the current controversy in the Defense Establishment regarding the Navy. The matter of Captain Crommelin's circulation of confidential letters was something for the Secretary of the Navy to handle, and he was so instructed.

No arrangements have been made on the President's going to New York State in connection with the senatorial campaign.

There is no news yet on appointments to fill a vacancy on the Securities and Exchange Commission and the chairmanship of the Munitions Board.

Steel Strike Eyed

Boom in '50 Forecast by Dr. Nourse

By Robert S. Allen

Dr. Edwin Nourse, head of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, has become so optimistic about the economic outlook that he is predicting 1950 will be a boom year.

He voiced this view in a private talk to a gathering of Washington physicians.

The only threatening factor, in Nourse's opinion, is a protracted steel strike. He did not comment on that possibility.

He did talk about the coal strike, and minimized it as a disruptive influence. Nourse stressed that not only is President Truman unworried about a prolonged coal strike, but is prepared to take forceful action to avert it.

"The President, having been elected by the people of the country, is very reluctant to have his powers superseded by John L. Lewis, or anyone else," Nourse said. "The President is prepared to demonstrate to Mr. Lewis who is running the country. The President has dealt with the head of the United Mine Workers before and knows how to handle that situation.

"The President is not intervening in the steel problem, for the present. He still has hopes that it will be cleared up quickly."

Nourse also made some significant remarks on the need for reducing military appropriations.

"National security is vital, of course," he said, "and a strong defense is essential in the kind of international situation that prevails. But as conditions permit, there must be a reduction in military costs. The present load is tremendous, and constitutes a very serious problem. If the economy is to be stabilized, there must be a gradual curtailment in military expenditures. The military cannot continue indefinitely to absorb the greater part of Government funds."

Thirst Is His Undoing

New York, Oct. 6 (U.P.)—Harry Springham, a thirsty real estate agent, was charged today with rent gouging. A Manhattan grand jury charged that he required one prospective tenant to give him a case of champagne, a case of Scotch and a case of rye, valued at $300.

'Boondoggling'

Group Votes To Cut GI School Frills

By the United Press

The Senate Labor Committee yesterday unanimously approved legislation to cut down on "boondoggling" with Federal funds under the veterans' educational program.

The bill was drafted by the committee to give legislative support to Veterans' Administrator Carl R. Gray, jr. Gray has issued a series of orders intended to tighten up the GI educational program all along the line.

The committee acted shortly after a Veterans' Administration spokesman said that former GIs on strike can receive education benefits "if they otherwise qualify." He added that the qualifications are service in World War II and proof that all allowable benefits have not been used up.

The statement was prompted by reports from Provo, Utah, that scores of strike-idled steelworkers are flocking to the Central Utah Vocational Training School. There they are claiming monthly subsistence alowances of $75, if single, and $120, if married with one or more children.

The committee bill would strike heavily at the so-called "recreational" courses which have prompted much of the criticism of the GI education program.

It would require veterans to present affidavits that they would be helped in earning a living before they could take courses in these fields:

Dancing, photography, bartending, glider flying, personality development, entertainment, music, public speaking, sports and other courses determined to be "recreational" by the Veterans Administration.

Noronic Skipper Reprimanded for Alarm

Toronto, Oct. 6 (AP).—Capt. William Taylor, master of the cruise ship Noronic, was reprimanded by a Canadian government commissioner today for not thinking of getting more passengers ashore when fire engulfed the ship September 17.

Captain Taylor told the commissioner, Mr. Justice R. L. Kellock, that other than shouting and banging on cabin windows he made no other effort to rouse passengers and assist them from the blazing ship.

"What were you thinking of?" asked Kellock. "Why did you not realize, since you knew the fire was beyond control, you should do all you could to help passengers ashore?"

"I tried to make as much noise as I could," the captain said.

The commissioner asked Taylor why four crew members including the captain moved along in a group.

"Didn't it occur to you to send some of the others to try to rouse passengers some place else?" the commissioner asked.

"It didn't occur to me," said the captain. He added he was confused.

Bus and Truck Collide, Killing Seven Children

Rocky Mount, N. C., Oct. 6 (U.P.). A crowded school bus sideswiped an ice truck on a narrow rural bridge today, killing 7 children and injuring 20 others one critically.

School authorities said 60 to 65 children, most of them elementary pupils, were aboard the bus.

The highway patrol said the bus rounded a curve, with bushes blocking the driver's view, and met the truck on a bridge only about 17 feet wide.

Among the injured was Charles Bryant, 18, driver of the school bus, whose younger brother and sister were killed.

The dead were Julian and Shelby Jean Bryant, Carolyn and Joanne Debman, sisters, and Judy Massey, all of Zebulon, N. C., Robert Carter and Bobby Strickland of Middlesex.

Milton May Bryant of Spring Hope, driver of the truck, received only minor injuries.

Queen Slated To Get Crown At Road Fete

Crowning of Miss Hyattsville will highlight the celebration of the opening of Queens Chaped rd. extension, it was announced yesterday.

The celebration will be held at the intersection of Queens Chapel rd. and Hamilton st. on a Saturday "about the middle of next month." The exact date will be set when the State Roads Commission determines completion date for the road extension.

Miss Hyattsville will be chosen by the public through free ballots to be printed in the three weekly newspapers. Ballot boxes will be set up in stores and offices in the city.

Candidates must be at least 18 years of age and bona fide residents of Hyattsville. Anyone can vote "and as often as desired," according to the announcement by the sponsoring committee of Hyattsville businessmen and civic leaders.

Douglas Denies Betrothal Rumor About Daughter

Florence, Italy, Oct. 6 (AP).—Lewis W. Douglas, U. S. Ambassador to Britain, denied tonight that his daughter, Sharman, just turned 21, is engaged.

The Earl of Westmoreland, who is accompaning the Douglases on their Italian vacation, blushed as the Ambassador told a reporter Sharman is not engaged. Also present were Mrs. Douglas and Sharman.

"I am just having a vacation in Italy," the 25-year-old earl said, "and will be returning soon to London."

Ship Movement Granted

Canton, Oct. 6 (AP).—Nationalist authorities today approved safe conduct through the blockade for three ships, two British and one American, to evacuate foreigners wishing to leave Communist-controlled Shanghai.

English Labor Party Has Election Plans

London, Oct. 6 (NYHT).—Labor Party campaign machinery is in shape for a fall general election, if one is called, Richard Windle, national agent of the party, said today.

Windle emphasized that preparedness does not necessarily mean a general election is imminent.

A flurry of new speculation concerning the election was whipped up tonight over tentative arrangements for a meeting of the cabinet next Thursday. But a government spokesman pointed out tonight that the date of a general election is not a cabinet decision. It is Prime Minister Clement Attlee's.

Medical Fee Plans Hit By Bevan

London, Oct. 6 (AP).—Health Minister Aneurin Bevan opposed today charging fees to cut the cost of Britain's socialized medicine.

But, he said, Britons should "use the service as intelligently and prudently as possible."

He indicated at his first news conference in three years that socialized medicine is costing more than 250 million pounds (700 million dollars) budgeted for it this year. But he declined to give any figures.

Bevan said 41,200,000 Britons, about 95 percent of the population, have signed up for medical treatment. They pay an average of 5 shillings (70 cents) each week in social security deductions, of which 8 pence (9 1/3 cents) goes to the medical program. Public tax funds pay the remainder.

There have been certain abuses, he told newsmen, but, everything considered, the performance was "remarkably good."

During the first year 187 million prescriptions were handed out. Patients received 5,250,000 pairs of glasses, 28,000 hearing aids, 8359 artificial legs, 7226 artificial eyes, and 5071 wigs.

Most Exchange Rates Firm In Uruguay

The International Monetary Fund disclosed yesterday that Uruguay is remaining firm on her exchange rates for the greater portion of her exports and devaluing from 15 to 26 percent on others.

In adjusting her currency to meet world price competition, Uruguay on the whole stood by her basic rates for imports.

However, she increased the cost by 23 percent at home of about 20 percent of imports classed as luxury articles and nonessentials.

The Fund said yesterday that Uruguay is retaining the basic rate of 1.519 pesos to the dollar for the exportation of meat, wool, linseed and wheat. The previous preferential rate of 1.78 pesos to the dollar will be used for the exportation of oils, dry and salted hides and skins, and packinghouse products.

The Fund pointed out that these two rates will cover about 80 percent of Uruguay's exports.

"Essentially," it added, "the new system involves no change for the basic exports at the 1.519 rate."

It involves, the Fund said, shifting exports of oils, dry and salted hides and skins and packinghouse products from the basic rate of 1.519 to 1.78 pesos to the dollar.

In effect, this means 15 percent devaluation for exports of these products which theoretically would mean a corresponding decrease in the prices of such exports in the world market.

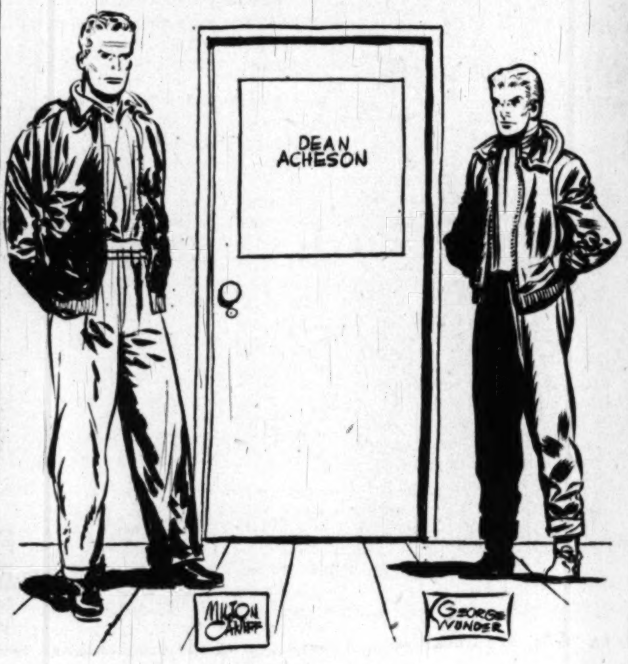
Terry's 'Girls' Are Composites Of Real Thing, Artist Says



MEET AT STATE DEPARTMENT—This cartoon marks the first public meeting of those two famed men-about-the-Orient, Steve Canyon (left), of the comic strip by that name, and Terry, of "Terry and the Pirates," both of which appear in The Washington Post. Both characters are the creation of Milton Caniff, who guided Terry's destiny for 11 years until he gave up the strip in 1946 in order to launch "Steve"—on which he would have the ownership of copyright. Terry's future passed to George Wunder. This week in Washington, Caniff and Wunder were together and sat down at the same drawing board—with the above result

By Bill Brinkley
Post Reporter

There are a few rather safe generalizations that emerge from four days spent with the Nation's leading cartoonists. One is that they are as much gagsters, personally, as they are in their comic strips.

Wunder

Another is that they are professional night owls. George Wunder, who does "Terry and the Pirates," is no exception.

Terry's adventures, which tantalize readers of The Washington Post and 250 other papers in this country alone, are cooked up between 3 p. m. and 6 a. m.

Cartoonists work at night for an obvious but eloquent reason: "It's quiter then . . . the phone isn't buzzing off the wall, people aren't dropping in . . ."

Wunder was in town this week with other leading cartoonists to help the sale of United States savings bonds.

It is from a home in Yonkers, N. Y., where Wunder lives, that the exotic Oriental doings of Terry and his gang are born.

Wunder is a 37-year-old, lean-built man who wears bow ties, has a black mustache and doesn't sit still for long except when he's at his easel. He came out of the same Associated Press cartoonists bullpen in New York that produced such comic artist greats as Milton Caniff—creator of the Terry strip—and Al Capp. Wunder's job at the A.P.: doing background maps.

This last activity he continued during the war, when he made maps for Air Force intelligence while stationed with the Air Transport Command in Casablanca. "It was just about to run for mayor when we pulled out."

He didn't know it then, but a considerably bigger job than the Casablanca mayorality was just ahead for Wunder. He got out of the Army in February, 1946, and six months later was doing one of the best known comic strips in the business. Caniff gave up "Terry" to create "Steve Canyon."

Wunder says he's "one of the few cartoonists who have never been inside an art school except to give lectures."

He does both the art and continuity on "Terry," works on a 10-week-ahead schedule. Besides United States papers, the strip has many a foreign subscriber, including papers in Manila, Honolulu, Rome and several South American countries.

How does Wunder dream up those nice-looking chicks in Terry?

"They're composites of pictures of girls I come across. I see a pair of eyes I like in one, a face in another, the hands in another . . . then I put them together."

The Gallup Poll

2 Major British Parties Run Close in Favor in September

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 6.—Britain's two major political parties are running virtually neck and neck in popularity among the voters at the present time.

Although the Labor Party won an overwhelming vote of confidence in Parliament last week on the devaluation issue, if the parties had gone before the voters in mid-September in a general election the outcome would likely have been a toss-up.

The parties have been in a seesaw position for several months. In July the Conservative Party had a slight popular advantage over Labor in surveys by the British Institute of Public Opinion, but in August the two parties ran a dead heat. In the September polling, completed just before Sir Stafford Cripps announced devaluation of the pound, the Conservative Party resumed a lead, but only a slight one.

"If there were a general election tomorrow, how would you vote?"

	July	Aug.	Sept.
Conservative	38%	37%	39%
Labor	36	37	36
Liberal	10	10	9
Other	2	2	2
Undecided	14	14	14

In terms of size, the undecided vote is closely comparable to that in the 1948 presidential race here in the United States.

American Reactions Studied

While the average American voter knows comparatively little about the inner workings of British politics, those who indicate some knowledge of the situation think the Labor Party will get reelected when the general election is held.

"Just making a guess, which political party—the Conservative or Labor Party—do you think will win the coming election in England?"

Those voters who know what party is now in power vote as follows:

Think Labor will win	49%
Think Conservatives will win	39
No Opinion	12
Informed Voters	100%

Argentina Fixes New Prices on Corn, Wheat

Buenos Aires, Oct. 6 (AP).—The Argentine government trading agency—IAPI—has fixed new prices on wheat and corn which represent an important reduction for dollar area customers.

All cereals are classed at the basic export rate of 3.35 esos to the dollar.

Corruption Seen In Slot Racket

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP).—The director of the American Municipal Association said yesterday that gangsters have used illegal slot machines as a weapon in their "attempts to grab control of local politics."

The director, Carl H. Chatters, recently asked Attorney General J. Howard McGrath for Federal aid in fighting national racketeers. Chatters said he has had no reply, but hopes to take up the matter in Washington next week.

The association is a federation of cities, and State leagues of cities, bringing together more than 9500 municipalities.

With slot machine revenue, Chatters said, "Racketeers buy large holdings in legitimate business. That is the key to growing threats to local government from this quarter.

He said New Orleans, Los Angeles and Portland, Oreg., are among member cities which asked him to obtain Federal aid on their behalf.

Miss New Orleans a Mrs.

New Orleans, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—"Miss New Orleans of 1949," who turned out to be a mother, formally surrendered her title today. She peacefully agreed to become "Mrs. New Orleans of 1949."

MINIATURE B&O—The rolling stock of the Baltimore and Ohio's $100,000 model railroad system awaits the opening of the third annual Home Show Exhibition at the National Guard Armory Saturday. It will be one of the features. It is on "O" gauge track

Cumberland Yards Model To Feature Home Exposition

Model railroad fans will have an opportunity to see one of the most complete miniature systems in the country in operation when the third annual Home Show Exposition opens at the National Guard Armory next Saturday.

The model railroad, one of the highlights of the 9-day exposition, is the presentation of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and is a replica of the famous yards of its Cumberland (Md.) Division. James W. Pearson, executive director of the show, announced yesterday that the miniature system will be here.

Built on a portable platform 16 by 46 feet, the model railroad is scaled at ¼ inch to the foot, or "O" gauge in the parlance of model railroaders. It is one of the most complete portable models in the country, and is valued at $100,000.

The miniature system can be taken down or assembled in 16 hours, although there are 1500 connections, and nearly a scale mile of main line plus a network of sidings.

All trains are modeled after actual B. & O. rolling stock, including the Capitol Limited, the Royal Blue, and the Columbian. Coal trains and fast freights are pulled by "Mikados" and "Santa Fes," and almost every variety of car may be seen in the yards, including the "big hook," for relief trains, and Western Union Camp cars.

The miniature trains travel through the model countryside at scaled-down speeds that would equal 60-75 miles per hour in full size, according to railroad men a very fast clip for trains.

The exhibit will continue until October 16 when the Home Show closes. The Home Builders Association of Metropolitan Washington is sponsoring the exposition which will feature hundreds of displays by manufacturers of home furnishings and decorations, and booths operated by other firms connected with home building.

One of the highlights will be the crowning of the "Television Queen" of Washington and vicinity. A contest now is under way to select the queen who will receive trips for two to New York and Bermuda, a television audition, and thousands of dollars in prizes.

New Hiss Defender Is Fiery Trial Lawyer

Boston, Oct. 6 (AP).—Claude B. Cross, scheduled to defend Alger Hiss in the latter's second perjury trial, is a fiery trial lawyer with the manner of a Southern gentleman.

His first headline fame came in his defense last year on treason charges of Robert H. Best, who was found guilty of beaming wartime Nazi radio propaganda to the United States.

Best was sentenced to life imprisonment, as had been Douglas Chandler, who was charged with treason at the same time.

It was during the public hearings on the ouster of Dr. Miriam Van Waters as head of the Framingham Women's Reformatory, however, that Cross displayed his flair for the dramatic and a sense of showmanship.

The Enterprise, Miss., native defended Dr. Waters during two lengthy public hearings which ended in her vindication and reinstatement.

The first hearing was conducted by Massachusetts Corrections Commissioner Elliott McDowell, who fired the penologist after charges that, among other things, she condoned sex perversion among reformatory inmates.

The University of Missouri and Harvard Law School graduate cajoled and threatened and pleaded and whispered at the packed hearings. Many spectators attended chiefly to see him in action.

When McDowell refused to reinstate Dr. Van Waters, an impartial board cleared her after another hearing in which Cross showed himself to be a persuasive and eloquent lawyer and orator.

U. N. Building Flies Flag

New York, Oct. 6 (AP).—The blue and white flag of the United Nations flew atop the steel skeleton of the new U. N. headquarters building here today, symbolizing completion of the framework.

Curb Asked on Aid Under Point 4 Plan

Spruille Braden yesterday said resident Truman's Point 4 pro- ram should be carried out by rivate enterprise with as little overnment interference as pos- ible.

On the other hand, the program as termed "just as necessary for ur own economy as it is for the conomies of the so-called under- eveloped areas" by the Very. ev. Monsignor John J. McClaf- rty, dean of the National Cath- ic School of Social Service at atholic University.

Braden, former Assistant Secre- ry of State for American Repub- c Affairs who served as Ambas- dor to Argentina, Colombia, Cuba nd other Latin American coun- ies during his diplomatic career, nd Monsignor McClafferty testi- ed before the House Committee n Foreign Affairs. The commit- e i sstudying the Administration's echnical Cooperation Act.

ocialism Feared

Monsignor McClafferty presented statement for the Right Rev. sgr. John O'Grady, secretary of e National Conference of Cath- ic Charities.

The statement added:

"If we do not succeed in ex- orting our capital and skills to her countries to contribute to e upbuilding of free economies, may be difficult for us to main- in a free economy in our own untry.

"If the other countries of this emisphere, for instance, are un- le to develop their free econo- ies because the United States, as a Nation, does not see its way clear to furnish material capital and reasonable terms for the payment of interest charges and the repayment of the principal of private and public loans, they easily may be driven into purely socialist economies."

Limitations Asked

Braden said::

"Tragic as are the living conditions of the majority of mankind today, we must not be misled by our emotions into adopting measures which, while not improving their lot, might impoverish us.

"Unduly to burden our material and other resources in this way would lower our scale of living and weaken our power of defense.

"Instead we must, step by step, confine ourselves to limited and clearly obtainable objectives.

"To initiate the Point 4 program without prior thought and deliberate study of all the varied and conflicting factors involved would be to court failure. It would play into the hands of the Communists and other anti-democratic elements, since we and our system would be blamed for the failure."

Orthodoxy Up to Date

Moscow, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—The Russian Orthodox Church today reaffirmed its patriotism, loyalty and devotion to the Soviet Union and appealed to "all of the world's true Christians to join the common struggle against capitalist instigators of a third world war.

A&P, TOO, TAKES OFF ITS HAT TO MR. C. WHIT BLOUNT

OF WAYNESBORO, GEORGIA

—AND TO ALL OUR OTHER GOOD COMPETITORS WHO HAVE TAKEN A SIMILAR STAND

[An Editorial From The Atlanta Journal, Thursday, Sept. 29, 1949]

Competitor Denounces Suit Against A&P

THE BOLD three-column advertisement in the current issue of the Waynesboro True Citizen catches the reader's eye. We quote it in full.

To our notion that advertisement by C. Whit Blount states the economic and governmental aspects of the case against A&P with a clarity and forcefulness that most of the editorial comment has lacked.

Also it strikes us as a fine example of sportsmanship in business.

Incidentally, it is about as effective an advertisement as could have been written for Mr. Blount's "Groceteria".

Makes you sort of wish you were in Waynesboro to trade with him, doesn't it?

[An Advertisement From The Waynesboro True Citizen]

A Word For Our Competitor The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

There has been a move by the anti-trust department of the Federal Government to destroy our leading competitor, the A&P Food Store.

It may seem odd, but we are opposed to this move.

The A&P Co., is definitely our strongest competitor - they keep us hopping. But, we are still in business - And Expanding. We do it by selling quality merchandise, buying at a close margin and selling at CLOSER margin.

The so called "trust-busters" charge that the A&P Co. control some of the production and processing ends of the food business. As a result, they hold the cost price down on foods.

WELL, WHAT'S WRONG WITH THIS??

If A&P holds the costs down, it makes our suppliers hold their costs down to the same competitive level. They can sell cheaper, AND SO CAN WE.

We intend to continue to try to sell better merchandise than A&P; We also will continue to have competitive prices.

BUT, We don't believe the government, or any individual should try to break up a firm that is doing a good, clean, efficient job of serving the people of this country.

Truman Pessimistic On Red Arms Plan

President Truman yesterday indicated he held little hope for anything of value from new Russian disarmament proposals, reported as developing.

The President was asked at his news conference if he looked forward to hearing what the Russians might propose.

Not necessarily, he replied. He added that they had made any number of unacceptable proposals in the past on this subject, and any new one doubtless would be in the same class.

Our own atomic control proposal, he went on, was the most important in the history of the world with regard to atomic matters, but the Russians did not see fit to accept it. The reference was to the Baruch plan calling for putting atomic control and ownership in a United Nations authority.

No other nation with such a terrible weapon in its possession ever had made an offer such as that, Mr. Truman said.

Our viewpoint on the merits of that proposal has undergone no change, Mr. Truman said.

But if there is no agreement with Russia, won't that mean an international arms race, a reporter asked.

The President said he hoped not. Instead, he hoped the United Nations would grow into a position where it could control such matters.

He declined to elaborate further on his September 23 announcement of a recent atomic explosion in Russia.

He said also he could not say whether there was any more likelihood than before of reaching atomic agreement with the Russians in view of the fact that they had progressed in their own atomic work.

Full Divorce Won By Mrs. Lee From County Leader

Mrs. Thelma Llewellyn Lee was awarded an absolute divorce yesterday from E. Brooke Lee, Montgomery County Democratic leader, in the Circuit Court in Rockville.

Mrs. Lee, who lives at Llewellyn Fields, Norwood, Md., received a limited divorce on March 4, 1948, on charges of abandonment.

Under a property settlement, Mrs. Lee will receive $3000 a year for the support of a minor child, Bruce, until his education is completed. She waived her right to alimony.

The Lees were married in New York City, October 5, 1935, and lived together until August 6, 1947, according to Lee.

World Trade Dropping Off, U. N. Reports

Lake Success, Oct. 6. (NYHT)—World Trade difficulties are intensifying, United Nations economists told its General Assembly today. It placed the blame chiefly on the decline in American buying from abroad.

"World industrial production turned downward in 1949 for the first time in the post-war period," a report by the U. N. Department of Economic Affairs added. From a level of 141 percent of the 1937 mining and manufacturing output during last year's final quarter, production fell to 139 and then 138 in the first two quarters this year.

This, too, the department said, was due mainly to the decline in American output, since production elsewhere was still rising, although at a slower rate than before. The report noted that American industrial production, after dropping from an index of 172 in last year's final quarter, to 154 in this year's second quarter, had declined some more in July and then recovered this loss in August.

The report said world exports in the second quarter this year amounted to $15,100,000,000, but the rise had to be attributed to American exports, the report said, since the rest of the world barely maintained the level it had reached in the last quarter of 1948.

American purchases from abroad in this year's second quarter were down 10 per cent from last year's fourth quarter, chiefly from the sterling area and Latin America.

Maintenance of American exports, the report said, "owed much to the European Recovery Program and the civilian supply program for occupied areas," which rose to $3,008,000,000 in this year's first half, as against $1,931,000,000 in last year's first half, and $2,478,000,000 in last year's second half.

Plan for U. N. A-Bomb Ban Is Reported

Lake Success, Oct. 6 (AP).—A plan to ban use of the atomic bomb except against a nation tagged by the United Nations as an aggressor was reported under discussion in the U. N. tonight.

The plan was reported as delegates of six countries held a three-hour-and-fifty-minute secret session on atomic energy.

The result of the session, reports indicated, was that the basic East-West split on fundamental issues on atomic control stands unchanged.

The conferees will meet again next Thursday.

The scheme to put the atomic bomb under a U. N. ban was not discussed at the meeting of the six countries—the United States, Russia, France, Britain, China and Canada.

Yugoslavia, meanwhile, called on the U.N. to condemn such acts as Yugoslavs charge the Soviet Union has committed against Yugoslavia. This demand was wrapped up in a 25-point declaration on the rights of sovereign states. It did not name Russia directly.

Elsewhere in the U.N. today:

1. Sir Hartley Shawcross, British attorney general, told the special political committee that suppression of human freedoms in Communist eastern Europe is shockingly similar to what happened in Nazi Germany. The committee is considering charges that Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary violated the peace treaty by prosecuting church leaders.

2. The Latin American bloc in the U. N. was reported supporting immediate independence for Libya only if it is tied to an Italian trusteeship for the Somaliland.

3. The Balkan conciliation team planned to hold separate sessions Friday with Greece's three northern neighbors—Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania.

4. High officials were trying to bring about an East-West deal in which the United States would drop its support of Yugoslavia's Security Council candidacy in return for major Soviet bloc concessions on the Greek question. The deal would compensate Yugoslavia by awarding it a seat in the Economic and Social Council.

Four State Directors Appointed by McCloy

Frankfurt, Germany, Oct. 6 (AP). U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy today appointed the four state directors of military government in the U. S. zone as state commissioners.

They are Murray D. Van Wagoner, former Governor of Michigan, for Bavaria; Capt. Charles R. Jeffs of the U. S. Navy, Bremen; Dr. James R. Newman of Long Island, N. Y., Hesse, and Maj. Gen. Charles P. Gross, Wuerttemberg-Baden.

Numerous Arrests By Czechs Rumored

Prague, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—Well-informed sources said today that Czechoslovak police have arrested between 2000 and 5700 citizens of Prague in the past three days.

The Czechoslovak government apparently has started to act on a secret "T. B. Plan," which calls for the arrest of at least 10,000 persons who oppose the state, the sources said.

Reports from Brno, capital of Moravia, and Zilna in Slovakia also told of police raids crowding the jails over the weekend.

The "T. B. Plan" is the "Tridni Boj" or class warfare plan allegedly drawn up to smash resistance to the Communist government.

Informants said the plan was aimed at members of the opposition National Socialist Party, professional men and independent merchants and Catholics, especially priests.

In addition, numerous Communist Party members have disappeared in the past few weeks, the sources said.

Police still have offered no explanation for two mysterious shootings in Prague Saturday night in which one victim was heard to say, "comrades, why have you done this to me?" just before he died.

Upward to 300 priests already have been reported seized, many in the past month.

Reports from Pilsen said that "some" people were killed in clashes between workers, who attempted to go out on strike, and police. These reports could not be confirmed tonight.

Berliners Hear

East German Seat With Red Bloc Likely

Berlin, Oct. 6 (AP).—The Russians have promised their budding East German satellite full membership in the Cominform bloc of nations, informed Berliners said today.

The new Communist government will be proclaimed by the Soviet-controlled German People's Council in the Russian sector of Berlin Friday, following a week of intensive propaganda which glided over the omission of elections.

Aside from Russia, the Cominform bloc is made up of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Hungary and Bulgaria. In addition, the Communist Parties of France and Italy are represented. Yugoslavia wos ousted 15 months ago.

Berlin sources said the alliance with other eastern European governments will be economic as well as political.

The Soviet army newspaper Taegliche Rundschau asserted Russian authorities would make a sweeping renunciation of occupation rights and retain only "administrative supervision" after creation of the new government.

Czechoslovakia joined other Cominform nations today in the belated protests against formation of the Bonn (western zone) government. Protest notes were handed to the United States, British and French ambassadors in Prague.

Trade With Soviet Zone Is Approved

Bonn, Germany, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—The foreign trade committee of the three-power Allied High Commission for western Germany today approved a 150-million-dollar trade agreement with the Russian zone.

Communist Ring Broken in Cairo

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—Cairo police said today they had smashed a Communist gang organizing a coup d'etat after following two beautiful girl messengers to the gang's secret hideout.

Police officials said the raid was carried out by a large force of police, including senior Egyptian political officers, following discovery of the two girls exchnging documents on a street corner.

Retaliation

Tito Expels 13 Diplomats At Belgrade

Belgrade, Oct. 6 (AP).—Yugoslavia disclosed tonight the expulsion of eight Polish and five Czech diplomats in the row between the Russian-led Cominform and Premier Marshal Tito's independent government.

A statement issued through the Ministry of Information said the action was taken in retaliation for similar steps by the Soviet satellites in recent days.

It marked increasing application of diplomatic pressure in the controversy to supplement the economic boycott which Russia and its satellites have clamped on Yugoslavia as part of their 17-month-old campaign to unseat Tito and his top lieutenants.

Arms Aid Measure Signed by President

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

President Truman signed the $1,314,010,000 military assistance bill yesterday, and predicted it would "strengthen the peace of the world."

He also signed, without comment, the vastly bigger bill appropriating $4,852,380,000 for the Economic Cooperation Administration and other foreign aid programs. Congressional leaders were on hand to watch the presidential signatures, which ended two of the year's stiffest legislative battles in the field of foreign affairs.

Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.) of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had previously described the fight over the military aid as the hardest he could remember since Lend-Lease days in 1941. As for the ECA bill, its signature did not come until more than nine months after the Administration had first asked Congress for authority and funds.

In a statement issued after signing the military assistance bill, the President called it "a notable contribution to the collective security of the free nations of the world."

"The dominant objective of our foreign policy," he said, "is to create peaceful and stable conditions throughout the world, so that men may lead happier and more fruitful lives. This objective cannot, however, be achieved if the economic efforts of free men are overshadowed by the fear of aggression.

"By strengthening the common defense this act will do much to allay that fear. The security which this act offers will aid in promoting the economic welfare of free nations and in restoring their confidence in a peaceful and prosperous future."

The President referred to the "considerable progress" made by the North Atlantic Pact nations "in working together for their mutual security." Only yesterday the defense ministers of these countries had ordered their military commanders to start planning the defense of the North Atlantic area on an integrated and unified basis."

The military commanders last night named Gen. Omar T. Bradley, chairman of the American Joint Chiefs of Staff, as the American member of a three-nation committee which will be the kingpin of all the defense planning agencies.

Foreign ministers of the pact countries decided last month to set up such a "standing group" as a permanent agency, with headquarters in Washington. It will pull together the defense plans worked out by five regional groups on both sides of the Atlantic, and will be a permanent executive committee for the 12-nation organization.

Gen. Sir William Morgan, Britain's chief military representative in Washington, will be the British member of the group, and Lieut. Gen. Paul Ely the French member.

Although the Military Assistance Act authorizes military help for eight Atlantic Pact nations and for Greece, Turkey, Iran, Korea and the Philippines, the first supplies under it are no expected to move for several months.

Only 125 million dollars of the total is made available at once out of Reconstruction Finance Corp. Funds. The act provides, however, that no supplies can move until each recipient country has signed a bilateral agreement with the United States. None of these agreements is yet ready for signature.

There are two other limitations on swift help for Europe. One is that the present law is only an authorization; the appropriations must follow. The present law provides too, that all but 100 million dollars' worth of the supplies for Europe must be withheld until the President has approved "recommendations for an integrated defense of the North Atlantic area."

So far the pact nations have agreed only on the principle of integrated defense. More detailed "recommendations," which the law calls for, may not come for several weeks.

The most that can be done immediately, therefore, is to use some of the RFC advance for hiring personnel, and possibly for reconditioning old equipment for later transfer to the European countries.

Admirals Win Open Session

mirals Ernest J. King, Chester W. Nimitz and William F. Halsey testifying, either in person or by statement.

Meanwhile, the Navy went ahead with plans to prefer charges against Captain Crommelin. Crommelin announced Wednesday night that he had handed "confidential" naval documents criticizing Defense Department policies to the press.

They consisted of a caustic letter from Vice Admiral Gerald F. Bogan to Secretary Matthews and forwarding letters from Radford and Denfeld partially supporting his critics.

When Crommelin arrived at his office at the Pentagon yesterday morning he was summoned to the office of Rear Admiral Allan R. McCann, Navy Inspector General. There he was told that Vice Admiral John D. Price, vice Chief of Naval Operations, wanted to see him "immediately."

When he emerged from Price's office, Crommelin told reporters: "I have been suspended from duty (in the naval aviation war plans' division) and confined to my home."

Officials said Admiral McCann's office will investigate and recommend procedure. It can recommend court-martial for violation of Navy Regulation—that is, making public classified matters.

Crommelin indicated to reporters that his defense might be that the correspondence was improperly classified "confidential." His views on this met some support on Capitol Hill yesterday.

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.), who said he didn't know the Navy captain, took the floor to defend him. He charged Government agencies are misusing the right to protect military secrets by "classifying" them. This often results, he said, in denying information to Congress and the public which has no security value.

"Speaking as a member of the Senate Armed Services Committee," Knowland said, "I hope that we are not now going to have a repetition of the Billy Mitchell episode."

During the House hearing, Representative Lansdale Sasscer (D., Md.) charged that "stamping administrative documents confidential which have no connection with security" only prevents Congress from "finding out what's happening." He drew from Secretary Matthews an admission that the "confidential" document published by Crommelin did not "affect national security."

Navy regulations on this point state: "Information and material, the unauthorized disclosure of which would be prejudicial to the interests of the Nation, or would cause unwarranted injury to an individual or would be of advantage to a foreign nation, shall be classified confidential."

Crommelin was congratulated on the House floor for his actions by Representative Pat Sutton (D., Tenn.), a Navy veteran. Sutton said that "it seems that some people would like to sink the Navy."

Technically, the suspended airman initially was "confined to his domicile" and not placed under "house arrest," but it amounted to the same thing.

"I am not concerned whether I go to jail," he said. "I am concerned about the future of my children and living in a free democracy."

Capt. Joseph L. (Paddy) Kane, an Annapolis classmate of Crommelin, has agreed to be his counsel. Kane is not a lawyer and will serve until an attorney is secured.

Matthews sharply condemned Crommelin in his Capitol Hill testimony. He accused him of "faithlessness and insubordination," and declared that those responsible with him "will be brought to an accounting for their guilty conduct."

Matthews disputed Bogan's statement that morale in the Navy was bad. He contended it was good except for the aviators who "frantically" protested Navy cuts. The reductions, Matthews said, are justified by the economy program and the fact that no possible enemy possesses a surface navy.

But under questioning, Matthews conceded that the Navy is facing "mathematically" greater cuts than the Army and Air Force. The Secretary contended, however, that this was not important—that what mattered was whether the Navy got enough "to do its job."

Chairman Vinson challenged Matthews' emphasis on "diehard" opposition to unification as being responsible for "unrest" in the Navy.

Vinson said under the fiscal 1951 defense budget now in the making, the Navy would suffer the following reductions: 4 or 6 big aircraft carriers operating rather than 8; 8 small carriers instead of 10; 6 carrier air groups instead of 14; 11 or 12 Marine air squadrons rather than 23, as now; 20 patrol squadrons instead of 30; 7 antisubmarine squadrons rather than 8; 12 cruisers operating instead of 18; 140 destroyers instead of 162, and 70 submarines instead of 80.

"In my judgment that's what's affecting naval morale," Vinson commented.

Sasscer chimed in that what irked the Navy was "evidence of a long-range plan to gradually shrink up the Navy" while Defense officials issued statements denying it.

Vinson asked Matthews what he was doing to "restore Navy morale." The latter said he was trying to get the "highest possible appropriations to keep up the ships and weapons."

"Are you advocating this vigorously or accepting quietly what the Secretary of Defense orders," demanded the chairman.

Matthews declared he was fighting for higher Navy appropriations.

This pro-Navy attitude in the committee was most marked throughout yesterday's hearing and in contrast to the group's feelings during the B-36 hearing.

Representative Mel Price (D., Ill.) suggested that the really disturbing thing about the situation may be that "a few officers appear incapable of accepting the views of superior officers when they oppose those views." Representative Paul Kilday (D., Tex.) suggested that other services were taking cuts without protests, and Representative Overton Brooks (D., La.) objected to Radford "disclosing secrets." But for the most part, members were quizzing Matthews sharply.

Pointing out that Admiral Denfeld has to "sit with three West Pointers" on the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Representative Jack Anderson (R., Calif.) told Matthews:

"It seems to me Denfeld has a very difficult time. Neither you, nor the Secretary of Defense nor the President has any naval experience."

Representative Porter Hardy (D., Va.) questioned Matthews and Denfeld about reports that the Department of Defense has ordered the Navy not to spend about 500 millions of its 687 million dollar 1950 appropriation for naval aircraft orders. Both declared they hadn't seen such a directive.

Matthews was questioned by Representative James Van Zandt (R., Pa.) about a report the latter said was on the Secretary's desk in which some ranking Army and Air Force officers purportedly proposed curtailment of the Navy and Marine Corps.

Van Zandt said the study, submitted to the Joint Chiefs, urged removal from the Navy of some of the roles and missions specifically granted it under the Unification Act.

"General (Clifton B.) Cates, commandant of the Marine Corps, has appended an endorsement to the report declaring it amounts to a conspiracy to circumvent the Unification Act," the Pennsylvanian said.

"I haven't seen it," replied Matthews.

After the committee heard Radford's statement in executive session, Representative Dewey Short (R., Mo.) described it as a "masterful presentation." It contained nothing "confidential," he added.

Reportedly, the statement—which will be read publicly this morning—attacks the accepted Defense Department concept of emphasizing the B-36 and strategic bombing.

"It will give you a pain in the mind," said Short. "That's what the American people need."

Vinson said that during the closed session Admiral Denfeld supported Matthews' stand that Radford's testimony should not be made public. There appeared to be some question as to the Chief of Naval Operations' role in the presentation. One Navy source said last night he might not "sum up" as planned.

The following gives some idea of the Navy "presentation" beginning today: Radford, opening statement; Capt. F. M. Trapnell, general interception problems; Lieut. Comdr. E. W. Harrison, radar; Comdr. W. N. Leonard, current jet operations; Comdr. W. I. Martin, night and all-weather fighters; Comdr. A. B. Metsger, fighter capabilities; A. Hyatt, a civilian, airplanes and their qualities; Comdr. E. Tatom, bombing accuracies; Capt. J. H. Sides, guided missiles; Rear Admiral R. A. Ofstie, strategic bombing; Brig. Gen. V. E. Megee (Marines), tactical air; Admiral W. H. P. Blandy, command of the seas; Capt. A. A. Burke, development of new carriers; Capt. J. S. Thach, naval air power; Admiral R. L. Conolly, European situation (sea power); Vice Admiral R. B. Carney, logistical implications of strategic bombing; Rear Admiral L. De Florez, general development problems; Admiral Thomas C. Kinkaid, notes on sea power; Fleet Admiral William Halsey, mobility and conduct of war; Fleet Admiral Ernest J. King, subject unspecified; Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, subject unspecified; Admiral R. A. Spruance, the conduct of war; Admiral Denfeld, summation.

LEND EAR—Fleet Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey (left), hero of many carrier battles in the Pacific, sits beside Admiral Louis Denfeld, Chief of Naval Operations, as both listen to testimony yesterday before the House Armed Services Committee. Committee members, investigating Navy morale, admitted the "ax has fallen heavier on the Navy's neck than on the Air Force and Army"

Carrier Plane Makes 4863-Mile Flight

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 6 (AP).—A Navy Neptune patrol bomber capable of carrying the atomic bomb landed at the Naval Air Station here today after a 4863-mile nonstop flight from the aircraft carrier Midway in the Atlantic.

The flight was described by the Navy as the longest ever made after launching from a carrier. The twin-engined bomber was in the air 25 hours, 42 minutes.

when she was torpedoed and sunk by a Japanese submarine in the Gilbert Islands area. Crommelin was badly burned.

Late in 1945 Crommelin became first skipper of the newly commissioned carrier Saipan. After serving in a couple of other posts, he was assigned last April to the office of the top-level Joint Chiefs of Staff. He was removed from this post after his blast at the unification law last month.

Crommelin in 1930 married Lillian E. Landis of San Diego, Calif. The call home Harrogate Springs, Wetumpka, Ala.

Crommelin is one of five brothers, all graduates of the Naval Academy and all save one naval aviators. Two of his brothers were killed in the last war.

Arnold Urges Civilian Rule Over Military

By The Associated Press

Five-star Gen. Henry H. Arnold suggested yesterday that a civilian-dominated board write American military policy.

He hinted it might spare the public such arguments as the current Navy-Air Force dispute over the worth of carriers and the B-36 bomber.

"The day for our military policy and the strength and composition of armed forces to be determined by military experts alone should be over," Arnold, retired leader of the greatest air force ever assembled, said in Colliers magazine.

"Here is my idea:

"Create a new kind of war advisory or planning board, its members to be named by the President. The board should be nonpolitical and nonpartisan—one Congress will not think biased—whose recommendations Congress may accept.

"The board could well be composed of: A civilian chairman, a ground general (five-star or retired four-star), an admiral (five-star or retired four-star), an Air Force general (five-star or retired four-star), a statesman well versed in international affairs, an industrialist, a labor leader, a scientist."

Arnold suggested this board would be neither a staff for the President nor the Defense Secretary, but rather an agency to "give careful experienced thought to the enthusiastic plans and ideas of the leaders in our armed services."

"It could come out," he said "with a practical military policy, and with recommendations that might eliminate all discussions in public by military men decency" for jailing two American students for eight weeks.

In a "most energetic protest," it told the Soviets it will insist on observance of the rights of its nationals and asked Russia to make sure the incident is not repeated.

The case involved Warren Oelsner, 20, of Oyster Bay, N. Y., and Peter Sellers, 19, of Philadelphia. They finally were released September 28, two months after they were jailed by the Russians in eastern Germany.

The text of the protest note on the students was made public here coincident with its delivery in Moscow. It said the youths "inadvertently and innocently" wandered into the Soviet zone of Germany and that their offense was "minor."

"It certainly cannot justify detention for over eight weeks, including two weeks in solitary confinement," it added.

sian officials did not consider the pair to be "criminals or spies" and that no formal charges ever were lodged against them.

Originally, the note called for "punishment" of the Soviet officials involved. In the final draft, however, Russia was asked to see to it that there is no recurrence.

Undersecretary of State Webb made the charge that Russia had reduced eastern Germany to "an oppressive police state."

Webb rejected an earlier Russian protest that this country had split Germany by sponsoring the western Germany government at Bonn. Germany is split, he said, because Russia has opposed every constructive proposal by the West since 1945.

Webb's statement said "strenuous efforts" by the West to carry out the principles of the 1945 Potsdam Declaration have been only partly successful "because of obstinate Soviet opposition to every constructive proposal presented by the Western powers."

Russia, Webb said, has created "a dictatorial, unrepresentative regime" in the occupation zone, built up a German semimilitary force, strangled free economic life, "looted" natural and industrial resources, and reopened concentration camps.

Webb said Russia has created conditions which have caused "hundreds of thousands" of Germans to flee from the Soviet zone.

By contrast, he continued, the new three-zone West German Bonn Government is a "practical application" of the Potsdam pledge to treat Germany as an economic unit.

(The United Press said an American official revealed that the U. S., Britain and France have been considering the posibility of including Western Berlin in the new West German state. France has not agreed so far, although it does not object flatly, he said.)

Fined $10,000

Tokyo Rose Gets 10 Years For Treason

San Francisco, Oct. 6 (U.P.)—Tokyo Rose was sentenced to 10 years in prison and fined $10,000 today for turning traitor to the United States by broadcasting propaganda over the wartime Tokyo radio.

The treason sentence, five years greater than the minimum, was imposed on Mrs. Iva Toguri d'Acquino by Federal Judge Michael J. Roche.

Defense Attorney Wayne Collins announced he will appeal "probably next Monday . . . maybe tomorrow."

Mrs. d'Aquino was impassive as the sentence was read.

She stood with her eyes downcast. She was dressed in the same plaid suit that she wore throughout the longest treason trial in United States history. It hung slackly on her, for she had lost 30 pounds during the 56-day trial, which ended a week ago when a six-man, six-woman jury found her guilty of one of eight overt acts of treason.

They decided she was guilty of broadcasting to Allied troops after the battle of Leyte:

"Orphans of the Pacific, now you are really orphans. Now all your ships are gone. How are you going to get home now?"

The day had been mostly taken up with arguing Collins' three chief motions; 1, for acquittal; 2, for a new trial and 3, for arrest of judgment. Judge Roche denied them all.

Collins said he would appeal to the United States Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals here.

Mrs. D. Aquino is the daughter of a Chicago grocer, Jun Toguri, and the wife of Felipe Kairus d'Aquino, a Portuguese citizen of Japanese descent.

She could have been sentenced to death—but no United States traitor ever has received that court penalty. Minimum sentence was five years and $10,000 fine.

Her sentence was less than the one imposed on Mildred (Axis Sally) Gillard, the Portland, Me., women who broadcast for Hitler. woman who broadcast for Hitler. Miss Gillars drew a penalty of 10

Chinese Reds' 400-Mile Line Pushes South

Hongkong, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—The Communists pushed southward on a 400-mile front today in a "final offensive" that threatened the destruction of some 300,000 Nationalist troops blocking their path.

The biggest immediate threat to Canton developed at Kukong, 118 miles north of the Nationalist capital, and the government threw up a last-ditch defense at Yingtak, 75 miles north of Canton.

Center of the Communist offensive was Hengyang, 270 miles directly north of Canton, where Nationalist Gen. Pai Chung-hsi has massed some 300,000 government troops.

The Communist offensive extended from Chihkiang, emergency capital of Hunan Province 175 miles west of Hengyang, to Kukong. The government today admitted loss of Chih-kiang.

Although the Red armies have fought to within 100 miles of Canton at some points, the new offensive appeared aimed chiefly at Pai's troops. Once they were captured or wiped out almost nothing will stand between the Communists and Canton.

Confederate Unit Elects Mrs. West

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 6 (AP)—Delegates to the fifty-fourth annual convention of the Virginia division, United Daughters of the Confederacy, today elected Mrs. Samuel W. West, Lynchburg, division president.

BACKACHE, LEG PAINS MAY BE DANGER SIGN
Of Tired Kidneys

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Paper by Truman Lauds Geo. Mason

President Truman last night praised the forgotten Revolutionary patriot George Mason as the originiator of the human and civil rights theory.

The special message from the President praising George Mason was delivered by Edward Boykin, director of the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission. Occasion was a dinner given by the National Society, Colonial Dames of America, held at the Sulgrave Club.

Pointing out that too few Americans realize the debt owed to Mason, President Truman stated, "His immortal Declaration of Rights in 1776 was one of the finest and loftiest creations ever struck from the mind of man."

Continued the Chief Executive, "George Mason it was who first gave concrete expressions to those inalienable human rights that belong to every American citizen and that are today the bedrock of our democracy. Our matchless Bill of Rights came directly from the amazing wisdom and far-seeing vision of this patriot."

President Truman recalled that the first 10 amendments to our Constitution, which we call our Bill of Rights were based on George Mason's Declaration of Rights. For that reason, he said, "George Mason will forever hold a special place in our hearts."

At the same time the President expressed a hope that Mason's home, Gunston Hall, will become a symbol of the "rights of man and a mecca for all liberty-loving Americans."

In the past three months Gunston Hall was turned over to the National Society, Colonial Dames of America. Henceforth, it will be administered by the society.

On the Town

By Georganne Williamson

EXOTIC dancing, far removed from current and modern offerings, is executed by Andree Poupon, Arabian danseuse now hitting the American circuits for the first time. She's at the Casino Royale, along with contortionist June Morgan, Don Mann, a marimba player, and the ballroom team of Frederick and Tanya.

POUPON

Mrs. Poupon grew up in Algiers and learned the dancing girl's routine as a kid. Every movement (coordination and control of each muscle is practiced for a lifetime there) is expressive—it captures the imagination. Not consistently beautiful, the routines may be bizarre, sudden, or disjointed. But always lithe, with overtones of meaning. Maybe the savages had something!

TWO national air-waves stars, Johnny Bradford and Tony Romano, open in the Old New Orleans Sazarac Room tonight at 8:30. It's their first Washington night club appearance, although Tony has worked in many Los Angeles and Hollywood spots, and Johnny is known here for his highly rated TV show.

As comedian-musicians, they'll kid around with Tony's guitar and Johnny's ad libbing, and do a little singing.

The 4th floor Latin Quarter opens with a rumba band for drinking and dancing only, in a few weeks . . . downstairs, Miss Washington finishes her stint at the piano next week, and the club announces she'll be followed by Miss Philadelphia, a dark haired bombshell who will play the guitar and sing.

CHARLIE PARISH, a southern young man with three singing instrumentalists, is the new band leader at the Hamilton. His music is mostly sweet, muted, and designed for dancing. However when the pianist, saxophonist, trumpeter, and drummer all dig into the vocals, the result is a new note in local cocktail music . . .

FLORIAN ZABACH, who must consider the Mayflower Hotel one of his homes by now, returns there to the Lounge next Monday with his orchestra. Artini and Consuelo come back with him to repeat the entertainment bill of last winter.

Ordinarily their first night back would be Champagne and Orchid night, but this fall the festivities are postponed till the twenty-first.

The Lounge has become the scene of a cocktail time fashion and floor show every Friday. Designed for busy career girls, the "petite fashion show" is known as "Six Fashions at Six."

Another fashion show is going on at the Hotel 2400. Narrated by Mrs. Pearl Atkinson, it's staged every Saturday at 1 p. m.

PEPCO President Will Open New Plant

President Alfred G. Neal of the Potomac Electric Power Co. will officially open the Pepco system's new 25-million-dollar Potomac River generating station in Alexandria at a 12:30 p. m. luncheon ceremony at the plant today.

The 250 guests expected at the luncheon include Federal, District, Maryland and Alexandria officials and businessmen.

Among the officials expected are Nelson Lee Smith, chairman of the Federal Power Commission; Geoffrey M. Thornett, secretary to the District Commissioners; Vice Chairman James W. Lauderdale of the District Public Utilities Commission, and Superintendent Robert J. Barrett of the District Police Department.

Neal will review the construction of the new plant and lead a tour through the structure. The station was built with money supplied by Pepco to the Braddock Light and Power Co., Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary which is being merged with the parent company.

Virginia Simplifies Court Procedures

Richmond, Va., Oct. 6 (AP).—The Supreme Court of Appeals of Virginia by unanimous vote today adopted a simplified system of practice and procedure for the courts of Virginia. It will go into effect February 1, 1950.

The action represents a goal toward which the Judicial Council for Virginia, under the chairmanship of Supreme Court Chief Justice Edward W. Hudgins, has been working since early in the spring of 1948.

Council members said there have been attempts to simplify the procedure in civil cases for 100 years.

The rules represent an attempt on the part of the council to "get rid of technical requirements that serve no useful purpose except as traps for the unwary." They were drafted on the assumption that the "only proper aim of procedural rules is to get the case in court with as few technicalities as possible."

"Rule Days" Abolished

The new rules abolish the confusing "rule days." A defendant no longer will be summoned to answer an action against him on the first or third Monday of a month and not be able to find out what the suit is about. At present he may find only a memorandum with no facts. Under the change he will be served with a copy of the complaint with notice of the suit.

Most special pleadings are abolished and a suit can be answered simply and informally as it is brought—by a notice of motion or bill of complaint stating the alleged facts.

Trial judges, Justice Hudgins said, no longer will be held down by rule of thumb, but will be given discretion in passing on pleadings and eliminating technicalities to get to the "meat of the controversy."

An entirely new system of pretrial conference has been adopted in an effort to cut out technicalities and trivialities. When a case goes to trial jurors will go to the box immediately, and witness be called with no need of proof of things both sides know to be true.

The rules offer uniform opportunity for each defendant to answer. It will be three weeks after he receives notice of a suit.

Savings Forecast

The original papers will be used in the Supreme Court on appeal cases instead of copies of records of the trial court. Lawyers will be required to designate on the original the part of the record they want copied, but the whole record will be available to the justices. The council believes this rule will save litigants more than 60 percent of the present cost of preparing cases for appeal.

The council began work on the rules in the spring of 1948. Drafts of proposals were debated line by line and word by word in numerous meetings of the Judicial Council. Meetings of local bars were called at the request of the Chief Justice and held in each of the 35 judicial circuits.

15 Years Old

D. C. Youth Reported Missing

A deputy United States marshal of Boston hurried into town yesterday to track down his 15-year-old son, missing from 4831 36th st. nw.

Robert

Police here alerted law enforcement officials throughout the South to look out for Robert R. Sullivan, Wilson High sophomore, missing since Saturday, and believed to be armed with a gun. Young Sullivan was living with his mother, Mrs. Edith C. Maxey, divorced wife of the Boston officer.

The father, Harold R. Sullivan, reported the lad's friends said he had expressed his intention to work his way to Mexico, via New Orleans and Texas.

According to the father, Robert, a 6-foot-2-inch tall, bespectacled blond, left his home Saturday to keep an appointment with a doctor. He called his mother to say he was going camping.

Friends of Robert said he had acquired a Luger automatic with approximately 50 rounds of ammunition.

Sanitation Expansion of Trash Pick-Up

Additional street cleaning facilities in Anacostia and return to three-times-a-week garbage collection in summer is proposed in the Sanitation Division budget estimate for fiscal 1951.

William A. Xanten, superintendent, yesterday asked for $4,805,602 for the year. Of this amount, $748,462 is requested for a start on construction of the city's third incinerator plant at Mount Olivet rd. and Montana ave. ne. Total cost is listed at $1,700,000.

At present, construction of a garage and shop building is underway at the site with completion expected by the end of the current fiscal year.

Xanten pointed out that since 1941, garbage collection in June, July, August and September has been on a twice-weekly basis as a wartime measure. He urged earmarking of $40,000 for employment of 12 additional collection crews to permit return to the pre-war three-times-a-week standard.

He also asked for $35,000 for employment of a "whitewing" crew of 12 laborers and three drivers to concentrate on street cleaning in newly developed sections east of the Anacostia River to the District line.

The budget contemplates closing the Cherry Hill, Va., garbage reduction plant because of the low prices paid for grease salvaged, and conversion of the section to a dump. Xanten said about $95,000 would be saved through the changeover.

Alexandria City Manager Opposes Bridge Project

Alexandria City Manager W. Guy Ancell yesterday said he is opposed to the Government's present plans for a bridge connecting Alexandria and Anacostia.

Ancell, who confered with Virginia State highway officials in Richmond Wednesday on plans drawn by the Public Roads Administration, said the bridge appeared to be designed as part of an express highway to bypass the city.

The city would be asked to help pay for something that would actually deprive Alexandria merchants of business, he said. "Why, Ancell added, "should Alexandria pay for a bridge so someone can get from Boston to Florida faster?"

He estimated that the city's share of the entire project under proposed plans would be about $1,500,000.

House Group Will Confer On Schools

School problems the Federal Government has imposed on communities, through large-scale Government projects, will be investigated beginning Monday by a House Labor and Education Subcommittee, it was announced yesterday.

School administrators in nearby Maryland and Virginia will be among the witnesses scheduled to appear at hearings. They will discuss their views on Governmental assistance necessary in areas where the Federal projects have swallowed taxable land, while also attracting families with children to the community.

Representatives of 14 Government agencies including the Armed Forces will appear

Virginia educators, who will appear Thursday, are Dowell Howard, acting State superintendent of education, in Richmond; William A. Early, Arlington school superintendent; W. T. Woodson, Fairfax school superintendent; Irvin Schmitt, Falls Church school superintendent, and T. C. Williams, Alexandria superintendent.

The following Maryland administrators will appear Friday: Tdwin W. Broome, Montgomery County school superintendent; G. Gardner Shugart, Prince Georges County superintendent; T. G. Pullen, State superintendent of education from Baltimore; Charles W. Willis, member of the Harford County board of education; David S. Jenkins, county superintendent from Annapolis.

The committee is launching its inquiry to remedy the present "hit-or-miss" program of Federal aid to local school systems, a committee source said. About a dozen different agencies are now authorized to administer some kind of assistance to school districts affected by their activities, but the no uniform policy on the aid is said to exist.

Whitehurst Freeway Traffic Plans Released

The District Highway Department yesterday released traffic plans for the Whitehurst Freeway, the city's first elevated expressway, which will be opened Saturday afternoon after a dedication ceremony.

About 30,000 motorists bound in and out of the downtown area are expected to use the structure each day, cutting travel time by about half between Rosslyn Plaza and Washington Circle. A 30-mile-an-hour speed limit will be placed on the roadway.

The opening ceremony will begin at 2 p. m. at the 27th st.-Rock-Creek terminus of the Freeway. Maria Whitehurst Brownett, 4-year-old granddaughter of the late Capt. Herbert C. Whitehurst, District Director of Highways, for whom the structure is named, will cut the ribbon formally opening the Freeway to traffic.

After speeches by highway and city officials, a parade will move to Rosslyn Plaza where the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a program. Sidney R. Johnson, chamber president, will preside.

During the programs, the 113th Fighter Group of the District Air National Guard will fly over the area in C-47, B-26 and F-47 planes. Col. Lindler B. Mackall will command the group.

Court Staff Honors Deputy Chief Clerk

The Municipal Court staff yesterday gave a luncheon party for William N. Norgren, who has been deputy chief clerk at the criminal division of the court for 20 years and came to the tribunal 25 years ago. Norgren is 53 years of age and resides at 5603 35th pl., Hyattsville, Md.

Creative Dance Lecture

A lecture demonstration on creative dance education for children will be held at the Fairlington Elementary School Sunday at 3 p. m.

Charter Revision Prepared

The Alexandria Charter Commission has completed a preliminary draft of a revised city charter and will submit its proposed revisions to the city council in about a month.

This was announced yesterday by Stanley King, chairman of the seven-man group appointed last spring to bring the city's 17-year-old charter up to date.

Before the proposed changes are given to the council or made public, King said, they will be submitted to the Bureau of Public Administration at the University of Virginia and other authorities on city government for suggestions for further changes.

After its report has been presented to the council, King stated, the commission intends to conduct public hearings which could result in other changes.

The only public indication of what the commission may recommend came last week when it asked the city council to hold an advisory referendum on the subject of nonpartisan election of city councilmen. The council ordered the referendum for November 8 after the commission agreed to a change in the wording to include all elective city officials.

Any proposed charter changes can become effective only after approval by the General Assembly.

Montgomery Farmers Win Tax Resurvey

Tax officials of Montgomery County yesterday were under orders from the State Tax Commission to resurvey assessments on a number of farms in the Brookeville area.

The order was issued Wednesday after an appeal and protest by Lemuel Showell, a farmer, who charges that county tax assessors have "gone astray and socked the farmers." He also protested the operation of the Montgomery County Tax Appeal Court.

Showell spoke for a group of Brookeville farmers who want their assessments reduced. He told the commission the new Montgomery County Council has planned so many improvements, particularly in the Washington metropolitan area, that it needs large additional revenues to carry them out.

"With the best of intentions, the county officials have done an injustice to farmers," he contended.

He said agricultural areas are assessed out of proportion.

"Without realizing what they were doing," Showell argued, the county officials "laid the pressure on a minority of the voters who happen to be those who will not receive the benefits of the expenditures this new government is going to make."

Showell said the County Tax Appeal Court was biased in that it wanted so much to help the County Council raise revenues for its improvement program that it exercised bad judgment. He said only two members of the court sat in the majority of cases.

The county court had reduced the assessment on Showell's property by about $1500. It did the same for one of his neighbors. However, each took his case to the tax commission on grounds the reduction was not enough.

Judge Rules Liquor Out As Evidence

Judge Nadine L. Gallagher of Municipal Court yesterday granted a motion to suppress as evidence 90 cases of liquor, beer and wine seized by police in the basement of 2013 Portner pl. nw.

The motion was brought by Attorney M. Edward Buckley, jr., for Thomas Wiggins, 42, who after the seizure was charged with keeping and selling liquor without a license.

The judge ruled police were "too precipitous" September 17, in taking the liquor without a search warrant. Police said they went into the residence following visitors, and there found a bar and cases of whisky.

Buckley argued that Wiggins acted under duress in letting the officers into the place because he knew they were policemen.

WHY A STEEL STRIKE ?

United States Steel wants to do what is right by its employees. We have always sought the loyal cooperation and friendship of our employees.

United States Steel favors proper programs of insurance, welfare, and pensions for its employees. We have had insurance and pension plans in effect for many years. We are ready and willing to work out with the Union through collective bargaining any changes in our existing programs for insurance and pensions which are now necessary or desirable.

Last week we made an offer to the Union to pay as our share of the cost of programs of insurance and pensions to be negotiated with the Union up to an average of 4 cents an hour for insurance and 6 cents an hour for pensions. That was a very substantial offer on our part. It would provide at our expense insurance and welfare benefits which our employees do not presently enjoy. The adoption of such programs would add more than $50,000,000 annually to our costs of operation.

The Union flatly rejected this liberal proposal and called a strike against us. Why? Simply because United States Steel is not willing to agree in advance that it will pay the entire cost of insurance and pensions for its employees.

Because of the Union's adamant stand that we must pay the entire cost of insurance and pensions for employees, the Union has deprived our employees of an opportunity immediately to obtain, without additional cost to them, insurance protection far superior to that which the employees now possess.

United States Steel proposed to pay as its share of the cost of an insurance program about $5.70 a month for each participating employee. A single employee would pay as his share about $2 a month and an employee with dependents about $3 a month. Our employees on the average are now paying under existing welfare arrangements more than these amounts each month for lesser benefits The payments by our employees under the proposed insurance program would not reduce their present take-home pay.

A proper and financially sound pension plan calls for most careful consideration. United States Steel has offered to join with the Union in making a joint study on pensions, and, upon the completion of this study, to negotiate with the Union for a pension plan to be included in a new labor contract, effective on May 1, 1950. As an indication of its good faith, United States Steel has offered to pay up to 6 cents an hour as its share of the cost of a mutually satisfactory contributory pension plan. Here again, the Union flatly rejected our proposal.

The only issue in the present steel strike is this:

Shall United States Steel be forced now to agree that it must pay the entire cost of insurance, welfare benefits and pensions for its employees? An assumption by the employer of complete financial responsibility would amount to the adoption of a major and highly costly principle, probably for all time. Moreover, such action by a large steel company would probably set a pattern for all American business. There is grave doubt as to the financial ability of American industry alone to pay the cost of adequate insurance and pension programs for employees. Furthermore, is it not in the best interests of the employee that he participate in the creation of a savings account for his future welfare?

Social Security in which both employer and employee share the cost has been the established order in this country for many years, as evidenced by the Federal Social Security Act.

Why should our employees and the whole nation suffer the disastrous consequences of a steel strike, from which the employees have so little to gain?

UNITED STATES STEEL

Point, Counterpoint

The most curious thing about the World Series up to now is the contrast to the delirious quality of play that marked the final stages of the pennant races, when the leading clubs, and for that matter most of their adversaries, behaved in a way that would scarcely have qualified them for competition with the Jimsonweed Juniors. But Wednesday's game and yesterday's at the Yankee Stadium had something like the quality of classical music. They were of the sort that delights the connoisseur, but often leaves the crowd a little cold because of the apparent scarcity of dramatic action, and of occasions for pulmonary exercise.

In such contests the whole effort of the offense becomes concentrated upon means of wangling the one necessary run around the bases, so that the interest lies in attempting to surmise the intention of the batter and the devices of the defense for frustrating him. Such games are somewhat less common nowadays than they were before the revision of the pitching rules in favor of the batters and the custom of using a barrel or two of baseballs in every game.

Wednesday's duet by Mr. Reynolds of the Yankees and Mr. Newcombe of the Dodgers was pretty close to a masterpiece. In point of virtuosity there was very little to choose between them. Mr. Reynolds was slightly more effective at the business of preventing the batsmen from getting a substantial whack at the ball, Mr. Newcombe at finding the corners of the plate when he needed to do so. But these advantages canceled each other almost as neatly as the factors in an algebraic equation.

What deprived the game of perfection was—speaking from the point of view of the higher esthetics—the nature of the climax, that is to say, Mr. Henrich's home run. According to the classical formula, the shock of recognition should have preceded the denouement, as Mr. Reds Barber called it. Thus it would have been rather more artistic if the Yankees had been obliged to advance their runner around the bases by slower stages. As it happened, the climax preceded the shock, so that it was apparently some seconds after the ball pasted by Mr. Henrich had dropped into the right field stands that the Dodgers understood they had been beaten and dragged themselves off the field.

Yesterday's affair between Mr. Raschi of the Yankees and the Mr. Roe of the Dodgers fell even shorter of classical perfection. Actually the climax came in the second inning. The rest was mostly silence. But this time it was the Yankees who were slow to recognize that the fates were against them. Anyway, honors now are easy, and it is just as though the series were to begin again—except, of course, for the matter of the gate receipts.

Point IV

Members of the House Foreign Affairs Committee were reported to be "chilled" on receipt of the Point IV program. Their reaction was probably an index more of overstrain than of their feelings toward this fresh request for legislative action. After all, the committee has disposed of many weighty issues since it was reconstituted after last November's elections. However, Point IV belongs singularly to the statesmanship of world leadership. It aims at improving the conditions of life of peoples in the undeveloped areas of the world who are now seething with poverty and discontent and are therefore a prey to communism.

The program is divided into two parts: technical assistance and investment, linked through the investment opportunities which technical assistance would eventually provide. The former is the business of the Foreign Affairs Committee. The bill provides for technical assistance wherever practicable under the aegis of the specialized agencies of the United Nations. The total budget for 1950 is $85,620,000, of which the American share would be 35 million dollars, and would serve the American republics, the Near East and Africa, and Asia, the dominant items being for agriculture and fisheries and for health.

The Point IV concept when it was broached in the President's Inaugural excited widespread interest and support. Some of the comment from other countries seemed to think of it in terms of big handouts. But the preparatory work which has been done admirably and painstakingly in the State Department and the United Nations carries out the initial intention of promoting mutual aid in helping nonindustrialized peoples to do better what they already do. No aid would be granted except on request and with the financial cooperation of the recipient countries, who would put up $28,540,000 of the $85,620,000 budget. The emphasis is on show-how. In agriculture, for instance, the Easterners would add considerably to their rice production if they knew and would adopt better practices. In health the conquest or control of malaria would be of immense benefit to Indian productivity.

As we see it, Point IV in its technical assistance aspect is a world application of the idea of our county extension service, and is already under way in the programs of American corporations with direct investments in Latin America. The program is modest and is merely a return to the world of what the world has done for America in creating the greatest and most diversified agriculture in history. Mr. Jefferson brought the rice plant back after his embassy to Paris, and what we have done with it could be returned with profit to all. Similarly the soybean was brought from China, and what we have done with it needs to be explained in the home of the soybean. The peoples of the world need to be shown, not by foreigners, but by their own people, and it is for this reason that Point IV seems to us a companion measure of the Mundt-Smith and Fulbright Acts. These are bringing teachers and students to this country to see modern methods in operation in respect of the things they themselves produce in their own countries. Modernization, of course, could easily be disruptive, but the nature of this program, as the United States Chamber of Commerce realizes, would make for manageable improvement within the framework of existing economies.

Again The Balkans

The warning by Marshal Tito that war may be imminent is not to be lightly dismissed. The world certainly seems to be closer to another world-wide conflagration now than at any time since the surrender of Japan in August, 1945. What Tito anticipates is an invasion of Yugoslavia by Soviet and satellite forces, possibly aided by a Stalinist uprising within his territories. His suspicions are strengthened by reports of recent Red army maneuvers. In his recent speech to his own army officers Tito acted upon his suspicions by disclosing that the Yugoslav armies have been engaging in some maneuvers of their own. Nor did he leave either his hearers or the world in any doubt that the Yugoslav armies would fight if their territories were invaded. It is better, he said

> . . . to die honestly in battle, fighting for justice and truth, than to allow yourselves to be trampled upon, than to bend your necks like slaves and see the great principles of Marxism and Leninism destroyed without resistance. . . . We have the right to defend our country and not allow our people to be isolated . . . We will not allow that.

Does the Kremlin believe that Tito means business? On more than one occasion in the past, notably in the Finnish crisis of 1939, Moscow has been guilty of a grave miscalculation, and there is a possibility that it might be laboring under a similar error about Yugoslavia. There can be no doubt, in our view, that the Yugoslavs, despite the economic exhaustion of their country, and their tremendous sufferings of the last eight years, would fight. They did not hesitate against the power of Imperial Austria in 1914. They took up arms against the power of Hitler in 1941. It is probably true that the great mass of Croats and Slovenes have little love for Tito, and it is certain that the Serbs and Montenegrins have even less. But much as they may detest his rule, they would prefer it to a dictatorship by Kremlin puppets whose first act after obtaining power would be to push through the program of collectivization demanded by Moscow. Finally, the Yugoslav armies have been purged of all Stalinist elements, so that Tito could count upon the loyalty of his officers.

Thus for another time the Balkans appear to be providing a spark that may develop into another and even more terrible world-wide conflagration. For it is very hard to see how in the present state of international politics such a conflict could be localized. It seems utterly unlikely that the Western powers could passively accept Russian domination of the eastern shore of the Adriatic, and the Russians should be warned of this in some public form or other, without delay. If, in spite of this, the Russians were to try to overrun Yugoslavia, we should be implicated, anyway. For the first act of war, or even serious border incident, would immediately be followed by an appeal by the Yugoslavs to the Security Council of the United Nations.

Now the Security Council consists, in addition to the five permanent members, France, Great Britain, China, the United States and Russia, of six temporary members, Argentina, Canada, Cuba, Egypt, Norway and the Ukraine. Under the Charter Russia could not exercise its veto power because it would be a party to the dispute. Thus the seven votes necessary to a decision for intervention would probably be available to the Western powers. Such a decision, of course, would have to be implemented by military power and no doubt in such strength that only the United States would be capable of supplying it. Any other action by the Security Council would, of course, be a death blow to the United Nations, for it would have demonstrated its impotence as completely as the impotence of the League of Nations was demonstrated by the Italian invasion of Ethiopia and by the German, Italian and Russian intervention in the Spanish Civil War.

Billy Mitchells

Navy authorities had no other course, it seems to us, than to take action against Capt. John G. Crommelin. What Captain Crommelin did in leaking to the press copies of a confidential memorandum to Secretary Matthews was a brazen defiance of Navy regulations. It was not for him to say whether the confidential classification was warranted. Captain Crommelin already had been treated with more than usual tolerance after his earlier impassioned outburst against unification. For his present insubordination to go unpunished would have been to invite every Navy officer who disagreed with orders to sound off in public—to invite, in other words, a complete deterioration of discipline.

It is apparent that Captain Crommelin deliberately sought martyrdom. Possibly he feels that his sacrifice was responsible for the House Armed Services Committee decision to investigate the whole complex of the Navy's mission and its relation to the Air Force. Reportedly, if the Crommelin effort had failed, there were other self-styled "Billy Mitchells" willing to offer themselves up by the dozens.

But the parallel between the current Navy antics and the experience of the late General Mitchell in his battle for recognition of air power is one that can be carried too far. What the Navy is arguing for, basically, is not new concepts but a different emphasis in the allocation of missions and funds. Granted the sincerity and zeal of the Navy protagonists, the vitriol and insubordination which have accompanied their crusade have brought more antagonism than understanding.

The Navy now hopes to use the House investigation to get across, principally to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, its conception of what its functions should be. It wants, for example, enough carrier aviation for offense as well as defense in maintaining control of the sea, on the theory that control implies ability to strike at the shore bases from which sea activities can be attacked. But in presenting its case the Navy will get nowhere if it attempts to deal only in absolutes. What the country must seek, and the Navy and Air Force must accept, is integration in place of service autonomy. A real meeting of minds cannot be achieved until both sides are willing to play on the same team, and right now the burden of proof is on the Navy.

Sham Battle

It would have been embarrassing, to be sure, but still it would have been respectable, if the Senate Commerce Committee had rejected Leland Olds as a member of the Federal Power Commission on the candid ground that he has been stubborn in his opposition to the utility interests. But the proprieties, it appears, call for a greater measure of piety. Thus we have the spectacle of Senators "shocked beyond description" because more than 20 years ago Mr. Olds wrote disrespectfully, indeed sacrilegiously, about the Fourth of July.

Mr. Olds' disrespect for the oil and natural gas lobbies, therefore, has nothing to do with the case. And President Truman was just wasting so much ink and paper when he wrote to Senator Edwin C. Johnson pointing out that "Mr. Olds is a nationally recognized champion of effective utility regulation," that "he has already served two full terms as a member of the Federal Power Commission," that "he has labored diligently in the service of all the people and has earnestly sought to protect the public against the narrow interests of special groups." If the President could only show that Mr. Olds now sets off firecrackers fervently whenever Independence Day rolls round, he might get somewhere.

One can only hope that when Mr. Olds' name comes before the Senate as a whole, that body will prove more profound and less chauvinistic, more interested in substance and less in symbols. It would be a good idea to make the fight over Mr. Olds' confirmation something more than a sham battle.

Troops In Alaska

Chairman Vinson of the House Armed Services Committee merits applause for his change of mind respecting the defense of Alaska. Previously Mr. Vinson had announced that he would not push the military public works bill, which included funds for housing and other military construction in this northern frontier. Evidently the findings of the Joint Chiefs of Staff bore fruit; General Bradley reported that lack of adequate housing is the largest obstacle to the necessary strengthening of Alaskan defense with more soldiers and airmen. Mr. Vinson's response was prompt and sensible. He introduced a separate bill providing 133 million dollars for housing and communications in Alaska, and his committee has now approved it. Separation from more controversial items of the public works bill is the logical way to give A-1 priority to Alaskan defense, and we hope the Senate Armed Services Committee will show a similar appreciation of the need for action.

Navy Morale

Admiral Bogan says that Navy morale is low. Well, what are Admiral Bogan and other Navy braid doing to raise morale?

Unification of our armed forces is the law of the land. Does it help Navy morale for Admiral Bogan to repeat that he was opposed to this law? Does it help for Captain Crommelin "heroically" to charge the Joint Chiefs of Staff with pursuing an operation known as "Nibble?" Does it help for Admiral Denfeld to repeat Admiral King's statement, "any step that is not good for the Navy is not good for the Nation?"

The Army is also facing the future with some loss of glamour. The Army, however, has tried to build up morale (1) by promoting an extensive career guidance plan, (2) by expanding its information program to include officers, and (3) by advertising the value of Army careers as "part of a team."

When Admiral Bogan and all of the other complaining admirals descend on Washington to explain how unification is damaging Navy morale, let them be well prepared to explain what they themselves are doing to help Navy morale.

Persecution In Spain

Mr. Robert F. Spaldine's letter of October 1, in which he criticizes your editorial, "Recognition," of September 27, cannot go unanswered. He calls your editorial a "gem of shabby thinking"; his letter is a gem of casuistry.

Mr. Spaldine objects to the phrase, "it is reported." Does he know that newspapers use the phrase "it is reported" to save space whenever a topic has been under general discussion?

He inquires as to the authority for your statement on the persecution of Protestants in Spain. Since he asks for it, I would suggest a perusal of Homer Bigart's articles on Spain in the New York Herald Tribune February 1 to 4, 1949; two articles in the Washington Star, December 22 1946, one by John P. McKnight and the other by Carl Hartman; and a letter in the October 14, 1948, Washington Post by the Rev. Stanley I. Stuber of the Northern Baptist Convention.

These are but a few of the many articles dealing with the religious persecution in Spain which have appeared in American newspapers. Add to them the many reports found in Protestant, Masonic, and liberal journals, and one has considerable grounds for using the phrase "it is reported."

Columbia Opera

Few of the people who will have the privilege of seeing and hearing Gounod's Faust at Lisner Auditorium, October 7 and 8, will realize the difficulties which Columbia Opera Company has had to surmount throughout the years in achieving this high degree of excellence. The audience will be viewing one of the finest productions of its kind yet presented in Washington, which will, in truth, be a tribute to the hard, constant efforts of the company and to the fine directing by Miss Ethyl Manning.

Even fewer people will realize that this performance may see the end of Columbia Opera and of permanent opera in Washington for years to come. During 12 long, arduous years Miss Manning has contributed her time and talent gratuitously to the development of the Columbia Opera Company.

The Columbia Opera Association was formed about a year ago to manage, support, and underwrite the productions of Columbia Opera. The association last spring endeavored to raise a permanent sustaining fund for opera in Washington.

As is customary in this, the greatest capital of the world, most people gave lip service to the idea, but few gave more. The Board of Trade and various business firms here, contacted with the thought of underwriting some of the productions, declined to assist. All, however, praised the company and wished it success.

Through the summer months the association sponsored benefit performances of Columbia Opera. Mr. Ralph Scott, owner of Scott's Hotel, most graciously provided an auditorium for these summer performances. By these and other means enough money was raised to make possible the presentation of Faust.

But at last, a lack of financial support by the Washington public has forced Miss Manning reluctantly to give up Columbia Opera in order to accept a lucrative position with another opera company in Michigan.

It seems to me that this Capital cannot well afford to go on much longer, oblivious to the absence of theaters, concert halls, and an opera house. The extent to which it fails to support the theater, the symphony orchestra, and an opera company are measures of its cultural immaturity.

"Chinese Realities"

The burden of your October 4 editorial, "Chinese Realities," seems to be: "We made a mistake in helping Kolchak in 1918; we made another mistake in helping Chiang Kai-shek in 1945; okay. The time has come to get over our paralysis and look the new realities in the face, for we shall assuredly have to live with them!"

Truer words than those last were never spoken. We're living with the results of our failure to stem communism in Russia in 1918 just as we shall have to live with our failure to stem communism in China in 1945.

True, we never had a Hay Doctrine in our policy toward Russia; we had never taken the initiative in keeping the wolves from the carcass as we did in 1900; nor, after bolstering up the carcass for nine years, did we suddenly throw it to the wolves, as we did the Nationalist government of China in 1946.

"The same mischief and the same reaction and the same failure—all have been repeated in China." I quite agree with you. Graves, while ordered to deliver arms to Kolchak managed to scuttle him quite neatly. The whole Siberian expedition returned home as Red as a herring. Marshall, ordered to bring some order out of chaos, managed to achieve a great deal of chaos out of what was at least some order.

The result in both cases was similar. We made our beds, or at least they were made for us, and we shall have to lie in them. It is one thing to make mistakes and have to live with them. It is quite another to make mistakes and have to die by them.

Slowe School

The fact that there was a fire hazard at Slowe School as a result of crowded rooms and failure to observe aisle space has been established. Although Mrs. Alice Elam, director of nine Negro elementary schools, as reported in the press, admitted that rearranged furniture in every room had overcome a fire hazard and that sufficient aisle space had resulted to permit each child to reach the door in an emergency, the superintendent's office in spite of earlier denials of a fire hazard, has never publicly admitted the existence of a potential fire hazard.

The fire hazard at Slowe School points to the immediate necessity for an over-all inspection of similarly crowded schools in Washington, since enrollment at this time is particularly heavy. Further, as a regular procedure, fire inspection should be made of all crowded schools during the first week of school. A failure to do so is, in my judgment, a flagrant neglect of duty on the part of school officials.

The failure of school officials to act immediately on an important document like ours—a document including information relative to a potential fire hazard—represents poor administrative procedure. The Slowe parents, not the school officials, made the first step to return the children to school.

Slowe School is often pointed to by school officials as a model of what is done for Negroes. The external appearance of Slowe School has deceived many. Internally, at the beginning of the school year, there was a fire hazard. Internally, it is still educationally unsound with as many as 46 children and four grade levels in a single room.

One of the teachers, who instructs 46 children and four grades in one room, is also teacher-in-charge. Throughout the day, whenever the principal is not present, which is often, because the principal is also principal of Crummell School, this teacher must answer the telephone and receive visitors and leave these 46 children to their own devices. Such a thinning of the educational process is unpardonable.

Admitting DPs

To permit the entrance of DPs into this country is a blunder. The conditions under which they have lived, their deeply rooted hatreds and prejudices, intolerances, bigotries, and lack of flexibility, make them undesirable anywhere. The reasons given for their not going to their former homes do not seem sound. There is in Europe an exaggerated idea of this country—it is the land of plenty and happiness—a dream of heaven to which they cling.

Many foreigners never learn to speak English intelligibly, nor our customs, traditions, viewpoints, nor understand the principles on which this Government is founded. I have talked to quite a number of them in different cities. They herd together in large cities and become a fertile field for foreign propaganda.

The so-called "system of free enterprise" is the age-old struggle for survival, somewhat modified by developing humanitarian instincts; the saving of many weak babies and unfortunates is loading an ever-increasing burden upon the people; heavy taxation is crushing down the standard of living; increasing poverty will force the curtailment of the war industries and spending in Europe; unemployment will grow and the DPs, either by adding to the unemployed or throwing Americans out of employment, will intensify our problems.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Mr. Olds' Views

THE SENATE committee that has rejected with righteous indignation the nomination of Leland Olds to a new term on the Federal Power Commission has put itself in a ludicrous position. It is more than 10 years too late with this noble indignation.

If Olds was all the things the committee found him to be, then he never should have been named to the commission at all. Yet, he was not only appointed—and confirmed by the Senate—to a full term, but he was reappointed and confirmed a second time.

The material that Olds wrote for the Federated Press was available 10 years ago and 5 years ago. It was all there in the record and the words that Olds wrote meant then just what they mean today.

Nor has Olds himself changed during those 10 years. He is just as firm a believer in the regulation of public utilities in behalf of the consuming public. That is the real issue in the case—whether utilities shall be regulated in such a way that the companies make a fair and even a generous profit as they have during Olds' term as a commissioner, while at the same time the consuming public pays a reasonable rate for gas and electricity.

In some of his writing for the Federated Press 20 years and more ago Olds expressed radical opinions. In the light of events that have happened since, what he said then may sound wrong and foolish. But many men have said things that were foolish, things they lived to regret later.

WHILE it is true that Olds was not young when he wrote the articles that the committee professes to be so shocked by, they were written in quite another climate of opinion when doubts about capitalism were widespread because of the excesses of the boom of the twenties. That bubble burst in the crash of 1929 and there was more doubt and disillusion.

In the past decade the belief has grown that by regulation and a minimum of control exercised by Government, the excesses can be prevented and the free enterprise system preserved in virtually its entirety. At the same time the danger of creeping controls, of a gradual encroachment of bureaucracy is real, and it is necessary to be alert against it.

But the kind of regulation that Olds stands for and the kind of controls represented by the power commission cannot be considered a new or threatening encroachment. The committee that rejected Olds didn't even pretend to say so. They evaded the whole issue by raising their hands in pious horror at words Olds had written long before he was first appointed.

A. A. Berle, jr., who has proved himself over and over to be a determined and consistent anti-Communist, put it very well when he testified in Olds' behalf. Berle said that if there weren't men like Olds to do the regulating job, then we should have to invent them in order to protect the enterprise system from its own excesses. Another effective witness for Olds was Morris L. Cooke, the engineer who left a lucrative private business to initiate the Rural Electrification Administration.

QUITE apart from the words spoken by Olds, by his accusers and his defenders were the looming economic realities. The powerful forces and the clever men who worked behind the scenes to block Olds' confirmation were aiming higher. They were aiming at passage of the bill that takes the production of natural gas out from under Federal regulation, a bill Olds has consistently opposed. That means that the little group of men who control the production of natural gas, among them Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, can charge what the tariff will bear.

That explains why officials from several large cities came to testify for Olds. They know that the millions of consumers now dependent on natural gas—a large proportion using it to heat their homes—will be charged much higher rates. If the group that blocked Olds can put across the next step and pass Senator Kerr's bill to take gas production out from under regulation, then the householder will very quickly discover that something has happened to his gas bill.

Still another powerful economic force was at work. That force has a broader political base than the natural gas group. The coal producers, and this includes John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, would like to see a sizable rise in the price of natural gas, which competes with coal and in instance after instance has replaced coal. So that force was also behind the pious words.

In our complicated society cause and effect are often so far removed that we fail to see the connection. When the householder notes, a year or so from now, that the figures on his gas bill have jumped up, he may not even remember the action taken by a Senate committee that for a brief day or so made the headlines.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

The Angry Admirals

A GOOD rousing row is always good rousing fun, but it is a bit dangerous to forget that serious issues may be involved. Despite the distracting drama of hole-and-corner passing out of confidential documents, serious issues are involved in the current tempest in the Navy.

In the first place Captain Crommelin's blast against service unification and its various sequels are not merely episodes in the struggle between the Navy and the Air Force. They are also symptoms of a bitter split within the Navy itself, between the sea officers, led by the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Louis Denfeld, and the naval aviators, led by the Pacific Fleet commander, Admiral A. W. Radford.

In wartime the naval aviators met only the inferior Japanese air force, and from this experience conceived an exceedingly dubious theory of the potentialities of naval aviation in land warfare. Postwar, the naval aviators for a time dominated naval policy. To put it bluntly, their plans for extensive encroachment on the functions of the land-based Air Force offered the best chance of building the vast naval establishment that all admirals, battleship or other, instinctively desire. Thus all admirals supported the aviators.

This situation was, in itself, gravely disquieting. After all, the primary mission of the Navy is, and must always be, maintaining control of the seas. From the end of the war onwards, our control of the seas has been directly threatened by the German high-speed, radar-proof submarine, which the Soviet Union is building in quantity. Yet our Navy long gave naval aviation high priority over antisubmarine warfare. While funds were lavished on such projects as the giant carrier, the Research and Development Board had to protest vigorously against the inadequacy of the antisubmarine research effort. Even now, this fundamental submarine problem has not been really solved.

THE PASSAGE of the service unification bill, and the subsequent brilliant work of General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower, had the effect of forcing the Navy back into its primary mission. The job of controlling the seas looked almost big enough to the sea officers like Admiral Denfeld, who is himself a submariner. But the resulting limitation of their expansive plans enraged the naval aviators like Admiral Radford, to the point of the rather open insubordination that has now been displayed.

The fury of the naval aviators has been directed, not only against the President and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson, but also against Admiral Denfeld and the other sea officers like him. The thought seems to be that Admiral Denfeld has been criminally weak to accept the fact that the Navy cannot make its policies and develop its strength in total independence, and even in defiance of both the Joint Chiefs of Staff and the United States Government. And the motive of the recent outbursts has been as much to embarrass Admiral Denfeld as to build a fire under Secretary Johnson.

This is speaking out in meeting, and such inconvenient truths may of course be denied. But they are true nonetheless. And it is true also that the Navy's present share of the total defense investment represents rather generous concessions to the Navy's touchy sensibilities by the other Chiefs of Staff and by General Eisenhower.

THE CENTRAL fact, which everyone seems to forget, is that the Soviet Union has no navy except for the submarines which our Navy has somewhat neglected. In war-planning against a nonnaval power, it is obviously logical to economize, if economies must be made at all, on our own naval strength.

The British long ago have done this. But even after the British navy has been cut to the bone, and our own naval forces have been reduced in a manner that Captain Crommelin says cripples our defenses, the strength ratio between us and the Soviets must be at least 10 to 1. So judicious and impartial a soldier as General Eisenhower is known to believe that there is no real justification for investing over 30 per cent of total defense funds in maintaining a 10-to-1 naval strength ratio. And in view of our appalling weakness in other branches, the argument certainly seems hard to refute.

There remains the issue of the Navy's morale, which has been raised by Captain Crommelin and Admirals Radford and Bogan. In harsh terms it must be considered a symptom of shockingly low morale if the requirement that the Navy adapt itself to a national strategic plan can send so many of its officers off the deep end.

If morale is in question, it surely cannot be vastly improved by exhibitions of fairly open insubordination by high officers in responsible positions. And open attacks on the more cooperative naval officers like Admiral Denfeld and Admiral Forrest Sherman (who was exiled to the Mediterranean for his part in the unification bill) cannot help morale much either. In short, the drama is pleasing, but the facts are not.

District Sewer Division Asks $5,576,004 Budget for 1951

The District Sewer Division yesterday asked for a budget of $5,576,004 for the fiscal year 1951 with $500,000 of that amount earmarked for a start on a five-year program to end floods in the Brightwood section.

This area, particularly at 5th and Ingraham sts. and 7th and Hamilton sts., has been the source of repeated complaints of flooded cellars, overloaded drains and submerged roadways.

Ellwood Johnson, superintendent of sewers, said the District will have to spend 2½ million dollars to cure the problem and asked for $500,000 as the first leg. This amount will go for installation of a combined sanitary and stormwater sewer in the Piney Branch section in the vicinity of 16th st. and Arkansas ave. nw. Eventually this line will relieve drainage in the flooded areas, he explained.

Sewage Aids Asked

Johnson also asked for a million dollars to begin construction of a sludge drying and sewage chlorination facilities at the sewage treatment plant at Blue Plains. Plans have been completed for the project and the total cost earmarked at $2,100,000.

Another project at the plant will be construction of an aeration plant and secondary sedimentation tanks. The sum of $80,000 was asked for plan money for the project.

Other capital outlay projects planned are:

Stormwater sewers in all parts of the District with priority according to need, $894,860.

Replacement sewers—$125,000 in all parts of the District, but principally in the old section of Washington south of Florida ave. and in Georgetown for stormwater and sanitation.

Service Sewers

Service sewers to eliminate privies and keep up with the District's building expansion—$500,800.

Expansion of the Rock Creek substation at 27th and K sts. nw., which now serves Georgetown and the Little Falls area, by adding and replacing pumps—$100,000.

The District presently has a sewage system which cost 55 million dollars to build and handles annually 71.6 billion gallons of sewage. An estimated 82.3 billion gallons are expected will have to be handled in fiscal 1951.

Portrait Of De Gasperi, Italy's "Immovable Man"

Gervasi

Because he has survived five cabinet crises and a critical election, Italians call Premier de Gasperi their "Immovable Man." His opponents claim, however, that he has an Achilles heel—his link with the Vatican.

Whether that link really militates against De Gasperi is brought out in Post correspondent Frank Gervasi's profile of the Premier this Sunday. Read his dispatch from Rome in Section II of Sunday's Post.

'Handful of Dynamite . . .'

School Search Yields 2 of 51 Explosive Caps

Despite a diligent room-by-room search of every school building in Falls Church yesterday, city police last night had uncovered only two more of the 51 TNT-packed dynamite caps believed to be in the hands of city children.

Police recovered 13 caps on Wednesday, after it was reported that 65 had been stolen Monday from a jeep, owned by the Loan & Poppelman construction firm and parked near the Oak st. school.

One of the caps exploded Tuesday, ripping part of the thumb and two fingers from the left hand of 10-year-old Clarence W. Case, of 1020 Cedar le., Sleepy Hollow, near Falls Church.

The boy was reported improving yesterday in Episcopal Hospital by his father, Clarence W. Case. Six particles of the cap are lodged in the boy's right eye, his father said.

Falls Church Police Lieutenant Edward Simpson said he canvassed all city schools, with one of the inch and a half long slender copper cylinders as a demonstration.

One of the caps was found on the floor of a privately owned and operated school bus, used to haul children to and from St. James School, where about eight other pupils were found to have the caps in their possession Wednesday. A second was turned in by the father of a 7-year-old boy, who had been using it for a whistle.

Simpson said he had no further leads on the remaining 49 caps, whose explosive qualities, he warned, are not affected by time.

Lehman Says Dewey Plans to Run Again

New York, Oct. 6 (U.P.).—Herbert H. Lehman charged tonight that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey had actively entered the New York senatorial campaign because he was planning to try for the Republican presidential nomination for a third time.

Lehman, former Governor of New York, who opposes John Foster Dulles in the November special election for the U. S. Senate, spoke at a meeting of the International Ladies' garment Workers Union.

49 D. C. Firms Named in Tax Notices Filed

Tax lien notices for delinquency in paying withholding taxes, Federal insurance contributions, or Federal unemployment insurance, were filed yesterday in District Court against 49 Washington business firms and organizations.

A notice of failure to pay all three, plus luggage tax, all of which totaled $11,476.50 during 1948-49, was filed against the Norbud Hosiery Shops, Inc., 2101 Rhode Island ave. ne., which is in the midst of bankruptcy proceedings.

Notices of back taxes, totaling more than $1000, were also filed against:

Reed Research, Inc., 1048 Potomac st. nw., $6213.88 withholding taxes and Federal insurance contributions in 1949. An official said the firm is paid up.

Phelps-Roberts Machine and Welding Co., 2361 Sherman ave. nw., $1188.90 withholding taxes in 1949. A spokesman said they accidentally failed to file the proper papers with their returns, but that the matter was straightened out now.

Air Survey Corp., 3203 O st. nw., $1190.87 withholding taxes and Federal insurance contributions in 1949. An official said a check was sent out yesterday to cover the amount.

Goldcraft Portraits Inc., 716 13th st. nw., $1553.39 withholding taxes and Federal insurance contributions in 1949. Officials there refused to comment.

Robert H. Huff, jr., trading as the Huff Construction Co. Inc., 145 Kennedy st. nw., $3813.11 withholding taxes and Federal insurance contributions in 1949. He could not be reached by telephone for comment.

Fred A. Russell, trading as the Takoma Engineering Co., 143 Kennedy st. nw., $2370.10 withholding taxes, Federal insurance contributions and Federal unemployment insurance in 1949. A spokesman said the money had been sent by mistake to the Washington instead of the Baltimore office.

Patrick J. O'Sullivan, plumber, 914 Liberty st. sw., $2538.59 withholding taxes, Federal insurance contributions and Federal unemployment insurance in 1949. He could not be reached by telephone for comment.

Karl Geis, trading as Geis Iron Works, rear 205 L st. ne., $1140 withholding taxes in 1949. Geis said he planned to make payment shortly.

President May Give Up Switzer as Court Choice

By The Associated Press

Reports circulated yesterday that President Truman may let lapse and fail to renew next January his nomination of Carroll L. Switzer as Federal district judge for southern Iowa.

Mr. Truman talked over the matter yesterday with Senator Gillette (D., Iowa), who has opposed the appointment as "a direct affront" to him. There was no White House comment. Gillette refused to discuss the matter with reporters.

Budapest Players at Finest In First Concert of Series

By Paul Hume

The Budapest String Quartet opened its annual Library of Congress concerts last night with the help of two guest artists.

Frank Sheridan, pianist, played in all three of the evening's compositions. Mason Jones, first horn was heard with Sheridan and the quartet's leading violinist, Josef Roisman, in Brahms' Horn Trio.

Mozart's piano quartet in E Flat opened the evening, which ended with Cesar Franck's quintet. In complete harmony with the natural phenomenon occurring outside the auditorium, Mozart eclipsed both Brahms and Franck. The melodic freshness of his quartet provided contrasts in tone and rhythm that were not duplicated at any later point during the program.

The Budapest players sounded their finest throughout the evening. Frank Sheridan proved an artist in Mozart—an artist indeed.

Franck's sole quintet is more reliant upon his unique harmonic scheme than almost any of his large works. The players took hold together in the best ensemble manner. Even so the score is long for its message. But what a pleasure to hear French chamber works.

Brahms' Horn Trio contains two slow movements, the first and third. Its scherzo and finale are rapid. The slow movements last night suffered from a tendency to let the music speak too gently, almost amorphously.

Mason Jones is one of the great horn players in this country but last night his tone was a bit too muffled for my taste, and lacked the bite that would have given the trio some of the zing it needs. Roisman was superb in the trio as throughout the concert. The galloping movements of the work came off fairly well. It was a performance which none of the three players would care to have published on phonograph records.

Post Carrier Served 'Uncle' Joe Cannon

Livingston Vann, jr., 61, may not be one of those who claim that winters nowadays aren't what they used to be, but he remembers all too well the cold spells around the turn of the century.

That is because, he was saying yesterday, he was out in the "cold, snowy mornings," delivering The Washington Post in the neighborhood of 14th and K sts. nw.

He used to serve it to people like Joseph G. (Uncle Joe) Cannon, who was Speaker of the House of Representatives from 1903 to 1911.

Vann, an employe of the Agriculture Department's bureau of animal industry, lives at 5416 30th pl. nw. His son, Livingston Vann, 3d., 13, currently is a carrier for this newspaper. The senior Vann has entered the contest to find the four former carriers who delivered the paper the longest time ago.

For at least three years beginning in 1905 or so, Vann delivered to 60 or 70 subscribers living on 13th and 14th sts. nw. around K and L sts. He generally made about $7 a month, but it went a lot farther then than it does now, he said.

And to get around the winter's blast, he used to drop in on a place on his route where they knew a cold lad when they saw one. Used to warm him up on coffee. "It certainly did help," Vann recalled.

There was little help, though, for S. W. Taylor of North Beach, Md., who writes he was "Peck's bad boy" when it came to carrying The Washington Post back in 1889.

Taylor's letter said that when his circulation boss fired him, "he told me I was the worst boy he ever had." Seems that when he was heading for his route with papers telling of the Johnstown flood in 1889, "people took my papers and gave me from 5 to 10 cents."

"So I had a pocketful of money and no papers for my (regular) customers."

Old-time Post carriers are asked to write or phone John J. Corson, circulation director, before Saturday. The four who delivered the paper the longest time ago will be guests of this newspaper at the Eagles-Redskin football game in Philadelphia on October 23.

U. S. to Keep Hiring At Minimum for Arms Plan Administration

The minimum number of administrative people will be hired to carry out the new arms aid program, which became law yesterday.

But directly or indirectly, the Government must have several thousand persons to make, to pack, and to ship arms to the 14 Western European countries. Some of this work may be let out to private contractors.

The arms law gives the President the authority to delegate the responsibility for carrying it out. It's assumed he will appoint James Bruce to coordinate the program and report to the Secretary of State. Bruce would have a small staff, about 200.

The Army will actually procure and inspect the arms. A staff to be housed in the Pentagon will check on specifications, handle procurement of the arms, and allocate them among the friendly European countries. In general, it will be composed of experts and technicians.

A technical mission from here is to be sent to each of the participating European nations. It is estimated that from 300 to 500 persons will be needed to administer the $1,314,000,000 program.

COMPENSATION BILL: Congress yesterday took final action on the Lesinski compensation bill and sent it to the White House, where the President will sign it.

It is one of the most important Federal worker reforms to be approved by Congress in recent years. The compensation act hasn't been changed in 22 years and it is as out of date as the Model T Ford.

At present, the maximum compensation payable in any case of injury or death of a Federal worker is an inadequate $1400 a year. The bill raises it to $525 a month. The bill increases the burial benefit from $200 to $400, and the allowance for an attendant from $50 to $75 a month.

One section of the bill would make awards of about seven million dollars to Federal employes who were seriously injured as long ago as 1941.

The President recommended the liberalized bill to Congress. He is sure to approve it.

CENSUS: It has decided to hire its thousands of temporary clerks from Civil Service registers.

Only the enumerators and a few other employes will be exempted from Civil Service. Census will hire about 175 enumerators for six-week periods next spring to take its house-to-house population and housing checks.

Census plans to hire 5500 clerks in Philadelphia and 3000 here next year to tabulate and analyze the results. All these persons will be hired from Civil Service rolls. Peak employment for the project will come next July 1.

Grade 5 jobs and below will be exempt from the Classification Act, which means that salaries lower than the regular Government scale may be paid in Philadelphia.

PAY STRATEGY: Congress hopes to adjourn a week from today and no meetings of the Senate and House conferees on the classified and postal pay-reclassification bills have been scheduled.

This ominous turn of events is giving employe leaders great concern. In fact, there were suggestions yesterday on Capitol Hill that both bills may be victims of the last-minute adjourment rush.

We may get a clue today if the conferees meet as scheduled on the top-flight pay raise bill. If an agreement is reached on that legislation and if the Senate and the House confirm it, the way may be cleared for favorable action on the bills for classified and postal employes. On the other hand, a delay over the weekend on the executive bill will mean a race against time for all the pay bills.

Postal employes have been turned down flat on their suggestion that the postal pay bill be disposed of first. Senate and House conferees agree that the executive pay bill must be taken up first.

No conferences could be held yesterday as the full House Civil Service Committee met on a bill to increase postal rates. The Administration is opposed to any pay bill unless it is accompanied by a bill to boost postal rates. The committee failed to report a rate bill yesterday but it will meet again on it early next week.

3-Judge Increase For D. C. Clears Senate Hurdle

Neely Is Chairman At First Session With Full Quorum Since Appointment

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A three-judge increase for Municipal Court here was voted yesterday by the Senate District Committee in its first session with Senator Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.) as chairman.

Two previous efforts to stage the meeting had failed for lack of a quorum. Yesterday the necessary seven members showed up before the deadline and an eighth arrived in a few minutes.

The committee also approved a House-passed bill to give retired police and firemen a share in the benefits of the last District pay increase for the year from July, 1948, through June, 1949.

The committee approved the $189,000 bill over opposition of the District Commissioners.

Because of the Commissioners' opposition, Senator Lester C. Hunt, chairman of the District Fiscal Affairs subcommittee, voted against reporting the back pension bill, but he assured the committee that if the majority favored the bill, he would support the measure in the Senate. His was the only vote against approval.

Approval for the Municipal Court judgeship bill was given after adoption of two amendments revising existing law on the qualifications of the judges.

Present law requires that eight of 10 Municipal Court judgeships shall be filled by appointees who have been bona fide residents of the District for five years immediately before appointment. The committee voted to enlarge the residence qualification to permit appointment of other persons, otherwise qualified, who live in the Washington Metropolitan area—the District, Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties in Maryland, and Alexandria, and Arlington and Fairfax Counties, Va.

The second amendment took out of the bill a proposal to restrict appointments to the Municipal Court to persons who had served as a judge in a court of the District or those who had devoted the major part of their time and derived the major part of their income from private law practice in the District for a 5-year period before appointment. Instead, the committee voted to permit appointment of either those who had been in private practice here, or had served as a Federal or District government attorney in Washington during the five-year period before appointment.

A similar bill is awaiting House action.

Other Bills Approved

The committee also approved bills to:

1. Authorize issuing a chiropractor's license here to Abraham J. Ehrlich.
2. Remove the requirement of District residence for members of the Mental Health Commission here.
3. Place five District positions under the Federal Classification Act. The jobs are two Public Utilities Commissions, People's Counsel in the PUC, superintendent of Gallinger Hospital, and superintendent of the National Training School for Girls.
4. Extend the time for Eastern ave. property owners to file claims for expenses placed on them by the widening of their street.
5. Exempt the Sons of the American Revolution from paying District personal property taxes on the furnishings of their building at 1227 16th st. nw.
6. Authorize the District Commissioners to contract for the removal of sludge from the city's sewage treatment plant.

Taxi Limit Discussion Put Off

Discussion of taxicab limitation and insurance revision bills was postponed. Chairman Neely suggested that the full District committee, rather than a subcommittee, take charge of his bill to set up a Human Rights Commission for Washington, but a Senate quorum call postponed a decision.

Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) was assigned to head the Judiciary Subcommittee and Senator Edward Leahy (D., R. I.) to head both the Public Services Subcommittee, and a special subcommittee to prepare a report on tax exempt property in the District. The tax exemption study was recommended by Senator Hunt.

Jury Upheld

Bostic Found Mad, Escapes Death Chair

James Bostic, a 36-year-old, moody, preoccupied man, was freed yesterday for an indefinite time from fear of the electric chair which has faced him since 1937.

No physical freedom came with his release from fear, however. The assurance he will not be electrocuted for a 13-year-old murder resulted from a finding that he is now insane and has been for years.

It means commitment either to St. Elizabeths Hospital, where he spent most of his time since 1940, or to another Federal institution for the mentally ill.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff, in District Court, ordered a jury to return a verdict that Bostic is not sane at this time. By his order, and in direct instructions, he overruled testimony of Dr. Bernard A. Cruvant, a St. Elizabeths psychiatrist. The psychiatrist declared Bostic is of sound mind now, has been since he first examined him in 1946, and probably always has been.

Jury Opinion Upheld

Judge Holtzoff said that the testimony of Dr. Cruvant was automatically ruled out since it contradicted a jury finding that Bostis was insane in 1940. He said the jury's finding was binding as of that date.

Two Gallinger Hospital psychiatrists testified yesterday that they believe Bostic is not sane. Dr. Joseph Gilbert and Dr. Amino Perretti both said he suffers from an 'undifferentiated psychosis." Dr. Gilbert said he suffers a "prison or situation psychosis," which he said is not unusual among persons serving long terms or "unusual sentences." He specifically mentioned the death sentence on Bostic. He also said Bostic has delusions of hearing voices.

Bostic was convicted in 1937 of the murder of William Tuckson, jr., 16, in 1936. The death sentence was imposed. A long legal fight followed, with more than a dozen reprieves.

Apparently Unmoved

After the 1940 jury finding, he was sent to St. Elizabeths.

Recently, authorities at the hospital declared Bostic sane and returned him to District Jail and the jurisdiction of District Court. Judge Holtzoff then ordered the lunacy hearing, on defense contention Bostic was and is insane.

The defendant sat during the hearing yesterday with his head down, apparently entirely unmoved by the proceedings.

Holtzoff ordered Bostic back to St. Elizabeths or if he is not accepted there, to the Federal hospital at Springfield, Mo.

Qualifications Listed For Virginia Voting

To vote in the State general election November 8, Virginia voters must:

Register by midnight, Saturday, October 8. (In Alexandria at the central registration office at City Hall; in Arlington and Fairfax counties, at the court houses or with precinct registrars.)

Be resident of the State a year before election day and of the city or counties for six months.

Have paid their poll taxes by last May 7.

If they became 21 years old during the calendar year and have lived in the State a year, they may register and vote without payment of poll tax.

Restraining Order Is Requested Against Cafeteria Picketing

A petition for a temporary restraining order, and a permanent injunction against a picket line outside the National Bureau of Standards on Van Ness st. n.w., was filed in District Court yesterday. Plaintiff was Joseph Martz, cafeteria and snack bar concessionaire at the Bureau.

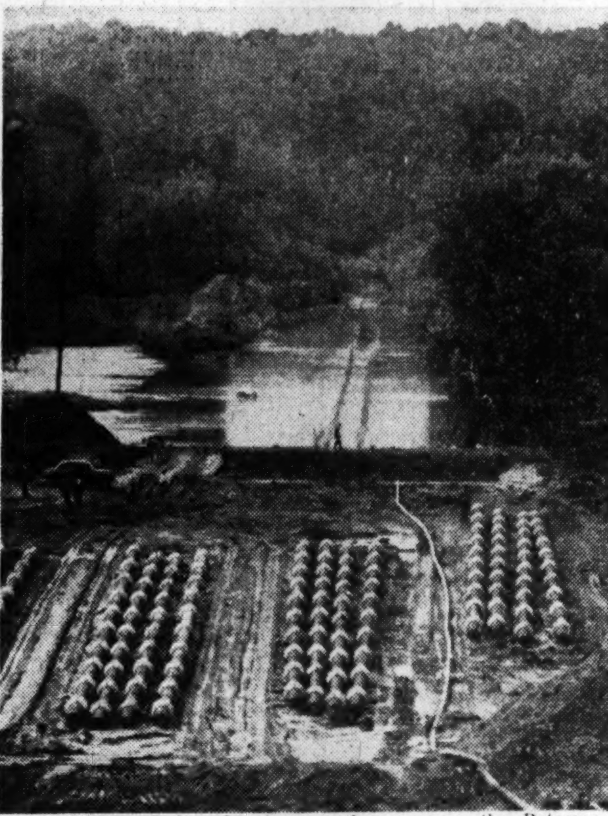
Defendants in the action are United Cafeteria & Restaurant Workers Local Union 471, independent, and Oliver T. Palmer, its business agent.

Martz alleged his place has been picketed, and customers dissuaded and intimidated, since he took over the concession on July 16. He said that the union had an unfair labor practices complaint filed before the National Labor Relations board, against his predecessor, the National Bureau of Standards Welfare Association, Inc., but that it does not apply against him and he has no labor dispute.

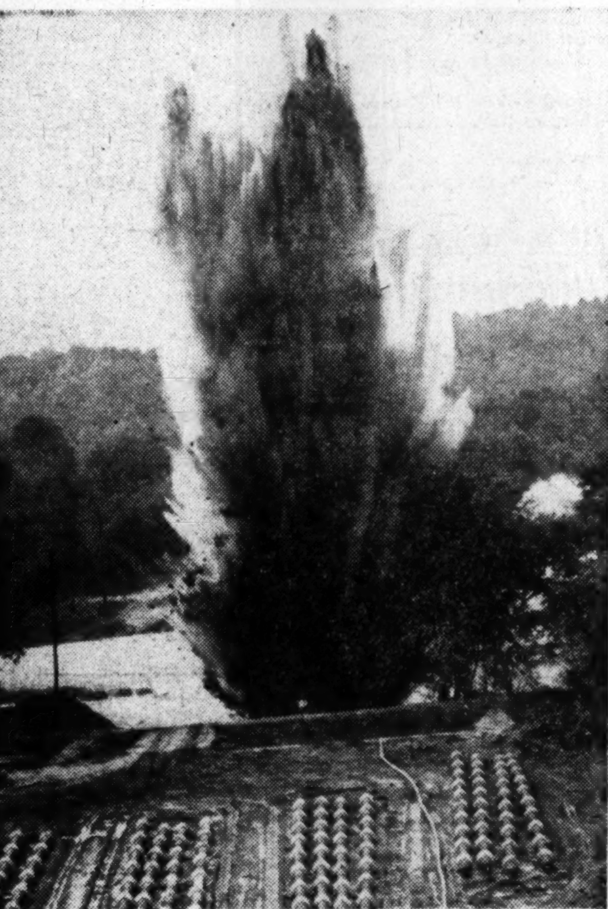
Palmer said his union won an NLRB representation election for employes of the Welfare Association in March. He said bargaining was proceeding when on July 16 the association turned the concession over to Martz, who discharged all the employes and hired new ones. He claimed this constituted a lockout and an unfair labor practice. Accordingly, he said, the union complained to the NLRB.

A preliminary opinion on September 22, he said, held against the union in its complaint against Martz, but this, he said, has been appealed to the office of the NLRB general counsel.

25,000 Pounds of Dynamite Blast Trench In River Bed



1. READY—Stakes forming a column across the Potomac River, 15 miles northwest of Washington, show where channel for natural gas pipeline will be blown



2. "FIRE IN THE HOLE!"—The 25,000-pound dynamite explosion sends water and mud skyward in a geyser. The blast is the first of two needed to complete operation.

By Harry Goodwin—The Washington Post

3. AFTERMATH—The charge has created a trench in the river bed 12 to 14 feet wide, from the Maryland shore to a point halfway across river, quarter of a mile wide at this point

Red flames flashed over the Potomac and smoke, debris and water geysered 500 feet into the air as 25,000 pounds of dynamite were touched off yesterday to blast a channel through the river's rock bed for a new natural gas pipeline.

The blast was unleashed 15 miles northwest of Washington, about 3 3/10 miles north of Potomac Village.

Du Pont experts supervised the operation, conducted for the new 26-inch pipeline to be run from Clendenin, W. Va., to Rockville, Md.—262 miles. It will reinforce supplies of natural gas for Greater Washington.

Washington Gas Light Co. officials said the blasting of the blue granite river bottom is one of the most expensive phases of the 23-million-dollar project.

Yesterday's blast gouged out a trench from the Maryland shore to a point about halfway across the quarter-mile-wide river. At this point crews created an artificial island so the blasting could be accomplished in two separate operations.

The charge from the island to the Virginia shore will be set off in about a month.

For the first phase, crews bored in the rock bed some 1048 holes, about 5 feet deep and spaced 48 inches apart. It took experts in the handling of explosives about a month to place charges in these holes.

A fuse armed each of the charges which were linked together by electric wire.

As Larry L. Prince of Staunton, Va., plunged the detonator from a hillside 500 feet from the river's edge, there was a mighty roar. Water, sand and jagged rocks soared skyward.

The blast created a trench about 12 to 14 feet wide in the river which is about five feet deep there. The explosion was heard for miles around and trembled the earth for a considerable distance, but no damage was reported.

When the crossing is completed, four parallel pipelines, each 20 inches in diameter, will be laid under the river to connect on either side with a 26-inch line.

Senators Act To End Tieup On Slum Plan

City Heads Asked To Delay Lifting Marshall Heights Improvement Curb

Senators concerned with District housing have taken new steps to break the deadlock on the city's low-rent housing and slum clearance programs, it was learned yesterday.

On Tuesday, Senator Sparkman (D., Ala.), for himself and Senator Flanders (R., Vt.) wrote Commissioner John Russell Young urging prompt District approval of the pending 4000-unit public housing program.

John Ihlder, executive director of National Capital Housing Authority, said he expects to present the housing application to the Commissioners sometime next week. The city heads must approve a cooperative agreement and request for a Federal preliminary loan before actual construction can begin.

"So We Can Forge Ahead"

"I hope that it will be possible for you," Sparkman wrote Young, "to give your prompt approval to the preliminary loan and the cooperative agreement so that we can forge ahead in clearing up the slums and provide decent housing for the people in the low-income group in our Nation's Capital."

On the slum clearance front, it was learned yesterday that these Senators and others on Capitol Hill soon will ask city officials not to lift the "freeze" on public improvements and new construction in Marshall Heights during the next few weeks.

The Commissioners issued the "freeze" order several months ago when a fund request for a slum-clearance job in the Southwest area was pending in Congress.

Public Hearing Planned

Some Marshall Heights residents repeatedly have requested the Commissioners to lift the freeze and install water and sewage facilities.

The Senators contend nothing should be done at Marshall Heights until the Senate Banking and Currency Subcommittee on housing can hold a public hearing, possibly in late November or early December.

The hearing would be aimed at developing a modified redevelopment plan for the area which could overcome long-standing House opposition.

No Moonshine

Heavenly Strip-Tease Lays An Egg

Last night's eclipse of the moon may have been (if Variety will excuse, please) socko in Chi, but it laid an egg in D. C.

The show world guide might well headline the whole dismal matter: "Clouds Clip Eclipse Biz; Boxoffice 'O.'"

Show Must Go On

Heavy clouds prevented anything but fleeting glimpses of the eclipse here and in many parts of the East. However, the eclipse was visible across the entire United States, so parts of the country probably saw the show.

For the record, the total eclipse began at 9:20 p. m. If you had been able to see, you might have observed a bright full moon slowly dissolve as though a mighty celestial rodent was nibbling at a lustrous cheese.

Next Week, East Lynne

At 9:56 p. m., the moon was in total eclipse. Without the clouds, the moon would have looked like an unpolished copper plate in a not-too-bright, far-off window.

Then began the heaven-high strip tease as the dark skirt was lifted from the vital brightness of the moon. But ever so slowly. The moon was its same old self at 10:33 p. m., except for the numbra and penumbra (phases) which we won't bother you with.

Court Puts 2 Moore Children In Custody of Their Father

Two young boys walked reluctantly from District Court yesterday after Judge F. Dickinson Letts ordered them turned over to their father.

The youngsters are John A. Moore, jr., 11, and James Moore, 7. For several years they have been the subjects of a court custody suit between their divorced parents, John A. Moore, 44, a Mt. Airy, Md., farmer, and Mrs. Rose B. Moore, 40, a Government employe residing at 766 Princeton pl. nw.

The boys are expected to take the witness stand today to give their preference in parents. They went to the mother July 1, under the custody orders in the case, but on August 15, according to court pleadings, would not return to the father.

Mrs. Moore now wants the custody orders modified so that she will have the children in her care permanently, with the father given rights of visiting, in turn. Moore accuses her of failing to comply with the existing orders.

Judge Letts yesterday turned the children over to the father. The boys cried bitterly in the corridor before they left for Moore's farm.

Mrs. Moore testified that she is willing to take the children without support payments from Moore although her salary is only $2570 annually.

Moore is represented by Attorney Charles Patton Henry. Attorney Nicholas J. Chase represents Mrs. Moore.

Officials to Launch Campaign to Advise Elderly Persons on Safety Regulations

District traffic deaths this year 51
Deaths this date last year.... 53
Total traffic deaths, 1948..... 67

James S. Ball, 75, of 3000 Tilden st. nw., died yesterday as result of injuries suffered last Saturday in a traffic accident in the 3300 block of Connecticut ave. nw.

His death touched off a special traffic safety drive to protect pedestrians 60 years and over. Inspector Arthur E. Miller, of the police traffic division, said that of 36 pedestrian fatalities here in 1948, 15 were of persons 60 years old and above.

Ball

Mr. Ball, police said, was struck by an auto driven by Burt W. Wilcox, 47, of 3609 Chevy Chase Lake dr., Chevy Chase, Md.

He was treated at Emergency Hospital for scalp lacerations and released. Yesterday morning, his wife, Mrs. Kathryn Ball, found him unconscious, and summoned Dr. John V. Dolan, who pronounced him dead.

An autopsy showed that he died as a result of a cerebral hemmorhage which was a delayed result of the accident, according to Dr. Richard Rosenberg, Deputy Coroner.

Inspector Miller issued a special plea yesterday, to drivers and other pedestrians asking that they show extraordinary care for the safety of elderly persons on foot He said that for several years past between 40 and 42 per cent of all pedestrian traffic fatalities have been persons 60 years and over.

The age breakdown this year, Inspector Miller said, is 60 to 65, 1; 65 to 70, 5; 70 to 75, 4; 75 to 80, 2; and 80 to 85, 3.

Educational Campaign

The office of George E. Keneipp, District director of vehicles and traffic, disclosed that the Commissioners' Traffic Advisory Board will devote the month of November to a special educational campaign for elderly pedestrians.

All possible means of publicity will be employed to counsel them on safety and self-protection in traffic. In addition to motion pictures and radio, a number of special publications will be employed to reach as many elderly citizens as possible who do not customarily see movies or listen to radio.

A funeral mass for Mr. Ball will be offered at 10 a. m., Saturday, at the Blessed Sacrament Church at Chevy Chase Circle. Until his retirement three years ago, he was representative here of the Addressograph & Multigraph Corp. of Cleveland. Besides his wife, he leaves a son, John A. Ball, Norristown, Pa.; a brother, Daniel M. Ball, and a sister, Miss Estelle Ball, both of Philadelphia.

A 7-year-old Hillside, Md., boy suffered head injuries late yesterday when struck by an automobile on the Marlboro Pike not far from his home.

Prince Georges County police identified him as Carroll Haley of 5002 N st. He was taken by the District Heights rescue squad ambulance to Casualty Hospital, where he was reported in good condition last night.

Police Pvt. B. E. Richards placed a technical charge of reckless driving against Robert L. Jennings, 21, a bricklayer, of 472 Ridge st. nw. Jennings, who said the boy ran out from behind a parked truck, was released in $300 bond for a hearing at Upper Marlboro October 14.

Name Change Refused for Two Youths

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

Two youthful brothers were refused District Court permission yesterday to change their surname from "MacDougall" to "Ford."

Judge F. Dickinson Letts turned down their petition for the name change which they hoped would unite them "in name as well as in fact" with their mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Ford, jr., of 1109 Trenton pl. se.

The brothers are Robert Wayne MacDougall, 20, a Navy petty officer, and Raymond Drake MacDougall, 15, a student at McKinley High School.

The father, Wayne F. MacDougall, a public relations executive for the Penn Mutual Insurance Co. in Philadelphia, protested the boys' proposed action.

"Proud of Heritage"

"I am quite proud of the name MacDougall and have a fine heritage," he said.

Judge Letts, in refusing the boys' petition, said:

"The court is under the impression that neither of these boys has given mature consideration to what they are asking. While they say they originated the idea, I am not at all convinced they knew the impact of what they did.

"As far as I can see, they should be proud of their real name and should carry it. In the years to come, I think, they will thank me for what I have done."

Both youths said they were often embarrassed by being commonly known by the name Ford and having to sign their name as MacDougall.

Desires Visits by Boys

It was brought out that MacDougall has also remarried and that the boys seldom come to see him. The name-change procedure was initiated after his remarriage.

In response to questions of his attorney, Lewis H. Shapiro, he said that he desired the boys to visit him but that he refused to go to the home of the man "whose name my sons would bear."

He said that after he and his wife parted in 1940, he sent his boys to prep schools and reluctantly let them go to live with the mother later because it was their desire.

"They are the only children I have to carry on my name. I have never given them reason to dislike it. I care for those boys deeply."

Prince Georges School Usage Fee Protested

The Prince Georges Federation, representing 30 different groups, last night heard heated protests against a $3 fee charged to organizations using school buildings for meetings.

The fee went into effect in September, with an additional $1 assessed an hour for janitors.

Federation Vice President Albert Bird of the Temple Hills Citizens Association branded the school's board's move in filing such fees as a case of "biting the hand that feeds you."

G. I. Ickes of the Fourteenth District Association cited law stating that "the board should allow the free use of school buildings for groups" in repudiating the board's move.

Those affected include not only citizens associations, it was pointed out, but also such groups as Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts. The P-TAs, however, are excluded from paying the fee, Owens said.

Walter F. Mulligan, the president, presided at the meeting held in the County Service Building, Hyattsville.

Foundation Aims Are Outlined

Aims and work of the Westminster Foundation for Presbyterian college students were explained last night at a dinner at Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church.

Student members of the foundation from Maryland, George Washington and Howard universities attended the dinner and told about 50 representatives of Greater Washington churches about the organization's work.

The Rev. Lloyd G. Brown, director of Westminster Foundation work in this area, said that through the work of individuals and churches the foundation hopes to achieve greater financial security.

B. H. Jarman, president of the board of trustees of the foundation, presided at the meeting.

Unveiling Set For Earhart Exhibit Today

An exhibit honoring the late Amelia Earhart, famed aviatrix who disappeared in June, 1937, while on a flight over the Pacific, will be unveiled at 2:30 p. m. today at the Smithsonian Institution's National Air Museum.

The exhibit, which will center around a bust of Miss Earhart done by Mrs. Grace Wells Parkinson, California sculptress, will be unveiled by Mrs. Amy Otis Earhart, mother of the aviatrix.

The memorial tribute is the result of three years of effort by members of Amelia Earhart Post 678, American Legion, Los Angeles. An all-women's aviation post, the organization has sponsored the collection of items to make up the exhibit.

Besides the bust of Miss Earhart, the exhibit will include assorted medals, navigational charts, the radio receiving set the flier used when she became the first woman to fly the Atlantic in 1932, scale models of her planes, and other items.

Mistress of ceremonies at the dedication will be Miss Anne Rambo, La Crescenta, Calif., junior past commander of Post 678 and originator of the memorial idea. The exhibit will be received for the museum by Paul Garber, curator.

High School Equivalent Examinations Slated

Examinations for certificates equivalent to high school diplomas will be given by the District public schools November 15 and 16 for Negroes and December 1 and 2 for white students. Applications are received at the Franklin Administration Building, 13th and K sts. nw.

Five two-hour examinations are given in English, mathematics, natural sciences and social studies including United States history.

Walter G. Distler, 58, construction company executive who supervised the erection of the new Supreme Court building and several other large Government buildings, died yesterday at Georgetown University Hospital.

Mr. Distler

Mr. Distler, who had been ill since May, had entered the hospital on September 19. He lived at 2124 Kalorama rd. nw.

As vice president of the George A. Fuller Co. in charge of the Washington office, he directed the construction of the Justice and Interior Department buildings, the Archives, the National Press Building and Constitution Hall.

Prior to his being appointed vice president in 1922, Mr. Distler also had a part in the building of the Arlington Amphitheater, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier and the Lincoln Memorial.

Cornell Graduate

The company's current construction work includes the museum building of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and the Washington Cathedral.

The State capitols at Baton Rouge, La., and Charleston, W. Va., also were built under Mr. Distler's direction. Civil engineer graduate of Cornell University in 1912, he directed construction there as well.

He received all-American rating as stroke of the Cornell crew, and established several records at Poughkeepsie.

A native of Baltimore, he joined the Fuller company in 1913. He served in the Army Engineers Corps during the first World War, and was discharged as a major.

Munsey Trust Director

Mr. Distler was a director of the Munsey Trust Co. and the Cumberland Brewing Co. He had served on the board of governors of the Washington Building Congress.

He was a member of the Chevy Chase Club, the 1925 F Street Club and the Alpha Delta Phi Fraternity. He also belonged to the Maryland Club in Baltimore.

Funeral services will be private at the Distler home. Burial will be in Baltimore.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna Fesenmeier Distler; a daughter, Miss Ann Distler, and a son, Walter G. Distler, jr.

Dr. C. A. Aldrich

Rochester, Minn., Oct. 6 (AP).—Dr. C. Anderson Aldrich, nationally known specialist in children's diseases, died early today from a stomach ailment.

Dr. Aldrich gained national recognition as director of the Rochester Child Health Institute. Dr. Aldrich's work won him the 1948 award of the Lasker Foundation of New York.

Mrs. Mary W. Carpenter

Wilmington, Del., Oct. 6 (AP).—Mrs. Mary W. Carpenter, 61, wife of the chairman of the board of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., Inc., died last night at her Wilmington home. She had been ill for several months.

In addition to her husband Walter S. Carpenter, jr., who formerly was president of duPont, Mrs. Carpenter is survived by three sons, Walter, 3d; John W., and Edmund, 2d.

Rev. Campbell Funeral Set For Saturday

Funeral services for the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher Campbell, 73, retired pastor of the Sargent Memorial Presbyterian Church, 51st and Grant sts. ne., will be held at the church at 1 p. m. Saturday. Burial will be in Lincoln Memorial Cemetery.

Mr. Campbell, who headed the same congregation for 24 years, died Tuesday at his home, 539 Florida ave. nw.

He came here in 1922 to take over the Fairmont Heights (Md.) Presbyterian Church. The congregation established a new church in the District, the Sargent Memorial, and he occupied the pulpit until he retired three years ago.

A native of Maxton, N. C., Mr. Campbell was named after Henry Ward Beecher, the nineteenth century New England clergyman. He was educated at Lincoln University and was graduated from the theological seminary there. He held pastorates in Rome, Ga.; Danville, Ky., and Rochester, N. Y., before coming to Washington.

He was a commissioner of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church at the annual conventions in 1911 and 1939. He was secretary of the Interdenominational Ministers Alliance for eight years and belonged to the Baltimore Synod.

Mr. Campbell is survived by his wife, Mrs. Astrea Campbell, research assistant for Negro public schools, and a clinical psychologist at Howard University Medical School. He also leaves four brothers and three sisters in North Carolina.

D. A. Upson, Sportsman, Dies at 88

Dennis A. Upson, 88, at one time a foremost marksman, died yesterday at his home at 2401 Massachusetts ave. nw.

He had been ill for a long time and for the last few years seldom had left the Massachusetts ave. mansion, his home since he came to Washington in 1914, according to his housekeeper, Mrs. Catherine Buchanan, who had been with him 25 years.

Mr. Upson was a native of Unionville, Conn. There he helped operate a nut and bolt factory founded by his father, which was later moved to Cleveland. It was sold following his father's death in 1911.

At the turn fo the century, he became well knwon as a proficient marksman, and his home here contains dozens of cups and plaques which he won for shooting both live pigeons and clay birds, Mrs. Buchanan said.

He was a prominent member of the Washington Gun Club and owned a string of horses for a number of years after coming here. His active life as a sportsman ended about 11 years ago, however, when he suffered a stroke which left him a semi-invalid.

He was able to travel extensively, making winter trips each year to Florida and numerous trips to Europe.

Mr. Upson's wife, Mrs. Nettie Louise Dunbar Upson, died in 1944. A daughter, Doris, died many years ago when she was only 19 years old. Another daughter, Miss Elizabeth H. Upson, survives.

He will be buried in the family mausoleum in Cleveland Saturday morning.

J. J. Dougherty Dies at Home In Arlington

John J. Dougherty, 58, auditor at the General Accounting Office for the past 30 years, died yesterday at his home, 1218 N. Hartford st., Arlington, after a long illness.

Mr. Dougherty was born in Bristol, N. H. and attended schools in New Hampshire and Boise, Idaho, where he was graduated from a business college. He also attended Benjamin Franklin Business College in Washington.

After several years in business for himself in Idaho, Mr. Dougherty came to Washington in 1919 as a government auditor.

In 1939 he married Miss Julia Stewart of Fairfax County.

A fourth degree member of the Knights of Columbus, Mr. Dougherty was also active in St. Charles Catholic Church in Arlington, and a member of the Holy Name Society.

A veteran of World War I, he was a member of the Catholic War Veterans.

Beside his wife, he is survived by two daughters, Miss Mary P. and Miss Catherine A. Dougherty; two sons, Joseph M. and James R. Dougherty, all of Arlington; and three brothers, the Rev. Linus Dougherty of Sun Valley, Idaho; Arthur and James Dougherty of Boise.

A requiem mass will be said Saturday at 10:30 a. m. at St. Charles Catholic Church. Burial will be at Mount Olivet Cemetery.

H. S. Denniston

Mobile, Ala., Oct. 6 (AP)—Harold Seibert Denniston, 63, president and chairman of the board of the American National Bank & Trust Co., of Mobile, died at his home today after a long illness.

Denniston had engaged in international banking activities, first in Bolivia and in recent years in Mexico.

He founded a banking house, Financiera Colon, S. A., at Mexico City.

Surviving are his widow, three sons and two daughters.

Jews to Begin Tabernacles Feast Tonight

Sukkos, the Feast of Tabernacles, will begin tonight for members of the Jewish faith.

The feast, longest and most joyous in the Jewish religious year, is a celebration of the harvest season and a period of thanksgiving to God for His bounty.

A traditional part of the feast is the erection of Sukkos, or booths, in synagogues and private homes. These booths, constructed of pine branches and decorated with flowers, are said by some scholars to be a reminder of the journey of the Israelites through the wilderness after the exodus from Egypt.

Also traditional to the season are four plants, the palm, citron, myrtle and willow, which play a part in Sukkos services and in the celebration in the home.

The holiday will be observed for nine days by Conservative and Orthodox Jews and for eight days by Reform Jews and those in Palestine.

Woman Refuses To See 2 Children At Welfare Home

The two children of Mrs. Geraldine Little remained in the Industrial Home School Annex yesterday and welfare officials reported Mrs. Little had made no effort to see them.

The children, 15-year-old Edith Christine Hernandez and her half brother, David Gregory Little, 3, were taken to the annex on Tuesday after they were left with a foster brother, Jonathon, 3, at Child Welfare Division headquarters.

Mrs. Little had turned them over to the Welfare division because she contended if she was not a fit mother for Jonathon, who was being taken from her by court order, she was not a fit mother for the other two children.

Welfare officials said yesterday that they have not yet been able to locate Mrs. Little. She lives at 1315 10th st. nw.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 6 (AP).—Cotton futures drifted lower today in quiet trading. New Orleans and local selling checked rallying tendencies. Mill buying against raw cotton needs was mostly scale-down in nature. New crop months dipped because of uncertainty over the final form of farm legislation which will determine the level of price supports for the 1950 cotton crop. Final prices were 55 cents a bale lower to 10 cents higher.

Net of C. & P. Off $257,881 In 8 Months

By S. Oliver Goodman

Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. yesterday reported a drop of $257,881 in net income for the first eight months this year, despite a record expansion program that has resulted in more than 21,000 additional telephones in service.

An increase in revenues has been more than offset by a jump in operating expenses, according to the company's report filed with the District Public Utilities Commission.

	8 months 1949.	8 months 1948.
Operating revenues	$23,508,809	$22,254,423
Operating expenses	18,785,043	17,205,961
Operating taxes...	2,446,411	2,474,378
*Net income......	2,314,077	2,571,958

*Before interest and dividends to American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the parent firm. After interest and dividend payments of $2,761,280 to A. T. & T., C. & P. reported a net deficit of $447,203.

For August, C. & P. reported net income of $220,999, a decrease of $115,253 below the same 1948 month. At the end of August the company had 458,029 telephones in service here, a gain of 21,384 over last year.

Total plant in service at the end of August was valued at $106,606,644, a gain of about $8,500,000 dollars for the past 12 months.

The decreasing income is the basis of a petition for an average 13 percent rate increase filed by the company with the District Public Utilities Commission.

EXTRA VOTED: National Metropolitan Bank has voted an extra dividend of 8 percent a share on the $20 par capital stock, in addition to the regular semiannual dividend of 3 percent, President C. F. Jacobsen reported. The extra is payable December 19 to stock of record December 9, while the regular is payable October 15 to stock of record October 5. A total of 14 percent a share also was paid in 1948.

ODD LOTS: D. A. Schulte Inc., retail tobacco chain with about 200 stores in 22 States and the District of Columbia, soon will install a line of women's wearing apparel and accessories . . . Max Udell Sons & Co. and J. Friedman & Co., both men's clothing firms, have consolidated under the Udell name . . . Auto output this week is estimated at 139,609 units, compared with 144,602 last week . . . The D. C. Life Underwriters Association has established a speakers bureau which will provide speakers for selected groups . . . Leading retail chains reported September sales drops as follows: Woolworth 1.3 percent; McCrory 3.8 percent; Consolidated Retail Stores Inc., 17.1 percent.

NEW RECORD: The Lincoln Service Corp., whose headquarters are in Washington, yesterday reported a record loan volume of $7,792,615 in the first nine months this year, an increase of 24.7 percent over the same 1948 period. President Charles Delmar added that Lincoln Service recently purchased two finance companies in West Virginia, making a total of 40 operating units.

EARNINGS: Columbia Pictures Corp. reported net income of $1,007,000 or $1.08 a common share for the fiscal year ended June 30, compared with $565,000 or 40 cents a share in the previous year. Other earnings statements:

SALES DIP: Peoples Drug Stores, Inc., yesterday reported September net sales of $3,686,514, a dip of 3.7 percent as compared with the same 1948 month. The nine-month total was $33,982,169, a gain of 1.4 percent over the like 1948 period. Treasurer W. H. Churchill pointed out that the chain operated 142 stores last month, compared with 139 in the same 1948 month.

WHO'S WHO TODAY—Maurice Nee, Washington member of the board of the National Retail Furniture Association, will attend a NRFA meeting in Boston October 10 to 12 . . . E. H. Buey named sales coordinator of Sun Chemical Corp. . . . James D. Cunningham elected president of American Society of Mechanical Engineers for 1950 . . . Frank W. Larabee named sales coordinator for Dow Chemical Co. . . . S. J. Hay elected president of American Life Convention . . . Hugh J. Ferry elected executive vice president of Packard Motor . . . Theodore Johnson named president of the Farm Equipment Institute.

RAILS' NET OFF: August net income of Class One railroads was estimated yesterday at 39 million dollars, compared with 85 million dollars in the same 1948 month. The Association of American Railroads added that this brought eight-month net of the carriers to 239 million dollars, compared with 423 million for the corresponding 1948 period.

FEE CUT VOTED: A measure to reduce from one-eighth of 1 percent to one-twelfth of 1 per cent the assessment paid by savings and loan associations to the Federal Savings & Loan Insurance Corp. has been approved by the House Banking Committee. The bill is designed to bring the savings and loan rate into line with the bank rate.

Stocks Again Forge Ahead To New Peak

New York, Oct. 6 (AP).—The stock market fattened today on persistent rumors that the steel and coal strikes will be quickly settled.

For the third day in a row, the general price level scored a new high for the year. Leading issues advanced fractions to a point or more.

Demands for some of the steels was notably aggressive. A handful of low-priced utilities also attracted large-scale buying and helped to swell the day's volume.

Trading was the most active in three weeks. Turnover of 1,520,000 shares compared with 1,470,000 yesterday. Large blocks of stock splashed all over the ticker tape.

The market was not a one-way affair. Aircraft stocks stumbled, for instance, along with radio and television issues, and some railway and utility shares.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved up .1 of one point to 66.8, the highest since November 4. Industrials did best, with the rail and utility groups matched for second place.

Graham-Paige, fourth most active stock, livened up the market late in the day following news that the Reconstruction Finance Corp. had agreed to a $34,400,000 loan to Kaiser-Frazer Corp. The issue climbed ⅝ to 2. In the Curb, K-F jumped 1⅜ to 5⅜. Graham-Paige owns a large block of K-F stock.

Almost tied for first place on the active list were United Corp. and Southern Co. United Corp. won out, ending ⅛ up at 4⅝, while Southern gained ⅜ at 11¼.

U. S. Steel touched a new 1949 high during the day and ended ¼ up at 24. Also up fractionally were Bethlehem at 28⅞, Republic 21¼, Jones & Laughlin 26½, Youngstown Sheet 68⅛, Crucible 17½, Cooper Bessemer 23½, and Armco 25⅛.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Oct. 6 (AP).—A boost in the Government wheat buying bid, coupled with wet weather throughout the Midwest, caused a run-up of grains on the Board of Trade today.

All sections of the market participated in the advance. Largest gains were scored by soybeans and rye. The latter was aided by news the Minneapolis office of the Commodity Credit Corporation yesterday purchased 50,000 bushels of cash rye.

Wheat closed ⅞@1⅞ higher, corn was ⅜@⅞ higher, oats were unchanged to ⅜ higher, rye was 2½@3¾ higher, soybeans were 1¼@2 cents higher and lard was 5@12 cents a hundred pounds higher.

Chief factor in wheat was an advance of ½ cent a bushel by the local CCC office for cash grain. It offered 11 cents over the December future for No. 2 soft livered at Philadelphia. Yesterday the livered at Philadelphia. eYsterday the Government agency did not get any wheat when it lowered its bid.

With Livingston in Lancashire

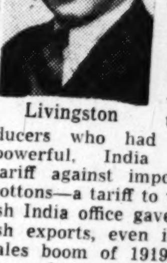
As Cotton Went in Lancashire, So Went Great Britain—Down

By J. A. Livingston

MANCHESTER, ENGLAND, Oct. 6.—Perhaps the quickest way to glimpse the economic tragedy of Great Britain is to examine—and it need only be briefly—the history of the British cotton industry during and after two world wars. A glance at the statistics of employment — observe the shrinkage—provides a bare-bones summary:

Date.	No. of workers.
1912	622,000
1924	528,000
1930	389,000
1937	360,000
1945	209,000
Today	300,000

History is repeating ironically. During World War I, India was unable to buy cotton goods from England. Shipping space was sparse and the Lancashire cotton mills had to concentrate on the requirements of the armed services. So India, out of necessity, expanded its cotton industry. Then, after the war, to protect the home producers who had become more powerful, India introduced a tariff against imports of British cottons—a tariff to which the British India office gave assent. British exports, even in the postwar sales boom of 1919-20, never recovered in yardage from that blow.



Livingston

Nor was that all. During the first war, Japan, as a virtual noncombatant, built up its cotton industry. After the war, it began to undersell Britain in China, Malaya, and the Dutch East Indies. Japan had three advantages: A shorter freight haul; the "rice wage"—lower labor costs; and more modern machinery. In 1933, Japan's exports passed Britain's.

BRITAIN'S cotton industry has suffered, too, from a flight of capital. As exports of cotton declined from an average of 6,500,000,000 linear yards in the years 1909-13 to 1,400,000,000 in 1938, reserves of cotton mills were eaten up meeting deficits. Investors lost interest in putting up additional funds for a depressed industry. Modern equipment was not installed. Plant deteriorated.

During the recent world war, as might be expected, the British government ordered the Lancashire producers to concentrate on cloth needed for the war—largely drills, canvases, webbing, balloon and parachute materials. (That was likewise true in the United States.) Many mills producing high-quality cloth for export closed down to free manpower for the armed forces or for munitions plants. Employment declined 44% from the 1937 level.

Again, Britain was unable to supply former customers. The United States boosted output, so did India, so did Brazil. Of course, Japan was out of the export business. Nonetheless, when the war ended, Britain was still farther behind in exports. And still is, even though demand for Lancashire cottons far exceeds supply. The primary reason is the labor shortage. The secondary reason is old machinery.

LANCASHIRE mills, on the average, are operating at only 75 percent of capacity. They can't find men and women to man the machines. During the war, workers scattered to war jobs all over Britain and now can't be regathered. Some mills are trying to meet the labor shortage by installing automatic looms, which enable a weaver to handle 24 machines instead of the traditional 4. But British labor is slow to accept what is standard in the United States. Some companies feel they can't afford to install new machinery unless they operate two shifts—to get more work out of their capital. But Lancashire is a one-shift area. Why work at night when you can get pleasanter day work?

Even were Lancashire to obtain additional workers and faster machinery, long-term success is not assured. Many countries today seek British cottons because they haven't the dollars to buy American cloth. If ever the dollar gets easier in international markets, American competition will become stiffer. It may well offset British devaluation of the pound. Then there's Japan. It's coming back fast in cotton production. Too fast, Lancashire people will tell you!

Byrne Faces Branca or Barney in Brooklyn Today

The Washington Post Sports

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

NEW YORK, OCT. 6.—The fact that the Dodgers are now on even terms with the Yankees in this World Series is no shocking surprise to those folks who know Elwin (Preacher) Roe best. When the Dodgers need a ball game kind of desperately, Roe's habit has been to win it for 'em.

He's been the key guy of the Brooklyns all season, despite his lack of a fancy won-and-lost record, and they won the pennant because Roe was in there in the big games against the Cardinals.

POVICH

This wasn't the first time they'd asked him to right matters for the Dodgers after Don Newcombe had lost a 1-0 game, as he did yesterday. Back on September 22, the Cardinals beat Newcombe, 1-0, and threatened to knock the Dodgers out of the race. Roe stepped in a few hours later and shut out the Cardinals with five hits, even as he blanked the Yanks today.

He had the Yanks in a tizzy all afternoon with those hooks that broke in sometimes, broke away, or dipped. He was a fast-ball pitcher, curve-baller and showed the Yanks a fork ball, too.

THE YANKS were taking no toe holds against Roe. He had 'em off balance and bewildered. Even Joe DiMaggio was shifting his feet in an atempt to combat Roe's variety of stuff, and when the Preacher was worked to a 3-and-2 count, he was seemingly unbothered.

Against seven hitters, he was in a 3-and-2 or 3-and-1 spot, and he let none of 'em get away, retiring all seven. He walked nobody and you'd have to call his six-hitter a job superior to Allie Reynolds' two-hit, 1-0 victory of the day before. Tommy Henrich, the guy who ruined the Dodgers yesterday, was just another fellow in the Yankee batting order, Roe had you believing.

Henrich's output for the day was a short fly to right field, two infield outs, and a modest fly to left. In that critical 2-and-0 spot against Henrich in the eighth, Roe calmly worked on him with curve balls and a wonderful cocksureness and got him out, as Newcombe couldn't the day before.

With Roe in there, the Yanks were merely wasting the good pitching of Raschi, who kept 'em in the ball game but didn't get a run to work with.

THE DODGERS could take this series and fracture their record of never having won one, in three previous attempts. Today they looked by far the more solid ball team, except for one lapse when Peewee Reese didn't cover second base on a steal. The Yankee outfielders, particularly Lindell, were jittery on ground balls, and weaving under fly balls.

Brooklyn's speed on the bases also was upsetting to Hank Bauer in right field. He bobbled one hit, played two others with extreme caution, against the threat of Brooklyn's speed. And on another occasion, Bauer was neatly bilked by Duke Snider of the Dodgers.

Snider apparently was loafing on Bauer's single to center that started the fourth, and the Yankee tried to stretch it. Snider wasn't lazy, though, he was merely challenging Bauer to try to take second against his throwing arm. Bauer was out and what might have been the tying rally by the Yankees was blunted.

OBVIOUSLY it has been a pitchers' series, and the suspicion is that they've shelved the lively ball for this one. But the Yankees ought to have a new respect for Brooklyn pitching. They know now that Newcombe and Roe don't let go easily. Indeed, the Dodgers have showed the best over-all pitching in the series to date, despite the fact that both teams have been held to one run.

The Dodgers, not the Yankees, have been mounting the most scoring threats. In the field, Brooklyn has acted like the more sure-handed club. Peewee Reese is matching the great Phil Rizzuto defensively. All down the line, the Dodgers have been stacking up like a team that could beat these Yankees, who certainly are not one of the fine Yankee teams.

What the Yankees have going for them, of course, is that wonderful opportunism which they practice. Today they weren't quite up to it, but even on an afternoon when they saw the best pitching they faced all season, they were only one hit away from tying the score, only one long hit away from winning it. The Yankees don't run down easily but, you might add, neither do the Dodgers.

Redskins Clinic

'It's the Way to Teach Football, Terps Will Attend,' Says Tatum

"It's a dickens of a good thing!"

That was the typical comment of Coach Jim Tatum, the University of Maryland, yesterday about the Redskin Football Clinc, sponsored by The Washington Post at Griffith Stadium next Wednesday night.

"There is no better way to teach football than visually," Tatum said. "We have had our boys looking at Redskin movies for a long time—now I'm glad they'll be able to receive instruction from the various Redskin stars in person."

Tatum said at least three busloads of Terrapin gridmen will attend Wednesday's gala program on which the 110-piece Redskin band will perform and Harry Wismer, radio and television announcer, will explain every move as the Washington professionals work out, followed by a brief scrimmage.

Other area college coaches were equally enthusiastic about the opener. A second session will be staged a week later, on Wednesday October 19.

Georgetown's Coach Bob Margarita assured The Washington Post that his entire coaching staff would attend the clinic and that his team, if a study period could be waived, would also be present.

At Catholic University, Coach John Jankowski made plans to take his squad of 35 to Griffith Stadium and there was enthusiastic response from George Washington University.

Coach Bo Rowland said, "All my boys will get the word on the clinic, it will be a good thing for them. I think everyone—players and fans—will get a lot out of it. We all can learn something."

that would restore the Dodgers to equal footing in the series.

With their victory today, sky-high odds against the Dodgers in the series dropped sharply as the scene shifts to Brooklyn tomorrow for the third game. The Yankees will pitch lefthander Tommy Byrne against Brooklyn's choice of either Ralph Branca or Rex Barney.

Roe helped write a new piece of World Series history today, with his shut-out. For the first time, two consecutive 1-0 games were written into the record. And to get his victory, Roe had to etch a new record for lefthanders against the Yankees in 1949. Never had they been shut out by a southpaw.

COMPOSITE BOX, PAGE B-8

He laid the haunt of Tommy Henrich today, after the Yankees threatened not only to tie but win the ball game in the eighth inning. A characteristic late-inning Yankee rally was scented when Pinch Hitter Johnny Mize, batting for Catcher Charley Silvera, opened that eighth by dropping a single into right field.

Against Pinch Hitter Bobby Brown, batting for Raschi, Roe was superb. Never did Brown get his bat off his shoulder, as the skinny lefthander whipped three curve balls, darting things, past him for strikes, and the first big out. Sent in to sacrifice, Brown was a complete flop.

But a bit later Roe invited disaster when he misplayed Phil Rizzuto's smart bunt down the third base line. The ball fell from his grip after he pounced on it, and he had no play at any base. The error put Yankees on first and second.

Now it was Henrich, yesterday's Yankee hero, who confronted Roe. And the situation took on an ominous glint when, like Don Newcombe the day before, Roe put himself in a hole with two wide pitches to Henrich.

Henrich got the sign to hit the next so-called cripple pitch, but Roe had something extra on it, and it was strike one. Again he came in with a curve ball, and Henrich fouled it off. The count was worked to 3 and 2, and Roe lured Henrich into hitting an innocuous fly to Luis Olmo in left field.

Little Spider Jorgensen, the third baseman, got Roe over the last hump of the inning, with a gutty stop of Hank Bauer's smash that evolved as a force play at second base.

Came the ninth and Yankee fans were in full cry again when Joe DiMaggio, first up, beat out an infield single, a bleeder to Jorgensen. Johnny Lindell, trying to sacrifice, fouled off a second strike, and then Roe struck him out with a low fast ball.

From there he breezed. He got Bill Johnson on a pop-up, and Gerry Coleman on a modest fly to right, and dashed for the bench to be mobbed by a reception committee that met him halfway, with Manager Burt Shotton in the forefront.

Roe Loses Nail Grabbing Drive in 4th

(From Associated Press and United Press wires)

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—Elwin (Preacher) Roe, pitching star of today's 1-0 World Series victory for Brooklyn, revealed after the game that a doctor working in the dugout had to drill a hole in his fingernail to let out a pocket of blood in the fifth inning.

In the bottom of the fourth Johnny Lindell of the Yankees hit a screaming drive at Roe. The ball tore off the top half of the fourth fingernail of the Preacher's right hand, and the blood formed under the bottom half.

Roe dropped the ball but recovered and threw Lindell out.

"Sure it hurt, but not too much," said Roe. "I wanted to go back in there."

Roe's finger was bandaged, and he went on to pitch a masterful game, hand-cuffing the powerful Yankee hitters.

"Lucky he's a left-hander," laughed Shotton.

ROE, who did not walk a single Yankee—Don Newcombe didn't walk any yesterday when he lost, 1-0—said he mixed his curve ball and his fast ball, which isn't very fast.

Whenever he had any trouble, the Dodger infield would concentrate at the mound, mindful of his painful injury and how much depended on keeping Yankee power under restraint.

"Who did the talking?" Roe was asked.

"Why, Pee Wee Reese, of course," said Roe.

He was leading the Yankees, 1 to 0, two men were on base with only one out and Tommy Henrich—the guy who broke up the opening ball game—stood there waving a bat which looked bigger than a bass viol. The count was a dangerous three and two.

"So Pee-Wee came walking over to me slowly," the Preacher drawled, his Ozark accent weaving through the dressing room din. "And you know what he said. He said, 'Preach, let's talk about something.'

"I was so surprised I asked him: 'What would you like to talk about?' And you know what he said? He said: 'Let's talk about hunting and fishing'."

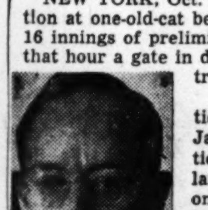
The Brooklyn thin man doubled into a knot and howled:

"How do you like that guy!"

Preacher Was Kind To All—Except Yanks

By Red Smith

NEW YORK, Oct. 6 (NYHT).—The world championship competition at one-old-cat became official at exactly 3:13 p. m. today, after 16 innings of preliminary capers by the Dodgers and Yankees. At that hour a gate in deep right field swung open and Joe Page came tromping through.



Red Smith

The stage had been set with meticulous attention to detail. Brooklyn led the Yankees, 1 to 0; Jackie Robinson, batting champion of the National League, was at the plate brandishing a large, blunt implement; the Dodgers were only one inning away from their first victory in a World Series game since October 5, 1947. Thus all the trappings attendant upon a standard Page performance were present, yet when it was over Joe must have felt cheated.

For once he had played a secondary role. The star of the piece was another guy.

It was an angular, drawling splinter of gristle who set out to be a parson and was, indirectly but literally, knocked into the 1949 World Series by a punch in the snoot from a basketball official. The guy's square name is Elwin Charles Roe, but he has been called Preacher ever since he wheedled a nickel out of an uncle with such an eloquent appeal that his relative decided he was meant for the pulpit.

ELWIN CHARLES followed this destiny as far as Harding College in Searcy, Ark., where he did study for the ministry, although he turned subsequently to sweatier pursuits. He was discovered by Branch Rickey's brother, Frank, then a scout for the St. Louis Cardinals, who was making his way through the Arkansas hills in a horse-drawn buggy.

Arriving at the Roe manse early one morning before the family was awake, Rickey stabled and bedded his steed, then curled up in the woodshed for a nap. When the Roes learned he had thought of the mare's comfort before his own, they reasoned that here was a man who would also be kind to pitchers. Preacher signed with the Cardinals.

He never got to St. Louis, though, for the Cardinals peddled him to Pittsburgh. A few winters ago while coaching a basketball team down in Arkansas, he had a difference of opinion with the referee. Protesting a decision, he followed the official from the court and up a winding stairway, arguing with ministerial logic. In rebuttal, the referee knocked him downstairs.

Thereafter, Preacher suffered repeated headaches and dizzy spells. It was partly because of this that the Pirates traded him to Brooklyn on December 8, 1947—a day, Mr. Casey Stengel contends, that will live in infamy.

ALTHOUGH ROE treated the Yankees with clerical disdain today, his attitude toward the umpires was one of deference. A brassier playmate, Gene Hermanski, gave tongue and bumped bosoms with Beans Reardon when Beans called Gene out on a close play at the plate, but Roe maintained a respectful silence at all times.

The pinched parson shuns officials.

Roe isn't especially talkative anyway, but when he does speak his remarks are to the point. On a train this summer the Brooklyn road secretary, Harold Parrott, asked the Preacher whether he had eaten in the hotel they had just left, and signed the checks, or paid for his meals outside, in which case the club would reimburse him.

"I suppose," the Preacher said, "if I say I ate in the hotel, I don't get any money."

"If you don't tell the truth," Parrott said, "you'll lose your integrity."

"My fast ball's gone," the Preacher mused. "My curve ball's gone. All I got left is my integrity. I ate in."

Preacher wastes neither words nor pitches. He uses a fast ball, a varied assortment of curves, a screwball and a slider. His service today was as astringent as his speech. His hooks were sharp and barbed, and the skewered Yankees writhed as he accomplished the first shutout recorded against them in Yankee Stadium in 156 games.

Commissioner Raps Robinson

New York, Oct. 6 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner A. B. Chandler has told Brooklyn Dodger second baseman Jackie Robinson to be more circumspect in dealing with umpires in the future.

Chandler chastised Robinson following the opening game of the World Series Wednesday which the Dodgers lost, 1-0.

Robinson criticized the work of plate umpire Cal Hubbard of the American League saying "I've never seen such bad strikes called. He actually called a pitch-out a strike. That's the payoff."

Chandler instructed Robinson that he must stop "popping off" and behave himself.

Robinson has wired an apology to Hubbard.

Anacostia, Central in Top Game Today

Anacostia's Indians and Central's Vikings cross division lines today to meet in Iiterhigh football's most important game at Central Stadium. Kickoff time is 3:15 p. m.

The Indians are second in Division I, and hte Vikings are second in Division II.

Winner is conceded a good chance of taking over leadership in its division, because first plaeers Eastern and McKinley Tech run into rugged opposition in their games today.

INTERHIGH FOOTBALL STANDINGS

Division I	W	L	T	Division II	W	L	T
Eastern	1	0	1	McKinley	1	0	1
Western	0	1	0	Bell	0	1	0
Wilson	0	1	0	Roosevelt	0	1	0

Eastern is host to Wilson while Tech and Coolidge clash at Roosevelt. Rounding out the league slate, Chamberlain plays at Western. They're all 3:15 p. m. games.

Eastern has an unimpressive 25-6 victory over inexperienced Chamberlain and a 6-6 tie with Tech to its credit. After losing a 6-0 heartbreaker to Coolidge two weeks ago, Wilson showed real power in upsetting St. John's, 21-19, last week. With elusive runner Leo Speros in good form, Wilson could knock Eastern out of Division I lead.

Besides its tie with Eastern, Tech holds a 52-0 win over Bell, but the latter victory could hardly be counted as a test for Tech. It was Bell's first football game. With a real passer in Arnie Tranen and a hard runner in Walt Krukowski, Coolidge could give Tech a drubbing.

Central's clash with Anacostia shapes up as a running duel between Jimmy Pantos of the Vikings and Bill Butler and Bob Chatlin of the Indians. Anacostia has never beaten a Central team,

Ed Lopat Sidetracked By Stengel

(From Associated Press and United Press wires)

New York, Oct. 6.—Lefthander Tommy Byrne (15-7) was named tonight by Manager Casey Stengel to pitch the third game of the World Series for the New York Yankees tomorrow at Ebbets Field.

Burt Shotton, Brooklyn manager, said that Ralph Branca, a righthander with a 13-5 record, or Righthander Rex Barney (9-8) would start for the Dodgers.

Silent and obviously dejected over their failure to hit Brooklyn pitching in the first two games, the Yankees turned to Byrne in expectation of another pitching battle.

Manager Casey Stengel refused to admit photographers to the Yank's dressing room after today's 1-0 defeat and there was almost complete silence when reporters were let in five minutes after the glum-looking athletes filed through the door.

"I guess I'm in the same fix they were yesterday," Stengel sighed as he stripped off part of his uniform and sagged down on a leather settee in his office.

"It will be Byrne tomorrow. I think he's good now. He has pitched good ball for the last month and a half—a lot of low-hit games.

Earlier Casey had indicated that he would use Eddie Lopat in tomorrow's third game at Ebbets Field, but he refused further explanations of his switch.

Stengel indicated that Yogi Berra, out today because of a painfully swollen left thumb, would return to the lineup tomorrow. But Berra reported that the thumb, broken in the latter part of the season, still was very sore.

Casey said that he was "going for the big inning" when he sent the long-driving left-handers, Johnny Mize and Bobby Brown, in as pinch batsmen against Southpaw Roe. The only available right handers weren't heavy hitters and, besides, the righty batsmen had been swinging all day without doing much.

Out in the dreary locker room Joe DiMaggio blamed the condition of the field, the result of a football game two weeks ago, for the drive that took a crazy hop past him in the first inning and for Johnny Lindell's fielding difficulties.

serve notice that the Dodgers were going to be tougher today. He worked Vic Raschi to a 2-and-2 count in the second inning and launched it with a crashing two-bagger to left that was hit on the nose.

Gene Hermanski was apparently no help with his pop-up to Coleman in foul territory, 30 feet behind first base, but Robinson gambled that Coleman would be out of position for a throw and dashed to third after the catch. He made it, with Coleman unable to get a strong throw off.

The run languished there. Marv Rackley accidentally got his bat in the way of a pitch and grounded to Johnson who threw him out while Robinson held third. But big Hodges fetched Robinson home with a solid single to left.

Lindell Boots Hodges' Hit

Hodges took second when Lindell booted his single, but Raschi purposely passed Campanella and got out of the inning without further trouble by fanning Roe.

That was it. The Dodgers never could get another run off Raschi with their seven hits, but they needed no more what with Roe out there defending his thin margin as if it were something sacred.

The Dodgers reacted to Roe's spectacular job with some fielding heroics of their own, in every crisis, and this was a far more thrilling encounter than yesterday's 1-0 game.

As if pert and saucy after taking the lead in the series, the Yankees put Roe in trouble in the first inning. Ruzzuto led off a smash to left that Rackley held to a single by smart fielding. Henrich took dead aim on the right field bleachers, but the most he could muster was a short fly that Hermanski grabbed with a running catch. Roe wasn't troubled further in that session.

In the third, though, Peewee Reese bobbled a ground ball by Rizzuto and little Phil stole second with the help of Campanella's low throw with two out. But Henrich wasn't producing today, and Reese threw him out.

Bums Muster Threat

It was the Dodgers who threatened to get the run, with one out in the fourth, when Hermanski's drive to center tok a weird bop past DiMaggio and wound up as a three-bagger. Then it was Raschi who bore down. Rackley bounced a slow roller to Coleman and Umpire Beans Reardon said Hermanski was out at the plate, a close play. The Dodgers squawked, to no use.

Hank Bauer led off the Yanks' fourth with a single to center and gambled that he could stretch it into a double. He lost. Duke Snyder got the ball in, and Bauer was out. To close out the inning, Roe knocked down Lindell's smash into the box and threw him out.

Like Bauer, Campanella was overambitious on the bases in the fifth for the Dodgers, and was thrown out trying to stretch a single that opened the inning. Lindell, after bobbling the ball momentarily, rifled a put-out to Rizzuto.

The Yanks put the tying run on again in the fifth when Coleman laced a two-bagger to left with one out, and then Roe got a big lift from Reese. The Dodger shortstop went far to his right to grab up a drive off Silvera's bat that Jorgensen couldn't reach, and threw Silvera out.

Back in the fourth Roe hurt his right hand in stopping Lindell's line drive back to the box, and there was the fear that he might not be able to continue, but he shook the injury off.

Raschi was hopping in and out of trouble. Jorgensen popped a drooping fly into left field that fell for two bases to open the sixth, but Manager Shotton rejected the idea of a sacrifice at that point, and Jorgensen was stranded.

In the Yankees' sixth, Roe averted trouble after Henrich's freak-hopping grounder was too high, caromed toward right field. Hodges pulled it down with a one-handed stab, and Roe completed the play by smartly taking a slow throw to first base. A bit later, Jorgensen snatched a hit away from Bauer with a fancy stop.

For the third successive inning, in the seventh, the Dodgers opened with a hit when Luis Olmo singled to right, but a double play started by Rizzuto wiped him out, and the Yanks tcok their 1-0 deficit into their own seventh.

They got the tying run as far as second when Johnson singled and stole second with two out. The Dodgers weren't looking good at that point. Reese, napping on the play, failed to cover second. But Roe dispatched Coleman for the third out.

The Dodgers threatened to improve their lead in the ninth when Snider opened against Joe Page with a single through short and was sacrificed to second by Robinson. Page got rid of pinch hitter Furillo and Olmo on routine plays, and Roe was left to protect his 1-0 lead in the ninth. He did, smartly.

Odds Drop, But Yanks Still Choice

St. Louis, Oct. 6 (AP).—New York still is the favorite to win the World Series, but the odds were trimmed sharply by Betting Commissioner James J. Carroll after Brooklyn's triumph today.

The odds on the Yankees were 3 to 4, on the Dodgers 11 to 10.

Cedric Pays $407 to Win at Laurel; Oriole a Mere $2.80

Huge Price Sets Record For Track

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., Oct. 6.—The longest and the shortest mutuel prices of the meeting—$407 and $2.80 to win—were registered here today.

At the amazing odds of 202-1, Mrs. O. L. Nyberg's Cedric came from behind to win the fourth race; in the sixth event R. E. Carter's Oriole was a going-away winner at a mere 40 cents on the dollar.

The across-the-board prices on Cedric were $407 to win, $121.20 to place and $32.20 to show. The first money was the second highest of the year in this country.

The healthy mutuel set a new record for Laurel, the previous mark for this track being 192-1, set by Golden Prince on October 13, 1926. The Cedric payoff, however, failed to approach either the mile-track record or the half-mile mark for this State.

$810 Top Price

At Hagerstown, May 17, 1934, Tycook paid an enormous $810 mutuel, while at the same track on May 27, 1919, Heather Moon returned $498.

The major track high for Maryland is the 287-1 on the chances of Cadeau, a winner at Pimlico on the May 7, 1913, program.

Just to show the card today was operating on a monetary motif, the featured race, won by the aforementioned Oriole, resulted in a minus pool: It cost the management $1435.40 to make the three show mutuels in the race hit the $2.20 mark, the minimum allowed by law in this State.

Cedric was ridden by Jockey Robert Martin of Baltimore, and the leading rider of the meeting here. The 3-year-old colt had run poor races for the most part since winning last February 28 at Hialeah. On that occasion he was a 6-5 favorite.

Owen Misses It

O. L. Nyberg, whose wife owns Cedric, was able to muster a smile after the race, although he said, "I didn't bet a dime on the colt but I was rooting nonetheless."

In fact, not many in the crowd of 7500 had winning tickets. The mutuel department reported one $10 ticket, five $5 tickets and 52 of the $2 variety, a total of $161 to win. In addition there were 11 combination (across the board $2 tickets) sold.

The big money, however, was not confined to this race. The daily double combination of 1 and 2 returned $336 with most of the punch supplied by Frank Lohman's Impression which won the second race at $71.20. Impression had to survive a foul claim before his victory was sealed.

At Laurel

Dear Folks—The flag in the center field here was at half-mast out of respect for the memory of Col. Matt J. Winn, who died Wednesday night. In addition to his Kentucky Derby show at Louisville, Col. Winn was prominent at Laurel for many years, being chairman of the board when the present management took over three years ago. He gave newspapermen much of the credit for making the Derby the No. 1 race in the Nation. He called them "his boys," the main group, including Damon Runyon, Grantland Rice, Joe Williams and a few others. He was never too busy to see and talk to a Derby regular among the scribes. Last year his physician ordered him to take only a few peeks at the Derby. However, before post time, Col. Winn walked, unassisted, to the infield pagoda. He told us later, "I peek at other races, but I have to 'see' the Derby." BILL.

Col. Matt J. Winn Dies at 88, He Was Mr. Kentucky Derby

COL. MATT J. WINN
One of racing's great figures

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 6 (AP).—Col. Matt J. Winn, 88, who made the Kentucky Derby famous, died here today.

Winn underwent two recent operations to correct a stomach disorder and had been in a serious condition for several weeks. He died at 3:45 a. m. (Washington time). Relatives and close business associates were at the bedside.

Funeral services have been planned for 10 a. m. Saturday at the Cathedral of the Assumption here. The body will lie in state tomorrow and burial will be in the St. Louis Cemetery.

The family received condolences today from business leaders and friends in all sections of the Nation.

Mayor Charles Farnsley expressed regret at Winn's death and said he "was a living reminder of our great past. He was a part of Louisville."

Winn, president of Churchill Downs since 1902, was known widely in the Nation's turf circles. But he was best known for his work in building the Kentucky Derby into an internationally known sports event.

He saw the first Derby in 1875 from the tailgate of his father's grocery wagon. The "Diamond Jubilee" Derby last May found Winn watching the racing classic for the seventy-fifth time.

He took over the management of Churchill Downs in 1902, when the organization was in financial difficulties. At that time, the Kentucky Derby was worth less than $3000 to the winner.

Gradually, Winn built up the racing program at the Downs and concentrated on the Derby. Through the years, he increased its value to $50,000.

Then in 1940, he proudly announced the added value of the race would be increased to $75,000. As soon as the war was over, Winn raised the value again, this time to $100,000, its present value.

The years of World War II came nearest to disrupting the Derby. However, he managed to keep it alive. In 1945 it was run in June, instead of the customary first Saturday in May, and it was confined to a "street car Derby" because of war-born transportation problems.

Attendance figures at the Derby never were announced officially but Winn estimated attendance in 1946 at 100,000.

In his early life, Winn was associated with various business enterprises. Strangely enough, he was 42 years old before he first entered the turf and racing industry.

Winn's activities included an interest in race tracks at Chicago, New York, Covington, Ky., and in Mexico.

But it was one of his proud boasts that during his long association with racing he never placed a bet on a horse or gave a "tip" on a race.

Winn was married in 1888 to Miss Rosa Doyle of Louisville, who died in 1912.

Phelps Ties Dunbar, 7-7

Phelps Vocational High and Dunbar of Baltimore battled to a 7-7 South Atlantic Football Conference tie yesterday at Brooks Stadium.

Ed Isley set up Phelps' lone touchdown in the first quarter when he intercepted a Jack Ralph pass and raced 21 yards to Dunbar's 18. Roland Jackson's pitching arm carried Phelps the rest of the way.

Jackson first threw to Bill Jones on the 4. And then he whipped a pass to Ray Hill in the end zone.

In the third quarter, a Joe Glascoe to Ralph pass gained 12 yards and put Dunbar on Phelps' 8. Jim Campbell battered through center to the 4. Bill Eggleson plowed over. Campbell placekicked the tying conversion.

So Say the Experts

Those Long Trips By Terps, GW, Hoyas Should Be in Vain

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

SUGGESTION: Fasten your seat belts before reading the football scores Sunday morning because it figures to be a rough weekend for Maryland, Navy, Georgetown and George Washington . . . The Terps are 21-point underdogs against Michigan State and the Hoyas the same against Wake Forest. . . . George Washington is a 14-point underdog against Kansas and Duke rules a 7-point favorite over Navy. . . . The expected losses of Georgetown, Maryland and George Washington will be the airlines and railroads gains. The three squads are travelling 4800 miles to be licked, say the experts. . . . When Bo Rowland, whose Colonials have dropped both of their games this season, was told that Kansas had lost all three of its battles, he cracked: "Yeah, I know, they got started a week earlier than us.". . . More honors for North Carolina's Choo-Choo Justice. "All the Way Choo-Choo" was the preacher's sermon in the Chapel Hill Baptist Church last Sunday. . . .

THINGS ARE getting progressively worse for Georgetown. They were a 12-point underdog against Holy Cross, 14 against Maryland and now they're 21 against Wake Forest . . . An idea of the task Maryland faces against 7th-ranking Michigan State Saturday is contained in this week's Collegiate Athletic Bureau Statistics. In 121 plays in two games, the Spartans have gained 871 yards or 7 yards each time it moved the ball . . . The Terps, on the other hand, have permitted the opposition to advance only 210 yards in 98 plays, but the Maryland opposition did not include Michigan, as did Michigan State's . . . Billy Cox, the junior tailback whom Coach Wallace Wade said couldn't pass, is the guy making the Duke team click and he's doing it with his passing . . .

TWO-PLATOON football has doubled the cost of scouting. Most colleges now send two men to put the eye on the opposition. One scouts the defense and the other the offense . . . Three months before his unexpected departure from Maryland to Washington & Lee as head coach, George Barclay placed an order for a television set. It was delivered to him last week in Lexington, Va., but alas and alack, the video cable hasn't reached Lexington yet so Barclay is still without television . . . With North Carolina, Duke and N. C. State all away, Wake Forest has the day to itself for its clash with Georgetown, but two Baptist defeats plus the broadcast of the World Series and the North Carolina-South Carolina game are expected to hold the crowd down to about 10,000, half the capacity of Grove Stadium . . .

Army Hopes To Upset No. 1 Team

By Austin Bealmear

New York, Oct. 6 (AP).—For those whose interest can be diverted from the World Series long enough for a fling at football, here is the third installment of pigskin predictions with a warning that some strange developments last week dropped our overage to .802 on 89 correct guesses and 22 misses:

Army vs. Michigan—Something will have to give here. That great Michigan winning streak must come to an end some time. Still, how can you pick against an outfit that is rated the best in the land? One slim vote for Michigan.

Oklahoma vs. Texas—Another top-drawer attraction between two of the most highly-geared offenses. A nod to Oklahoma.

Ohio State vs. Southern California—Pacific Coast football has been slow in recovering from the war but it looks as if it finally has returned to prewar status. Southern Cal.

Georgia vs. Kentucky — The Wildcats have been one of the big surprises of the season. A quick vote for Kentucky.

Duke vs. Navy—Although the Middies finally know how it feels to win and are itching for more of the same, Duke.

East

Yale over Columbia, Cornell over Harvard, Pennsylvania over Princeton, Pittsburgh over West Virginia, Boston College over Penn State, Dartmouth over Holy Cross, Rutgers over Lehigh, Boston University over Colgate, Brown over Rhode Island State, Delaware over Bucknell.

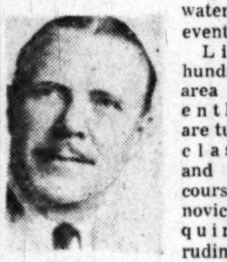
Area Boating Groups Hold Informal Pre-Winter Events

By Happy Walker

AREA BOATING GROUPS are taking advantage of Washington's Indian Summer weather to stage informal pre-winter water sports events.



Walker

Likewise, hundreds of area boating enthusiasts are turning to classrooms and training courses. The novice to acquire the rudiments of the sport, the older hands to brush up on such subjects as navigation, charting, safety and advanced piloting.

Foremost of the latter group, is the Potomac River Power Squadron who opened their sixteen-week instruction course, Wednesday of this week, at the Department of Labor cafeteria.

Considered as leaders in the training field, the squadron listed some hundred or more entrants this week who will devote each Wednesday evening to seamanship, rules of the road, equipment, safety and piloting.

Squadron Comdr. Anton Benesh stated that registration would be held open until next week for any late comers who desired to enroll. That's Department of Labor cafeteria at 8 p. m.

POTOMAC BOAT CLUB will hold its Fall Tin Can Regatta this Sunday off the Georgetown club's float, Charlie Butts stated. There will be a mixed schedule of shell races as well as several novelty events and eats. Things get under way at 1 p. m.

Float officers for the coming year include Steve Stephenson, captain; Robert M. Duncan, first lieutenant; John Eiseman, jr., second lieutenant, and Charlie Butts, coach.

FOR THE NOVICE as well as the seasoned sailing hand, the fall doubleheader series of sail races off Hains Point every Sunday should have a special appeal.

Featuring classes in Chesapeake 20s, Chesapeake 16s, Lightnings, Thistles, Hamptons, Comets, Snipes, Penguins and Tempests, the weekend affairs draw heavily from Washington's sailing circles.

Commodore Wirt Gill, Sunny Kierst, Gene Marquardt, Ben Minor, Frank Marquardt and Bill Rushlow will be on tap to carry out the judges' duties as well as get the races under way.

Roller Derby Starts Friday At Uline's

New Jersey Jolters, led by their player-coach, Carl (Big Moose) Payne, roll into Washington today in preparation for the opening of their Roller Derby series with the Washington-Baltimore Wildcats tomorrow night at Uline Arena. Starting time is 8:30 p. m.

Bill Reynolds will direct the Washington-Baltimore team and will have Georgeanna Kamp and Bob Lewis as captains while Mary Youpelle and John Karp will captain the girl's and men's squads for the Jolters.

Mrs. Glick Keeps Lead

Baltimore, Oct. 6 (AP).—Mrs. Maurice Glick of Baltimore retained her six-stroke lead in the Payne Trophy Golf tournament today at the two-thirds mark of the 54-hole test at Rolling Road. Mrs. Glick carded a five-over par 80 today to give her a two-day gross of 154.

Mary Ann Downey of the Baltimore Country Club equalled her own course record of 76 to take second place with a 165 total.

Mrs. Maurice Glick, Woodholme 80—1—79, 156; Helen Ruff, Rolling Road, 91—10—81, 157; Mary Ann Downey, B. C. Montreal Evens Little World Series

Indianapolis, Oct. 6 (AP).—Montreal squared the Little World Series with Indianapolis with a 7-1 victory on Clarence Podbielan's two-hit pitching tonight. Each team has won two.

Podbielan pitched no-hit ball except for the fourth. Neither team scored in the last three innings.

Dixie Series Tie

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 6 (AP).—Carl (Swish) Sawatski poled a four-run homer over the centerfield wall in the fifth inning to pace Nashville to a 10-5 victory over Tulsa in the sixth game of the Dixie Series here tonight. The series now stands even at 3-3. The final game will be played tomorrow night.

He's in a Rut

York, England, Oct. 6 (AP).—Douglas Smith, No. 2 jockey in England, had five mounts today. He finished second five times.

By virtue of a certain deed of trust, dated December 17, 1945, being instrument No. 43414, recorded December 18, 1945, among the land records of the District of Columbia, default having occurred in the payment of certain obligations contained therein, and at the request of the party secured thereby, the undersigned trustees will sell, at public auction in front of the premises, on TUESDAY, THE EIGHTEENTH DAY OF OCTOBER, A.D. 1949, AT FOUR O'CLOCK P. M., the following-described land and premises, situate in the District of Columbia, and designated as and being parts of Lots 1 and 2 in Block 1 of B. F. Leighton et al. Trs., subdivision of "Brookland" as per plat recorded in the Office of the Surveyor for the District of Columbia in liber County 6, folios 103 and 104; beginning at a point in the west line of Ninth Street, distant 100 feet from the southwest corner of said Lot 1 and North along the west line of Ninth Street, 50 feet; west 114.54 feet to the west line of said Lot 2; south along the west line of Lot 2, 50 feet; east parallel with Frankfort Street, 114.54 feet to the beginning of said Block 1; now known as Square 3831.

Terms: Sold subject to the unpaid balance of a prior building association deed of trust for $3,659.07, as of September 30th, 1949. The purchase price above said trust to be paid in cash. A deposit of $500.00 required. Conveyancing, recording, revenue stamps, etc., at purchaser's cost. Terms to be complied with within thirty days, otherwise deposit forfeited or the property may be advertised and resold at the discretion of the trustees.

F. W. LANDWEHR,
Trustees.

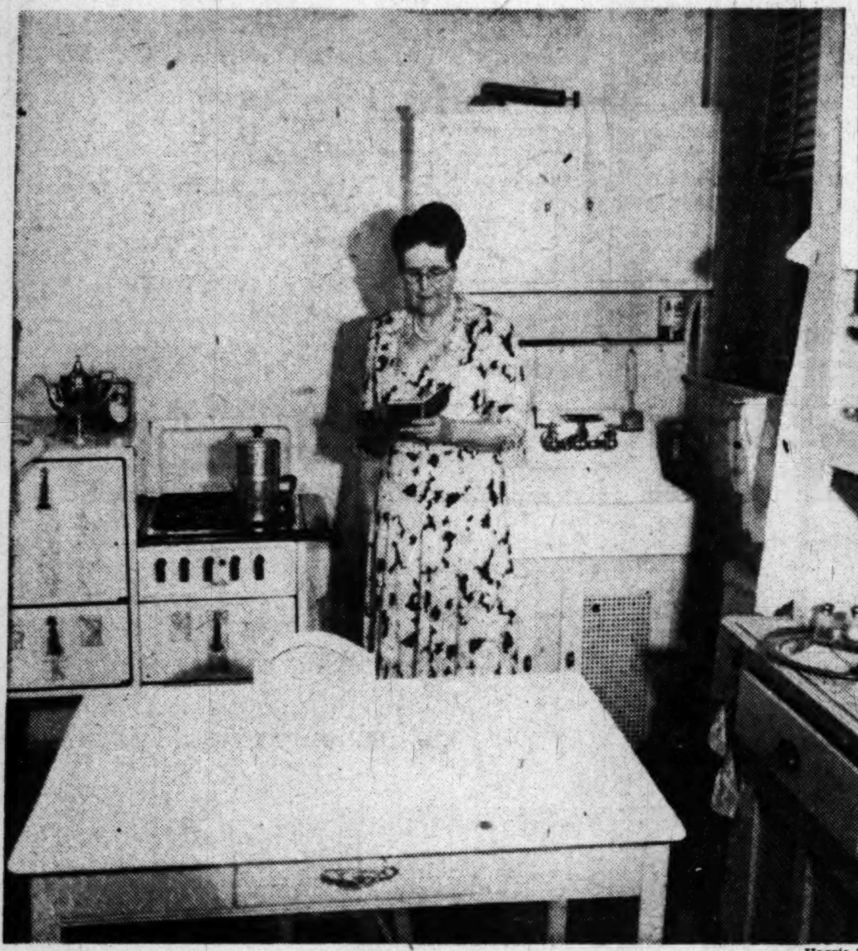
Seven Days Changed Her 1906 Kitchen Into a 1949 Model

By Lucia Brown



Harris & Swing

BEFORE—Here's the way the kitchen in her apartment in the Westmoreland looked when Mrs. Butler took inventory for remodeling purposes. It was still practically a 1906 version, so turning it into a 1949 dream kitchen took a bit of figuring. Mrs. Butler, author of the book "Time to Speak Up," moved into the apartment this summer. She and husband bought the apartment when the Westmoreland, at 2122 California st. nw., turned cooperative

FORTY-THREE YEARS AGO, it was a dream kitchen. Didn't it have everything? Brand new ice box . . . running water . . . gas range!

But it was 1949 before Mrs. Hugh Butler stepped inside it, after she and her husband bought a cooperative apartment in the Westmoreland, 2122 California st. nw. Times and kitchen fashions had changed plenty, and Mrs. Butler's heart sank as she looked around.

Pre-World War I plumbing, threadbare linoleum, and dingy, old-fashioned cabinets made a dreary picture. True, the range and electric refrigerator had made their advent since 1906 but they were antiques by now, too. Something had to be done, and quick, before the family moved in.

A teacher of public speaking—her students have included such notables as Mrs. Perle Mesta—Mrs. Butler felt a complete novice at the job of lifting a kitchen's face. But she set to work with a will and got the job done in record time. How she went about it is typical of the kitchen revolutions going on all over the country now, and may give a few tips to homemakers faced with a similar problem.

Friend Answers SOS

CONSULTING some one who knew more about it than she seemed a logical first step to Mrs. Butler. She talked to a friend, Mrs. Barbara Miller Smith, who has had much experience in home remodeling. Together, they made an inventory of her kitchen needs. Here are a few points Mrs. Smith advised her to consider:

1. The number in the family—in this case, two.
2. The type of cooking to be done and how much Mrs .Butler planned to do herself.
3. The amount and kind of entertaining to be done.
4. Mrs. Butler's height.
5. How to keep the cost of completely redoing the kitchen within 15 percent of the total spent on buying and furnishing the apartment.
6. How to make the room cheerful and attractive, as well as useful and efficient.

With her ideas pretty well organized, Mrs. Butler's next step was to consult contractors. She talked to four, says she learned just how little she knew.

"I would have had the whole kitchen along one wall and been taking as many steps as that housewife back in 1906," she says.

Male Reluctance

"ONE CONTRACTOR hesitated to tell me how wrong I was. 'Tell a woman and you lose a job!' he said. I finally convinced him I'd rather know what he thought now than after mistakes were made."

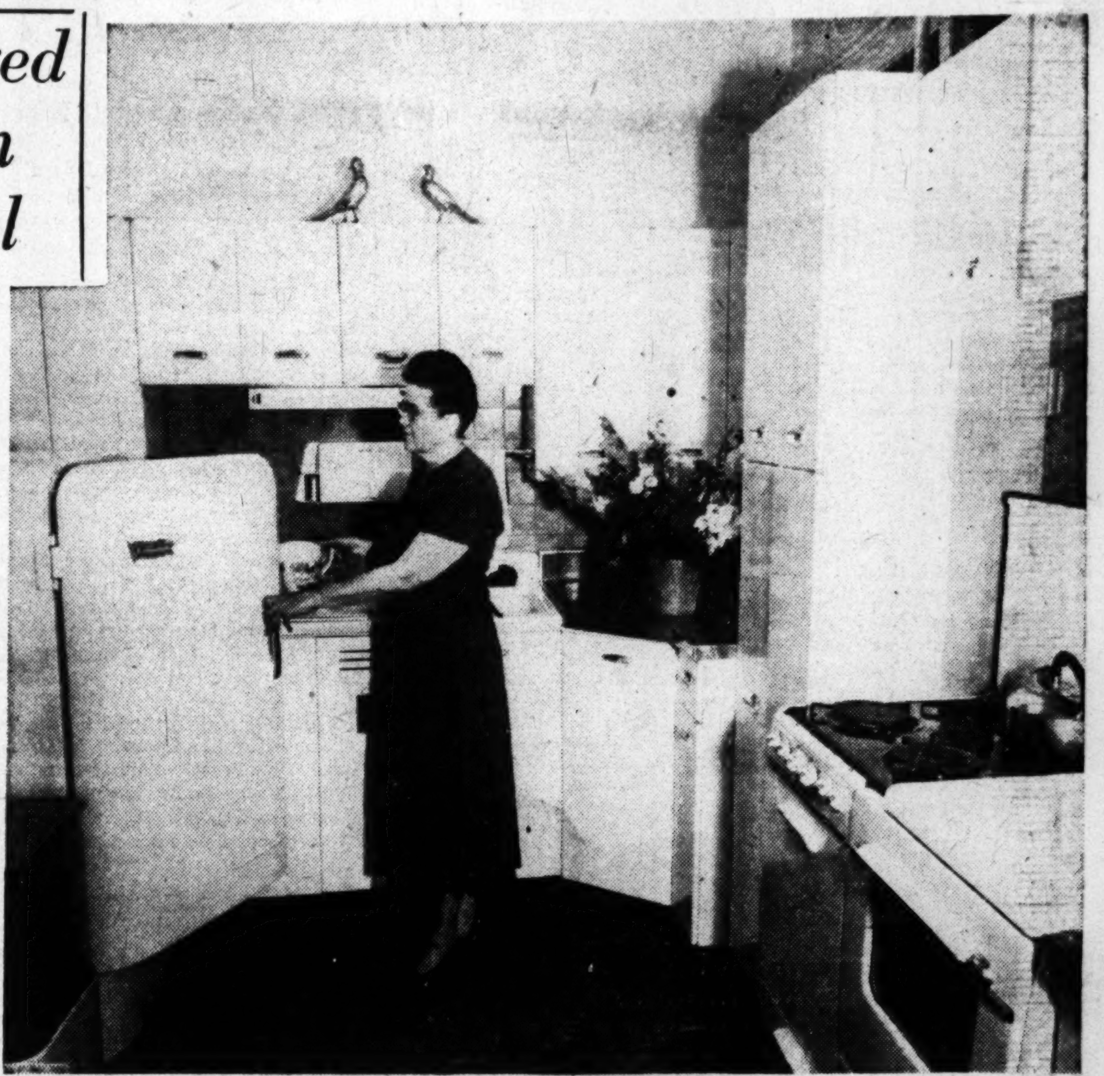
"I was going to be very noble and wait until prices were lower before buying the new refrigerator and gas range for the remodeled kitchen," Mrs. Butler recalls. "My husband changed my mind about that.

"'I thought you wanted world peace,' he said to me.

"'What's my kitchen got to do with world peace?', I asked.

"'The more people wait to buy things like ranges and refrigerators, the closer we come to depression,' he answered, 'and if this country has a depression, the rest of the world goes down with us. Then where's world peace?'"

That was convincing enough for Mrs. Butler. She decided to make the job complete—new range, refrigerator, cabinet, sink, wall and floor treatment. And she found a firm that would contract to do the whole installation and remodeling job for her in a week. Not having the work done piece-meal saved her a lot of time, nervous energy, and money, she believes.



Harris & Swing

AFTER—It's a joy to look at and to use, this remodeled kitchen of Mrs. Hugh Butler's. She particularly likes the right-hand opening of the refrigerator which makes it easier to take out food when working at nearby counters

Here are some features of the kitchen set-up: Beautiful green, red, and white wallpaper in ivy design covers the ceiling and one wall. Walls are a creamy white, except for one covered with the paper. Green tiles—cleaned with a couple of quick swipes of a cloth—face the area back of sink and stove.

Lawn-Like Floor

THE FLOOR is extra easy on the feet, for it's covered with green rubberized blocks. Red marbelized formica covers the tops of all the counters.

Work tables are 4 inches higher than usual—raised with blocks—to make them comfortable for Mrs. Butler, who is tall. The lion's share of the storage space is up high, which saves lots of stooping and bending.

There's extra light for work at sink and range, provided by long fluorescent lamps. A garbage disposal unit is part of the sink.

So there it is—a 1906 backnumber turned into a 1949 model of a dream kitchen.

"And to think my mother had a wood stove and a pump on the ranch in Colorado!," says Mrs. Butler. "We women have come a long way in one generation."

Market Memo . . .

Ham, Win; Hens, Place; Spots, Show

A ROSY, SUCCULENT HAM is a good buy for this weekend. The price has been slowly sliding for three weeks, is now down 10 to 12 cents at wholesale. Fresh pork is second choice in canny meat buys.

HENS are fine for family or fancy dinners and extra plentiful. A nice fat biddy can serve for several meals—in fricassees, pies, salads, soups.

NORFOLK SPOTS are the prize fish buy. Plenty are being caught and they're at their peak—fat and sweet. Trout, sea bass, and blue fish are also in good supply. Crab meat and shrimp are abundant, Chesapeake crab being more reasonable than the Florida or Louisiana kind.

VEGETABLE PLENTIFULS include spinach, squash, Long Island cauliflower, cabbage, egg plant, and sweet potatoes. Canned corn is prominent on grocers' shelves, following the harvest of our third largest crop of sweet corn.

TOKAY GRAPES are comparatively cheap now and so are apples. Pears are still a good fruit buy and the price on California oranges has dropped in the past few weeks.

Girl, 14, Has Excellent Mind and Manners But Doesn't Get On Well With Other Children And Seems to Envy Her Magnetic Younger Brother

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have a daughter, Savanna, 14 years old, who enters high school this autumn. She has an excellent mind, is well mannered, and exceedingly helpful to me around the house; but she doesn't get along well with children her age.

Although we dress her quite well, bring her into our confidence in many matters and give her plenty of love and affection, she seems very unsure of herself and highly sensitive, and she just doesn't "let go" and have fun like a child her age should. She is rather overweight, for which she is doctoring.

She has a brother, Victor, two years younger, who has a wealth

About Varnishing Furniture

I have an inexpensive desk and chair which have a walnut finish. The top of the desk is quite scarred, although it is in good condition otherwise. I don't feel that it is worth the time an trouble to remove the finish and all the sanding that this would entail and have decided to paint it.

I have seen furniture painted with an antique white. It seems to me I have been told that this is accomplished by mixing varnish with a flat white paint. This type of paint may be on the market now. Will you please tell me if it is, and where I might obtain it; if not, can you tell me how I can mix it myself?

C. M. H.

If you want a walnut finish you could apply a walnut varnish stain to the desk and chair without removing the old finish. Varnish stain has enough pigment in it to cover scratches and scars quite well. Before it is applied all you need do is to sand the wood to remove rough spots and to break the present gloss on the finish. Wipe with a cloth moistened with turpentine and apply two coats of varnish stain. If you wish a dull finish you may rub the surface with pumice and oil when the last coat is thoroughly dry, or apply a varnish which dries with a dull finish.

Antique white finish is achieved not by mixing white paint and varnish, but by applying flat white to the surface, allowing it to dry thoroughly and then giving it a glaze of varnish or special glaze. The varnish or glaze is wiped while wet from the high spots and center, leaving the edges and carved areas darker. Already prepared glaze can be purchased at paint stores. Or, it can be made by thinning varnish with one-fourth as much turpentine and tinting it with color-in-oil.

I want to paint some trays black and then Peter Hunt them. Will I have to remove old paint first? Some of the trays are slightly rusted. M. B.

The old paint would not have to be completely removed from the trays, but they should be thoroughly rubbed with fine sandpaper to make them smooth and remove every trace of rust.

Inquiries and contributions to the Ask Anne column must be in written form. We regret that time does not permit handling them by telephone. Address letters and cards to Anne, Room 408, The Washington Post, Washington 4, D. C.

Mrs. Robbins Will See Son Married in Paris

By Marie McNair

MRS. WARREN DELANO ROBBINS, just back after a meeting with a new granddaughter in Wellesley, Mass., will sail November 5 for Paris to see her son, Warren Delano Robbins, jr., marry the little girl for whom he waited until she grew up.

The marriage of Mrs. Robbins' son to Margaret Dudley is set for the middle of November in the French capital. Miss Dudley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Otis Dudley of New York and Buenos Aires arrived in Paris yesterday and plans for the ceremony soon will take shape.

Irene Robbins is pleased as Punch with the girl who's soon to be her daughter-in-law. She has known the family for years, remembers Margaret when she was in pigtails.

Warren Robbins remembered her, too, and Margaret, now 20, never forgot him from the time she first saw him 10 years ago. Their paths severed in Buenos Aires, Mr. Robbins to go finally to Paris as a member of the Morgan banking firm, Miss Dudley to wind up in Europe with one of the government missions. But when they met again last July—it was love!

Mrs. Robbins' newest grandchild, born September 15, is the daughter of Alexander Cochrane Forbes and the former Helen Robbins, called "Sunny" by family and friends. She's to be christened Felicity Irene, the second name for her charming grandmother, who was Irene de Bruyn, of Buenos Aires, before she married the American career diplomat, cousin of the late President Roosevelt.

"I would never have a child named for me," said Mrs. Robbins yesterday, "because I dislike the name in English."

So—it's Irene as the French would pronounce it.

Washington won't see Mrs. Robbins until late spring. She hopes to lease her house on Woodland dr., spend the winter in Paris, and visit Buenos Aires before she returns home.

TOWN TOPICS:

CAPABLE KATHARINE RODRIGUEZ, former wife of Vicente Valdes Rodriguez, onetime Counselor of the Cuban Embassy in Washington, has landed herself a job in what sounds like a little corner of heaven.

She's just arrived at Guaymas, Mexico, to be assistant manager at the fabulous Hotel Playa de Cortes, a west coast desert resort by the sea. There's deep-sea fishing in the Gulf of California at Guaymas, and there's riding, swimming, shuffleboard and archery. A half hour flight by plane takes you to the Ciudad Obregon hunting club for duck shooting, and for more intrepid huntsmen there are wild boar, wildcats and pumas roaming the wilds.

Katharine's excellent Spanish—although she's a Virginia gal—will stand her in good stead at La Playa. It helped, too, when she served as Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's secretary.

Turn the pages of Harper's Bazaar and there, in a setting of red and gold autumn trees is Mrs. Pierpont Morgan Hamilton, dressed pour le sport in tweeds with a solemn Dalmation at her side. Look further and you'll learn that Nora Hamilton smokes Herbert Tareytons.

WASHINGTON BOY who has made good is Charles Clegg, co-author and photographer with Lucius Beebe of "U. S. West—The Saga of Wells Fargo."

Church Clegg, son of Charles Myron Clegg of Georgetown, once managed the Debutante Shop of Garfinckel's, switched to writing, and produced "Mixed Train Daily" as his first book.

Now he lives at the swank Madison in New York, in the winter, and spends his summers in Carson City, Nev., living on "the Gold Coast," a railroad train turned into a chic menage.

"THEY SAY":

THAT LYLE O'ROURKE, man about our town, will walk to the altar on October 15 with Dorothy Perkins Rogers of New York. And follow this carefully. Mrs. Rogers is the former wife of John Bond Rogers, who was left waiting at the church by pretty Peggy Townsend, who eloped instead with Martin Vogel, jr. Peggy has since remarried—she's now Mrs. Gould Shaw—while young Pete Vogel maintains his state of single blessedness at Broadview, his Warrenton farm.

That there's a ROMANCE BREWING between Stanto Griffis, newly appointed U. S. Ambassador to the Argentine, and handsome Mrs. Margaret Emerson, heir to the Bromo Seltzer fortune. She's the mother of Gloria Baker Topping Alexander, one of New York's first glamour debs, who's now in Europe with her husband, Brig. Gen. Edward A. Alexander.

Engaged Pair Widely Feted

Miss Evelyn Bolling Cox and Laurence Washington, jr., who will be married October 22 at Christ Church, Alexandria, are being widely entertained by their friends. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Cox, and her fiance is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Washington of this city.

A tea for Miss Cox and Mr. Washington was given last Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Chambliss Williams. Mr. and Mrs. Cox and Mr. Washington helped receive, while Miss Juliette Washington and Miss Sarah Cox, aunts of the couple, poured tea. Assistants at the party were Miss Anne Gardner Williams, daughter of the host and hostess, and Miss Ellen Morgan.

Miss Wilna Blackwell gave a bridge party last Tuesday for Miss Cox. This Sunday Miss Georgia Washington and Mrs. Robert Banning, sisters of the bridegroom, and Miss Juliette Washington will entertain at a party.

A miscellaneous shower will be given by Miss Constance Small next Thursday, October 13, and on October 21, Mrs. Warren Spratley, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Smith, will give a supper party before the wedding rehearsal.

Miss Peggy Jean Wells, one of the wedding attendants, is planning to entertain. She will have as a house guest Miss Harriette Clarke of Greenwich, Conn., another bridesmaid.

Embassy Dinner Parties Honor Defense Ministers

AS CONFERENCES of National Defense Ministers here from foreign lands continue in the Capital, so too do the round of dinners and luncheons in their honor.

Dinners were given last evening by the British Ambassador and Lady Franks, who entertained for the British Minister of Defense, A. V. Alexander, and the French Ambassador and Mme. Bonnet, who entertained for the French Minister of Defense, Paul Ramadier.

The Norwegian Defense Minister, Jens Christian Hauge, was honored at a stag dinner given at the Norwegian Embassy by the Ambassador, Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne.

Gen. Deveze Feted At Cocktail Party

MAJ. COUNT YVAN DU MONCEAU DE BERGENDAL, Military and Air Attache of the Belgian Embassy, entertained at a cocktail party yesterday in the Louis Seize room of the Shoreham Hotel in honor of the Belgian Minister of National Defense, Gen. Albert Deveze.

Other guests were the Belgian Ambassador, Baron Robert Silvercruys; Gen. Lucien Leboutte, Chief of the Belgian Air Force; Gen. Alfred Gruenther, USA, and White House Presidential Aides Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, USA; Brig. Gen. Robert B. Landry, USAF, and Rear Admiral Robert L. Dennison, USN.

Officials from the Monetary Bank and International Fund, and representatives from the Army and Air Forces and State Department, were also guests.

Belgian Counselor Gives Dinner, Reception

ROGER OCKRENT, secretary general for the Marshall Plan at the Belgian Foreign Office, was honored last evening at a dinner given by the Belgian Counselor, Pierre Jasper. Dinner at 8 at the Counselor's house was followed by a reception there for a number of diplomats and ECA members and their wives.

Young and handsome M. Ockrent is also former Chief of Cabinet of former Prime Minister of Belgium, Henri Paul-Spaak, and last April he was at the Blair House with the Regent of Belgium, Prince Charles.

Last evening cocktails were served in the Counselor's dining room overlooking the Potomac, and at dinner guests were seated at small tables in the drawing room upstairs. Flame and white gladioli decorated the room, and the tables were covered with flame, chartreuse and yellow cloths.

The Ambassador of Belgium, Baron Silvercruys, was among the guests, as well as the Ambassador of the Netherlands and Mme. Van Kleffens, and the Minister of the Netherlands and Mme. Reuchlin. Others were the Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Willard L. Thorp, Senator and Mrs. Clinton Anderson, Senator and Mrs. Brien McMahon, C. Tyler Wood, Count and Countess Gilles de Boisgelin, Miss Mary Gore, the First Secretary of the Italian Embassy, Egidio Ortona, Mme. George Misse, Mme. Vera Petchek, Mme. Audette Gendron and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Cox.

Clarks Dinner Guests At Cafritz Home

JUSTICE AND MRS. TOM CLARK were the guests in whose honor Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz entertained at dinner last evening at their home on Foxhall rd.

Mme. De Mello-Franco, wife of the Brazilian Minister, was hostess at luncheon yesterday at her home on Massachusetts ave.

Luncheon Honors Mrs. Thomas E. Green

WIVES of the members of the Judge Advocate General's Corps gave a luncheon yesterday at Kenwood Country Club in honor of Mrs. Thomas H. Green, wife of the Judge Advocate General. In the receiving line with Mrs. Green were Mrs. Hubert D. Hoover, Mrs. Franklin P. Shaw and Mrs. Claude B. Michelwait.

Mrs. Charles C. Young, Mrs. Francis J. Sullivan, Mrs. Carlos E. McAfee and Mrs. Laurel L. Chambers were in charge of arrangements, and those attending brought bric-a-brac for the JANGO exchange.

Harris & Ewing.

MRS. WILLIAM THORNTON McGINNESS was Miss Catherine Rhodes Richardson before her marriage yesterday afternoon at the chapel at Fort Myer, Va. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hubert Richardson. Her husband, an Air Force lieutenant, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spurgeon McGinness of Cherryvale, Kans. The newlyweds will motor through the West and then report to Hamilton Field, San Francisco, Calif., for the lieutenant's new assignment

Going to Annapolis

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Clarendon Smith, will motor to Annapolis Saturday to attend the football game as guests of Commander and Mrs. Carl Dywer, who are stationed at the Naval Academy. Immediately following the game, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be the guests of Commander and Mrs. Dywer at a cocktail party.

Rose Show Opens Saturday At Virginia U.

At least two internationally known horticulturalists will be among the specimen judges of the fourteenth annual rose show of the Garden Club of Virginia Saturday and Sunday in the rotunda of the University of Virginia.

Jacques Legendre, nurseryman of Wachapreague, Va., and Miss Helen M. Totty, member of a large nursery firm in Madison, N. J., who were both on the panel of judges at the International Rose Contest in Bagatelle, France, when the rose "Peace" was awarded the title of "The Most Beautiful Rose in France," will be among the judges for this show.

Other prominent horticulturalists on the list of judges released today by the committee are the following: J. R. Van Sickler of Roanoke, chairman of the American Rose Society's committee on prizes and awards; A. G. Smith of the division of extension work at Blacksburg and a member of the American Rose Society's committee on research and soil and fertilizers; Frederic Heutte of Norfolk, head of the State Bureau of Parks and Forestry and a member of the American Rose Society's committee of consulting rosarians from the district comprising Delaware, District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia; Robert Talley, associate in horticulture of Mr. Legendre.

The show will be open to the public tomorrow from 3 until 9 p. m. and on Sunday from noon until 5 p. m. No exhibits will be removed until the close of the show on Sunday. Hostesses representing the four sponsoring garden clubs, Albermarle, Augusta, Dolly Madison and Rivanna, will be on duty during all visiting hours.

Of special interest in the show is the class for men only, for which all restrictions have been removed. Several noncompetitive exhibits will also be on display.

Service Group To See 'Faust'

Service circles will be well represented at the opening of the Columbia Opera Association's performance of "Faust" at 8:30 this evening at Lisner Auditorium.

The role of Marguerite will be sung by Maria de la Hill, wife of Col. Howard G. Hill of Fort Belvoir.

Among those who will attend are Capt. B. C. Majunder of the Indian Supply Mission with Mme. Palit and Mme. Karve; Capt. and Mrs. George B. Richards, Col. and Mrs. Roland C. Brown, Lieut. and Mrs. Kenneth Cramsie, Col. and Mrs. Edwin S. Bettelheim, jr.

Also, Dr. and Mrs. H. Schuyler Foster, jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Allen, Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Little, Miss Aubrey Forbes, Mrs. Ellis Johnson, Maj. F. C. Whitlow.

At the Shoreham

Mr. and Mrs. Philip May of Charleston, W. Va., are at the Shoreham for a visit.

Esthetic Disaster Impends

Columnist Calls Sisters To Barricades Against Tyranny of Style Trend

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

LEAVES are falling, rugs are going down, curtains up. Autumn, though not climatically, is officially here.

Mammoth embassy dinners are commencing, cocktail parties growing bigger if not better, hen luncheons burgeoning by scores and, after summer's nap, protocol slowly raises its tired head. The town glitters with brass, foreign generals and admirals here discussing defense; cabinet ministers trickling in from all over; each accorded proper quota of entertainment, official, sometimes otherwise.

Participating ladies, mostly local, still wear last year's ensembles, wait for colder weather to startle friends, the public with new attire. These self-same ladies, several hundred strong, wives of notables, a few in their own right notable, set tone for the approaching Washington "season."

Will they, won't they, conform to Fashion's new dictates, swing back to the early twenties, re-create the ugliest period sartorially since corset waists, spats and rats went out of style? Those who've perused fashion magazines, seen the Paris collections, know what's in store.

Harrowing Prospect

IN NO time at all this winter might be singled out as the most esthetically distressing on record. First comes the shingle crop with its exposure and accentuation of not-so-pretty ears, creased necks, chins that sag. Next comes the cloche hat, crammed down to jaw's edge. Then there's the too, too short skirt which reveals in painful detail bulging calves, knobby knees. Next is the chemise dress, little better than a glorified slip and not half as becoming, concealing such niceties as a neat waist, stressing the hipline with uncompromising rigidity.

Who thought up all this horror, how did they get launched in magazines that take style seriously?

It's pretty obvious—first the hairdressers went into a huddle, decided their income from haircutting had reached bottom, must be boosted somehow. Second, the milliners thought it would be nice to save on material and ingenuity—a cloche can be whipped up from a leftover scrap of felt, needs no skill in trimming.

Diabolical Plot

THE dressmaking, too, went economical, thinking back happily to war restrictions when a tenth as much material could be sold for precisely the same price with labor costs reduced as added profit incentive. The stocking manufacturers, who seem to have upped prices on their wares with reckless abandon, determined to come out in the open, make women buy the more expensive grades. The shoe people, too, get their slice—short skirts make shoes much more noticeable and up the demand for fancier designs.

The magazines, panting for any kind of novelty, lapped up the propaganda. Now everything depends on whether women will fall for the racket—make themselves hideous to help out the fashion trade.

If Washington's leading ladies went in for passive resistance in a big way, it would help the country avert a major esthetic disaster. Let's get together: keep to long skirts, reasonable hair-dos, skip chemise dresses, fancy shoes and go bareheaded rather than buy a cloche!

Rings on Their Fingers

Mr. and Mrs. David Coopersmith announce the engagement of their daughter, Iris Barbara, to Irwin H. Gootenberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gootenberg of Washington.

Miss Coopersmith is associated with the American Red Cross. Mr. Gootenberg, an Army veteran, attended George Washington University and Abbott Art School. He is now with the art department of The Washington Post.

A spring wedding is planned.

Kligman—Foreman

Stopping in New York

Mrs. Jack Shulman has left for an extended stay in New York, where she is a guest at the Ritz Towers.

Mme. Senoret, Olin Dows, To Be Married

Of interest to Washington is the announcement of the engagement of Mme. Carmen Vial de Senoret of Santiago, Chile, and Olin Dows, of New York, son of Mrs. Tracy Dows of Rhinebeck, N. Y., formerly of Washington, and the late Mr. Dows.

Mme. Senoret is the widow of Octavio Senoret who was Chilean Ambassador to London at the time of his death in 1941. She has one son, a student at Baliol College, Oxford University. She is the daughter of the late Senor and Senora Daniel Vial Carvallo of Santiago.

The bride-elect began her diplomatic career in Washington as attache to the Chilean Embassy. She later became Consul in Boston where she also studied at Harvard University and received a degree in economics. In 1947 she was appointed Chilean Minister to the Netherlands, where she is still accredited. At present she is a delegate from Chile to the plenary session of UN.

Mr. Dows is a painter and was one of three American artists sent to the European Theater of Operations during the war. He enlisted in 1942 in the Engineer Corps, USA. Besides work owned by the Department of the Army, Mr. Dows is represented in a number of public collections by murals in the Rhinebeck, Hyde Park, N. Y., post offices and by a recent book, "Franklin Roosevelt at Hyde Park." From 1934 to 1936 he was head of the Federal Treasury Art Project.

Educated at St. Mark's School, Mr. Dows later attended Harvard University and the Yale School of Fine Arts.

The wedding will take place shortly.

Returns to School

Miss Marilyn O'Neill, daughter of Admiral and Mrs. Merlin O'Neill of Washington, has returned to Boston, Mass., to continue her professional training at Bouve-Boston School of Physical Education, which is affiliated with Tufts College. Miss O'Neill is current president of the student government at Bouve-Boston.

Pound Drop Enhances Lure

British Woolens Wax in Favor

By Peggy Preston

FEMININE interest in British woolens always quickens at this season. But this year, due to the devaluation of the pound, the price tags are making these imports more attractive than usual.

Costs have not been cut substantially. When you shop for an English made suit or coat you will not find any startling reductions in price. But you pay anywhere from $15 to $20 less per garment today than you did prior to the devaluation.

Another pleasing factor in the current collection of these tailored imports is the styling, weight and size range. With their eyes glued on the American market, manufacturers in the British Isles have made every effort to meet the fashion requirements of women on this side of the Atlantic.

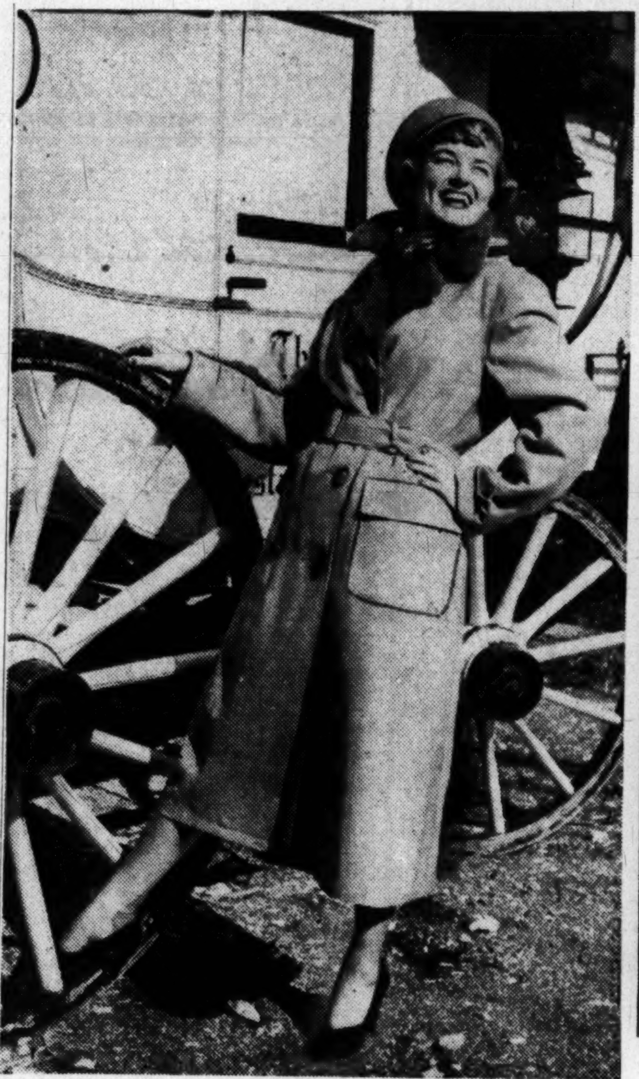
The size ranges are geared to American standards to a greater degree than ever before. Lighter weight fabrics are being used, a salute to our steam-heated way of life. The classic tailored look has been softened in many instances with the little dressmaker touches that are popular with women here.

Wide Choice of Color

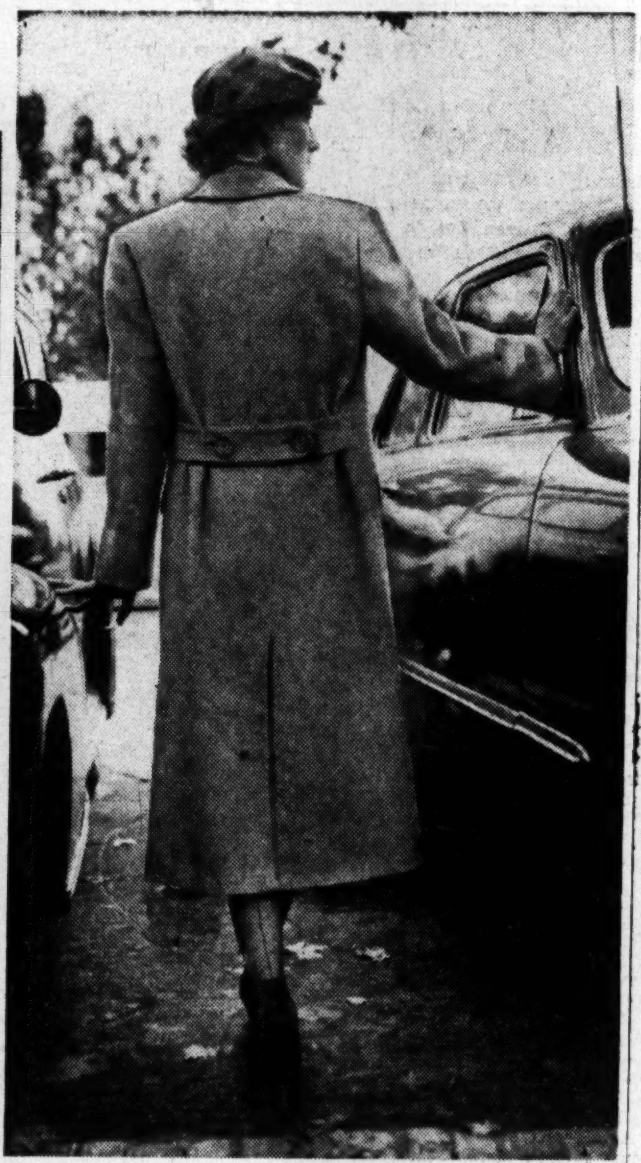
Recent collections of suits and coats arriving in Washington provide a choice of fabric and color. Coverts and gabardines in taupe, camel and smoke blue are especially attractive in strictly tailored garments. Lightweight cashmere, soft and pliable and tinted camel color, has been made into some of the handsomest coats in the entire group.

Tweeds from Scotland and England are flecked with vivid colors. Blues, red, yellows and greens mingle with the darker shades to form gay, colorful fabrics. Handwoven tweeds done in plaid patterns are particularly outstanding when made up into wide swinging coats.

In some instances bolts of matching fabrics are shown alongside the coats. Purchased by the yard, the material may be used in skirts, hats or handbags.



IN ENGLAND this greatcoat might go to a rugby match, but in the USA it would be at home in a football stadium. Its fabric is gray-taupe all-wool gabardine. The interlining is of soft, wooly alpaca in a darker shade which laps over to form the collar and lapels. Both coats are from the group of British imports at the shop of Lewis & Thos. Saltz, Inc.



Dimitri Wolkonsky

THE British version of the classic polo coat, as good today as it was 20 years ago, is styled here with a belt in back which may be removed for those who prefer a full swinging coat. It is double-breasted and detailed with large, round bone buttons. Made of 100% camel's hair, it is hand tailored

Falls Church Homes Tour Set for Oct. 16

Falls Church Community Park, Inc., in conjunction with Falls Church Chapter of the D. A. R., will sponsor a tour of historic homes, Sunday, October 16. The tour will begin at 2 o'clock at the old Falls Church where George Washington worshiped.

Some of the loveliest homes in the area will be open to the public for this one afternoon. Members of the D. A. R. will wear Colonial costumes and serve as hostesses in each of the homes.

At 4 o'clock, tea will be served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Arnold on the Annandale rd.

Proceeds will go to the Community Park fund.

Kitchens Here

Mr. and Mrs. George Kitchen of Ottawa have moved to Washington and are making their home at the Raleigh Hotel. Mr. Kitchen is Washington correspondent of the Canadian Press.

Tobé Says...

Varying Tops Mean Chic

I THINK one of the smartest ways a girl can express her individuality is by choosing separates for her glamour clothes and combining them in various ways.

Start with a smart skirt, full, of course, and in a crisp fabric—Lyons velvet, slipper satin, taffeta or brocade. Then add as many different tops as you can afford. You must have an informal one in jersey—one of the smart new completely sleeveless blouses with a little wing sleeve cardigan to top it. After that, a brocade or a velvet or a satin—always in fabric contrast to your skirt. And finally a frothy blouse of sheer nylon, or lace or chiffon for the intimate feminine look.

Cooking Cues

If you have parsley in your refrigerator use some of it for a sauce to serve with fish fillets. Make it by browning about four tablespoons of butter or margarine in a frying pan; brown slowly so as not to burn the fat. Then add a tablespoon of lemon juice, and two tablespoons of chopped parsley. Heat again and serve immediately.

Plain tapioca cream is delicious with a little orange rind folded into it. Then when ready to serve garnish it with fresh orange sections. Or make a sauce for the pudding out of orange juice thickened with a little cornstarch.

of personality and seems to draw people to him; and although Savanna adores her brother and is very proud of him, I think she resents his popularity, which she would love to have.

Doctors have told me she is one of the most self-conscious children they know, yet they don't suggest any solution; and this is not a "phase of adolescence," for Savanna has been this way since she was little. At play she cannot take the competition of three or four children together; usually gets upset and comes home.

She knows her home is open to her friends at any time, yet when any one of them does come to visit she is bored to death and follows me around, asking if I think we can go on a picnic some day soon, etc. Can you give me any advice on how to help her bring out the warmth of personality which I know is dormant in her? I. L.

DEAR I. L.: The general outline of Savanna's emotional difficulty is readily discernible. She has an anxiety neurosis which originated in awareness that she is a source of dissatisfaction and concern to you whereas her brother is a source of unalloyed pleasure and pride.

To a child, that doomsday sense of being weighed and found wanting in the mother's eyes, in comparison to a magnetic successful rival for the mother's love, is a harrowing secret cross that blights spontaneity and blocks the development of normal self-esteem and self-confidence.

Even in this letter, your tone unconsciously brightens when you speak of Victor; yet whenever it touches on or returns to Savanna, there is a plaintive sighing "determined to be fair" pitch to it. And I daresay the same is true of your countenance and the look in your eye when you are speaking or dealing directly with them.

Why has Savanna been acutely self-conscious since she was little? Because she deeply feels that scrutiny is critical, fault-finding and subtly rejecting—maybe not in words, but in unspoken attitude. Also because she unconsciously assumes that Victor is the ideal, the model to copy, if one is to please, be a success, gain love, etc. And further, because she, a girl, can't be convincingly like Victor, of course—hence her profound assumption that she is a total failure as a human being, at least in her mother's eyes.

A child's notion of his worth to the mother—where there is a mother in the picture—establishes the value he gives himself in all situations and in every human interchange. And since Savanna figures she rates zero in vying with Victor for your spontaneous approbation, naturally she feels licked before she starts matching skills with other children anywhere. And at such times defeatist anxiety causes her to run home to you, driven by a haunting sense of inexplicable loss—namely, loss of "first place" in the mother's heart.

The fact that Savanna is exceedingly helpful around the house points not only to "perfectionist" training, but also to inordinate zeal on her part to win favor with you on your terms,—which again indicates that she has no certainty of being loved for herself alone, a conviction that children must have for social health.

For advice, muster the good sense to control your infatuation for Victor, sufficiently that you may warmly embrace Savanna's personality just as it is, overweight, timid, clinging and all; and stop comparing Victor's "virtues" to her "shortcomings" (as you list and label them) in your thoughts or speech. Given this much of a break from you, and expert tutoring to help her become a good swimmer, good horsewoman, good tennis player, good dancer, etc., I think she'll blossom into a tolerably self-confident young woman. MINUTE FASHION MODES . . . . for the little ones. Sacony, long known in the 'older' circles, has made some really cute and pretty knitted and woolen garments for Marianne and Jimmie. It's amazing the amount of high style that's so evident in fashions so small. There's the tailored gray suit so like Mommie's, the blue blazer piped in red, and other styles in jackets, skirts, blouses and dresses, sizes 3-10. Took note also of the shearling lamb slippers with hard soles. From infants to children's size 3. Both boys and girls, $2.95. Where else but the Children's Cupboard in Falls Church, 120 E. Broad. FA. 3044.

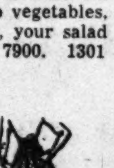
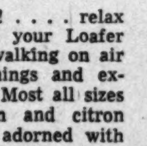
LOWEST PRICED ON THE MARKET! . . . . that's what is said about the new Free-Westinghouse portable. This portable is guaranteed never, yes, never to tangle your thread. Haven't you at some time or the other had to spend precious sewing minutes untangling thread around the bobbin? No more with Free-Westinghouse Portable. Dial OX. 3636 for additional information on this portable. The Sewing School conducted by the Va. Sewing Center is in session but you may still take advantage of it. 2918 Wilson Blvd.

LIGHT UP TIME . . . . around Allison's Little Tea House is a singularly picturesque time. What with the various pieces of old glass and copper reflecting the light in a friendly relaxed manner. The Little Tea House maintains its excellent reputation for good food by serving such dinners as the broiled Tenderloin steak, $2.50, the golden brown deliciously crisp Southern fried chicken dinner, $1.75 or the Roast Prime Rib of Beef Au Jus dinner, $2.59. All include entre, two vegetables, salad, dessert and coffee. If you prefer, your salad is made with home-grown herbs. OT. 7900. 1301 Arlington Ridge Rd., Alexandria.



SKIRTING YOUR FAVORITE SUBJECT . . . . in individually styled skirts is only one of the nice 'little things' done by the new Clothes Horse. If you're looking for real individually in skirts The Clothes Horse is the place for you! Each skirt is flatteringly cut from beautiful fabric and has the contour waist band. The selection isn't large, but each and every skirt is a style piece standing alone on its own fashion and tailoring merits. The Clothes Horse, Shirlington Shopping Center. Open Thurs. and Fri. evenings. TE. 4662.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO THE HOME STITCH! Yes, the Home Stitch in the Shirlington Shopping Center is celebrating its first birthday and its first year of giving Virginia shoppers quality fabrics and sewing needs. Fabrics from such famous textile houses as Mallinson, Juilliard, Forstmann, Ameritex, Burlington Mills, and many many more. Kniting yarns from Minerva, Burnat's and Fleischer have made The Home Stitch a focal point for those who require fine fabrics and art needlework supplies. Wonderful strides have been made in the past year and the coming year will bring more. The Home Stitch is open every Thursday and Friday evenings. Parking space is ample, convenient, and free.

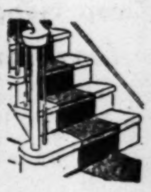


THE PINK CHRYSALIS . . . . is as charming and imaginative as the name implies! Your Girl Friday was simply overwhelmed with the lovely Antique and Modern occasional furniture, the decidedly different lamps, and Chinese accessories scattered thru the rooms of the shop. We noticed highly decorative traditional and Chinese wall shelves. There's also glassware and pottery, any piece of which would make a perfect gift. 3700 Columbia Pike. OW. 8181. Open Thurs. 'til 9 P.M.

DO YOUR LOAFING IN COMFORT! . . . . relax completely when the time comes in your Loafer Sox by Ripon. They are as close to walking on air as anything could be! Wonderful things and excellent for men, women, or children. Most all sizes in scarlet, royal blue, forest green and citron yellow. Loafer sox for the gals are adorned with floral splashes of color, as usual the poor male is unadorned! $2.95. We found these at McQuinn's. 1041 N. Highland. GL. 7717.

LOOKING FOR CHINA? . . . . The Not Quite New Shop in Falls Church has a set of Noritake china, Medean pattern, marked considerably less than the original price. If you're interested in converting old coal oil lamps into attractive useable pieces, you'll be happy with the ones we saw at the Shop. They too are quite inexpensive. Other items include a bassinet, strollers, coats, suits, dresses and shoes. New and different articles are always arriving, so it's wise to kee in touch with the Not Quite New Shop, 104 E. Broad (upstairs), Falls Church, FA 3000.

HOW WOULD YOU LIKE TO WIN $5,000? . . . . or a 4-year scholarship for your boy? Sounds good, doesn't it? Tom Sawyer is sponsoring a jingle contest for Mothers or any adult concerned with buying apparel for boys! Tom Sawyer clothes for boys, 6-16, are fully guaranteed against defect in workmanship or material. Each garment is made of the finest quality, long-wearing material! Sizes are always true which means they're cut for growing boys. Tom Sawyer clothes are carried by Jerry's Kiddie Center in the Shirlington Shopping Center. Get your entry blank there. TE. 7900. A complete dept. store for children.



DEEP IN THE HEART . . . . of Arlington, you'll find the largest rug pile in this section of Virginia! Cardwell's Inc., has a tremendous show room devoted to roll after roll of carpeting in various weaves and patterns. Here's Wilton, Axminister and Velvet in carved or plain design to blend with either modern or eighteenth century decor. Don't be floored as how to best carpet your home, take your problem to Cardwell's. Suggestions and helpful know-how are happily given. 640 N. Glebe Rd., Arlington. 801 G St. N.W.

THE SHIRT OF THE CENTURY . . . . is the latest Van Heusen with the 'won't wrinkle' Century collar. There's nothing quite like it! Nothing wilts it. It stays fresh looking the whole day thru. The collar is made of one piece and wrinkles can't even be ironed in! (Wonderful for the 'home' shirt ironer!) It's revolutionary and a fine gift for any man. In beautiful broadcloth, $3.95. Exclusively Honick's in Clarendon. Honick's also have a good-looking array of men's sport jackets in diagonal, checks or herringbone patterns. $24.95 to $35.00. Honick's is located at 3130 Wilson Blvd. OX. 2498.

UNDER THE SPREADING 'PECAN' TREE . . . . brings to our mind the rich delectable Pecan Pie that's such a specialty with Collingwood-on-the-Potomac. Collingwood with its illustrious past stemming from the days of Gen. Washington is famed for generous hospitality and Southern cuisine. Virginia Ham, Spoonbread along with Charleston Pecan Pie are always to be had in addition to the menu. Collingwood, located on the Mt. Vernon Memorial Highway (5 mi. S. of Alex.), has the Potomac Lounge available for special parties. Closed Mondays. OV. 1521.

PERMANENT WAVES REDUCED . . . . for the month of October at the Village Beauty Salon. Cold Wave Permanents that were $17.50 will be $12.50 all during the month of October. You'll like the skilled and professional way the operators manage your hair. This reduced price includes trim, shampoo and set. The redecorated Village Beauty Salon is located 104 E. Broad, Falls Church. For an appointment dial FA. 1478.

A CHOKER OF PEARLS . . . . that adjusts to any lengths for neckline flattery. The adjustable fastening is another bit of the unusual we find at Meridian Modes. Three strand choker of permanent lustre pearls, $2.40. The shop has, too, just the pretty blouse to do right by your costume jewelry, $3.95 and up. Meridian Modes, 320 Wilson Blvd. OX. 1204; CH. 4337. 'No Sales' tax more than pays your carfare.

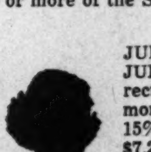
EVER HEAR TELL . . . . of Spudnuts? If you haven't, you're in for a treat! They're delicious! Spudnuts resemble doughnuts in shape but are never greasy, soggy and are instantly digestable. A most tantalizing pastry, Spudnuts are 'at home' in any menu and are wonderful as a party item. Why not serve Spudnuts and cider at your Hallowe'en Party? Order yours fresh by dialing OW. 6466, or get 'em hot at the Spudnut Shop, 76 N. Glebe Rd., Arlington (between Buckingham & Lee Blvd.)

Merry Christmas

CHRISTMAS COMES CALLING . . . . with cards by Hallmark! Do your Christmas card shopping early this year. Choose your Personalized cards from a collection of finely drawn seasonal sketches. Looking thru the Hallmark book, we noticed rotund beaming Santas, saucy angels, lighted Christmas tapers, friendly Mr. and Mrs. greetings and many others. Mayer's have these all under one cover making it conveniently enjoyable to find just the card that's right for you. We were happily surprised to see the cards were 25 for $1.95. We expected them to be much more! Mayer's, 3169 Wilson Blvd., OX. 1171 (Clarendon).

I TAKE THEE JOHN . . . . whispered against a Lohengrin background of a candlelight and flowers symbolizes an important time in your life. An important time when you want to look your loveliest self. For such a time, the Bridal Salon of Lillian Bause presents Emma Domb's exquisite Shocking Pink Empire gown of heirloom rayon satin. Featured on the cover of Look magazine, the gown and closely styled bridesmaid gown can be seen displayed in the window of Lillian Bause. Both gowns are so reasonable, you'll be astonished when you ask the price! 1303 N. Highland (Clarendon).

WYNN'S FASHION SHOWS . . . . have been the cause of much comment, especially from those fortunate enough to have a 'look-see' at the style-setting clothes modeled! Wynn's at the cor. of Glebe and Lee Highway, hold a Fashion Show every Wednesday night from 7:30 to 8:30. On Friday nights, Wynn's, 3134 Wilson Blvd., hold a Business as Usual Fashion Show. Plan to attend one or more of the Shows. Charge accounts invited.



JULES' ANNUAL SALE . . . . Only once a year does JULES HAIR STYLIST offer his own famous corrective permanent wave at such savings! For the month of October all permanents will be reduced 15%. Regular $8.50 to $20.00 permanents will be $7.25 to $17.00 during October only. This includes complete hair analysis, conditioning shampoo, scientific test curl and a fashion-wise setting. Chile's 'Petticoat Politicos' Seek Mme. President

By Genevieve Reynolds and Nicha Soure

A WOMAN president for Chile! Such is the ambitious goal of the gentler sex in that country. Furthermore, the petticoat politicos are working diligently to translate their dream into reality. So says Mrs. Thomas Burke, president, Pan American Liaison Committee.

"Since the acquisition of the coveted vote, the women in Chile have advanced to the point of having the first all-woman political party in the world—the Partido Femenino Chileno," she told members of the Petworth Woman's Club yesterday.

She pointed out that the 36,000 members of the organization, through its dynamic leader, Senora Maria de La Cruz, will attempt to nominate a woman presidential candidate for the next elections.

According to Chilean-born Mrs. Burke, women throughout Latin America are on the move, fighting intelligently and realistically for democracy.

Explains OAS

PAUL W. MURPHY, chief, special events section of the Pan American Union, another speaker on the club's "Pan American Day" program, described the aims, purposes and functions of the Organization of American States. He reminded the audience that women's traditional task is to maintain and defend the home.

The task of defending the home today against subversive doctrines calls for concerted action on the part of women's organizations, believes Mr. Murphy.

Ranking guests at the Petworth Club's opening luncheon included Mrs. Emilio Abello, wife of the Philippine Minister, and Mrs. Eigil Nygaard, wife of the Norwegian Counselor. Mrs. Truley E. Sutherland was luncheon chairman, and Mrs. A. E. Dunn hospitality chairman.

Travel Scope Limited

WHEN the average Washingtonian traveled this summer, he didn't go too far from home. He chose the Eastern shore and eastern Canada as his stamping grounds.

According to Russell Singer, who was guest speaker at the Twentieth Century Club meeting at Barker Hall yesterday, this economy trend in traveling probably mirrors the buyers market in our economy today.

But this year has also been the greatest travel year in peacetime history, Mr. Singer emphasized, with even greater travel prospects for next year. About 375,000 Americans took a European jaunt with the great limiting factor being not desire, but facilities available.

But the American has to have his comfort, too. Since 85 per cent of travel in the United States is by automobile, some 3000 Americans took their cars with them to Europe and a greater number rented European cars to see the countries.

Mr. Singer predicted that many Americans would travel to Mexico and Guatemala next year on the completion of the Pan-American highway.

Organizing for Fall

WITH THE opening of the fall season come announcements of new appointments in the Washington club scene.

Taking over as the new executive director of the Potomac Area Council of Camp Fire Girls will be Mrs. Esther Haskins Bowen. Previously she was with the Red Cross Service stationed in Hollandia, New Guinea for six months and later was sent to Manila in the Philippines where she became director of the Roosevelt Club, the largest Red Cross Club in the world.

Miss Beth James of Fort Worth, Tex., will be the new Y-Teen program director of the Alexandria Young Women's Christian Association. The Y-Teen clubs in the public schools, coed Y-Teen groups at 602 Cameron st. and special activities will be under her direction. She also will assist in the direction of Y-Teen groups at the Bethune Branch.

Mrs. Jack Steele's appointment to the board of directors of the Washington Young Woman's Christian Association was announced by Howard G. Nichols, president of the Y.W.C.A. During the war, Mrs. Steele was a volunteer worker with the Council of Social Agencies and with the Office of Civilian Defense in Chicago. She was also in charge of the School Guidance Bureau of the Chicago College Club.

ON TODAY'S CALENDAR . . .

The KATHERINE MONTGOMERY CHAPTER, DAUGHTERS OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION, will meet at the chapter house, 8 p. m. Mrs. Arthur C. Houghton, State chairman of the programs committees, will talk on "What the Daughters Do." . . . The ALEXANDRIA YOUNG WOMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION will hold a publicity forum, 1:30 p. m., at 602 Cameron st. Members of the forum are Miss Genevieve Reynolds, Jack Tulloch and Mrs. Nora Lamborne.

The ST. JOHN'S MOTHER'S CLUB will hold its first meeting at 1:30 p. m. in the school auditorium, 1225 Vermont ave. nw., when the proposed program for the year will be presented by the president, Mrs. Dale M. Henry. Brother David Cassian, moderator of the club, will welcome old and new members . . . It will be the fall reunion of the ALEXANDRIA BRANCH, NATIONAL LEAGUE OF AMERICAN PEN WOMEN, when they gather for luncheon at 12:30 p. m. at the Old Club, 555 South Washington st. Mrs. Edna Johnson Dowie, who has recently returned from a tour of Mexico, will speak on "The Lure of Old and New Mexico." . . . The NEWCOMB CLUB OF BETHESDA will meet at the home of Mrs. J. Henry Brown, Cedar lane and Locust ave. for luncheon at 1 p. m. to be followed by a business meeting . . . Mrs. James Simon will preside at the first meeting of the year of the SERVICE GUILD OF WASHINGTON, 12:30 p. m. at the Woodmont Country Club.

Blairs Celebrate Silver Wedding With 25 Friends

Col. Robert Earl Blair, USA (ret.), and Mrs. Blair yesterday celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary by entertaining about 50 friends at cocktails at their new home in Riverdale, Md.

The couple was married in Phoenix, Ariz. Mrs. Blair is the former Virginia Isabelle Barnette of San Francisco.

Yesterday's guests included Colonel Blair's West Point classmates, Brig. Gen. Courtland Van Rensselaer Schuyler and Col. H. Morris Marcus and their wives. Assisting Mrs. Blair was her sister, Mrs. Phyllis Steed, who makes her home with the Blairs.

Among those who came from out of town for the party were Mrs. Helen Kelly Rand, Sigmund Pines and David Harvey, all of New York; Mrs. Jessie Cope of Boston.

Tomlinson to Speak at Benefit

DIPLOMATIC society will be well represented when the Puerto Rican - American Women's League holds a benefit luncheon, Saturday, at the United Nations Club. Senora Rafael Aveleyra, wife of the Consul General of the Mexican Embassy, will be guest of honor. Ranking guests will be Mrs. Oscar Gans, wife of the Cuban Ambassador, and Senora Felix Nieto del Rio, wife of the Chilean Ambassador. Edward Tomlinson, author, newspaper correspondent and radio commentator, will give his observations of Mexico and other Caribbean countries. He recently returned from a six weeks' journey in south of the border countries.

One on the Aisle—

Bergman Sobers Up Down Under

By Richard L. Coe

"UNDER CAPRICORN," or "364 Lost Weekends," at the Warner, is as fruity a woolcake as we've had in some time.

The rather charming idea of this Technicolor seems to be that all men are NOT created equal, though it pulls a switch at the last minute which makes you think maybe that wasn't the idea after all.

Anyway, you rich girls, don't marry the man who takes care of your horses. A woman of his own class, in this case a housekeeper, will treat him as her equal. Don't mix the blood strains, folks, it won't do.

Poor Ingrid Bergman (her sufferings here must account for Stromboli reaction) plays a titled lady of Ireland whose groom is mad for her but keeps his station. One day his passion burbles over, but respectfully, and Lady Henrietta reciprocates. They steal away to Gretna Green, her brother tries to break up the match and Lady H. kills him. The groom turned husband takes the rap, goes down to Australia for seven years' servitude, makes a walloping fortune after he is freed.

This is where the picture starts, in the 1830s. Joseph Cotten, the husband, is cut dead by proper Sydney society and Ingrid swills mawkishly in her luxurious, shunned home. Housekeeper Margaret Leighton rules the manse, keeps order among servants finishing up their jail terms. Mad for Joe, Margaret controls her yen with a long-range policy of letting Ingrid drink herself to death by planting bottles, sleeping potions and shriveled heads in her room.

Into all this steps lean, handsome Michael Wilding, cousin to the governor general and fresh from Ireland to coup a fortune. Michael knew Ingrid when Joe was a stable boy and he knows how to treat a gal who's been drinking seven years. He's a gentleman, see? Soon Ingrid is ready to step into Sydney society, but while she's munching salad with the governor, arrives Joe, unkempt, uncontrolled, ungentlemanly.

A Long Kiss

After a scene at Government House, the trio returns to Joe's manse, where Joe catches wise to the fact that Michael has a thing about Ingrid. Although they've shared a kiss as long as the screen code permits, we know that Ingrid's pure, however much she may yearn to go back to those of her own Clawssss. Michael is accidentally shot, Ingrid confesses it was she who killed her brother and the governor is livid.

In the final unraveling scene, we're assured that Michael will go back to Ireland and that Ingrid and Joe will make a go of it. Only thing that would convince me they have a glimmer of a chance would be a quick move to Melbourne. No hint of this.

"UNDER CAPRICORN," Warner Brothers release of an Alfred Hitchcock production. Screen play by James Bridie from a novel by Helen Simpson, adapted by Hume Cronyn. Photographed in Technicolor by Jack Cardiff. Music by Richard Addinsell. Directed by Hitchcock. At the Warner.

THE CAST

Lady Henrietta Flusky	Ingrid Bergman
Sam Flusky	Joseph Cotten
Hon. Charles Adare	Michael Wilding
Milly	Margaret Leighton
H. E. the Governor	Cecil Parker
Mr. Corrigan	Denis O'Dea
Winter	Jack Watling
The Coachman	Harcourt Williams
Mr. Potter	John Ruddock
Mr. Banks	Bill Shine
The Rev. Smiley	Victor Lucas
Mr. Riggs	Ronald Adam
Major Wilkins	Francis de Wolff
Dr. Macallister	G. H. Mulcaster

The triangle performances are splendid, but the lines and situations the three principals are called upon to face are trite indeed. Director Alfred Hitchcock evidently was firm in permitting no flashbacks, an inherently good idea, but his alternative has been to use long speeches detailing the Irish episodes. He's been unable to avoid the static exposition scenes acceptable on stage but restless-making in movies. Nor is Miss Leighton's stark gloom better than a stock figure.

James Bridie's script, from a Helen Simpson novel adapted by Hume Cronyn, has little to be proud of, is indeed unintentionally hilarious at times.

Despite all the nonsense, Miss Bergman remains a completely watchable actress. But you can't much blame her for wanting to escape to reality for a while; away from all this.

Virginia Warned on Poll Tax

By The Associated Press

Virginians were urged yesterday by Senator Robertson (D., Va.) to give "serious consideration" to the State's poll tax repeal amendment.

He predicted Senate approval early next year of the civil rights bill to ban the poll tax as a prerequisite for voting in Federal elections. Robertson opposes the bill; he feels it is "clearly unconstitutional."

The prospect of early Senate action, he told a reporter, "compels Virginia voters . . . when they vote in November . . . to consider seriously the amendment to our constitution" eliminating such a tax.

Robertson said he does not want to see Virginia next year go into an election of nine Representatives "with no one knowing definitely who is eligible to vote."

The Virginia constitutional amendment, he said, would confer broad discretion upon the General Assembly with respect to registration and a head tax, presumably for public schools.

"I am sure no one can object to a head tax for the support of public schools and there is no valid reason to assume that the Legislature will make it more than the present $1.50 until such time as additional revenue for school purposes is urgently needed," Robertson said.

PLATONIC—Except for one long, lingering buss, Ingrid Bergman and Michael Wilding admire each other from a distance in the new Technicolored drama at the Warner, "Under Capricorn." The story takes place in Australia in the 1830s

ARLINGTON COUNTY'S school system is the subject of the new March of Time on "The Fight for Better Schools" now on the Capitol screen . . . More about this interesting feature tomorrow . . . It will also be shown at the Airport Drive-In Sunday and Monday, an Arlington County first.

THAT SPOOK SHOW at the Capitol at midnight tonight has a new gimmick . . . Besides giving you Dr. Silkini's frightening stage doing and a Frankenstein movie, someone in the house will win a monster for his very own . . . WWDC's Milton Q. Ford will be emcee for the midnight and he promises "to give away a monster."

MILTON BERLE gets in town today for his variety show tonight at Uline Arena . . . The television comic's pals will include Sid Gary, Stan Fisher, Moroccans, Marion Colby, Park and Clifford and the Stepp Brothers . . . Illustrious Potentate Renah F. Camalier will be on hand to greet his star guest for the Shrine's charities benefit.

ON THE ROAD—Eva LeGallienne and Richard Waring are at the Maryland Theater, Baltimore, this week in "The Corn Is Green" . . . George Abbott's "Touch and Go," which started life last spring at Catholic U. as "Thank You, Just Looking," winds up its tryout at Philadelphia's Forrest Theater, hitting New York next week with some of its CU principals featured.

Cameron Proves You Always Get the Girl, 'Way Out West

By Orval Hopkins

YOU get quite a batch for your money at the Metropolitan this week. None of it's much good, but there's a lot of it as follows, not necessarily in the order of importance:

A movie entitled "Stampede," and done in something I believe they call "Sepiatone." It's a tender shade that makes people look like they're prowling around in the dawn. My personal felicitations go to Allied Artists for not doing it in Trucolor.

A cartoon.

A Leon Errol comedy.

A newsreel.

The movie depicts Rod Cameron as a cattle baron of the Old West with a big herd of whiteface cattle, a dam and no girl. He winds up with one girl, no cattle and no dam, and seems very pleased about it, the dope.

Cameron, incidentally, ought to take up two things with his agent or the actors' union or somebody. One is that he's being cast in a lot of silly movies, but I suppose it beats working, at that. The other is that in "Stampede" they deck him out in heavy boots, an enormous revolver and a big leather jacket, and then ask him to jump in a lake and wrestle with another man. This, I submit, is too much, even for a Western. Cameron was blowing like an old sow at the finish.

"STAMPEDE," Monogram release produced by John C. Champion and Blake Edwards. Screen play by Champion and Edwards from a novel by Edward Beverly Mann. Photographed by Harry Neumann. Music by Edward Kay. Directed by Lesley Selander. At the Metropolitan.

THE CAST

Mike McCall	Rod Cameron
Connie Dawson	Gale Storm
Sheriff Ball	Johnny Mack Brown
Tim McCall	Don Castle
Stanton	Donald Curtis
Furman	John Miljan
Varick	Jonathan Hale
Cox	John Eldredge

The rest of the movie was notable in no way that I could discern. John Miljan is in it, playing a sort of mystic drunk, but I'm sure only I and some of the grandfathers in the class remember Miljan. A young man named Don Castle also is in it. It's possible that he has possibilities.

The cartoon isn't very good and neither is the Errol comedy. Honesty forces me, however, as it's forever doing, to report that a man near me thought both very funny.

The newsreel has some satisfactory shots of the windup of both pennant races.

James Stewart is on the screen with a long plea to help disabled veterans. It's sponsored by the Disabled American Veterans and Stewart sounds as if he's convinced.

Gary Cooper is also on the screen, backed by a two-sheet proclaiming "Task Force," asking everybody to join the Navy.

he Lyons Den . . .

By Leonard Lyons

ALES from Tokyo: A news- paperman persuaded a fair y to share his quarters and ions at the Tokyo Correspond- s Club. When it became ap- rent that this arrangement uld not be a fleeting one, there re protests from the other ident-correspondents, for he s paying the single rate rged bachelors while the mar- d couples were paying the gher couple-rent. When the uation became further com- cated by the fact that the lady liked fish and the odors of her cooking seeped to others rooms, stern measures had to be taken. Allen Raymond, president of the club, was the spokesman for these measures. He presented a couple-rent bill to the man and his lady, and added the blessing: "I hereby pronounce you man and wife."

Clark Lee, whose dispatches were among the finest reporting produced by the war, held reunion with the correspondents who worked with him from Corregidor to Normandy. Their affection for him must have been genuine, for they harbored no ill will over the consistency with which he had beaten them at gin rummy during the long bombing flights in B-17's and B-29's . . . Lee revealed one reason for his consistent victories: He was the only correspondent who heeded the printed warning sign: "Remember Your Oxygen," as soon as the planes climbed 12,000 feet. None of the others heeded the sign, and they all lost.

Lee and I were billeted together at the Ga-Jo-En Hotel. We were visited by T. Kase, the Harvard graduate who was appointed spokesman for the Japanese Foreign Office on the day the first victorious Americans reached Tokyo, nine days before the Army arrived. Lee met him on that memorable day—and now they confide that they both were apprehensive . . . At that first meeting Kase, as spokesman for the country never before subjugated, quoted Stevenson: "It takes two to fight and two to make up." Then he added: "Japan, for her part, is willing to be friends. We expect to be treated firmly. We hope you will treat us favorably" . . . Yes, said Mr. Kase now, the occupation has more than fulfilled his expectations. "America and Japan are friends," he said. "You . . . er . . . are the male, and we the female."

General MacArthur announced that General Divine of the First Cavalry Division was being relieved, but that his successor will be General Gay. Admiral Joy, he added, had just arrived. "With Gay and Joy here," he said, "things ought to pick up a bit in the occupation."

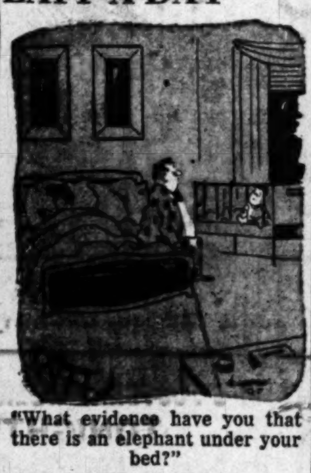
LAFF-A-DAY



"What evidence have you that there is an elephant under your bed?"

The Family Scrapbook

By Dr. Ernest G. Osborne

RUTH
JOYCE
10-7

Changing Names

Fifteen-year-old Marianne decides that her name is too fancy and informs the family that from here on she wants to be called Anne. Ruth, on the other hand, thinks her name is just too simple and common and would like to be be called Joyce. Christened James Douglas, Jimmy decides that he likes his middle name much better.

Some youngsters rebel against their names because they are the same as relatives about whom they can't get too enthusiastic.

A few families have allowed children to go without official names until they are old enough to choose ones for themselves. Others give their youngsters only one name and later urge them to select their second names.

The problem isn't a major one unless we make it so. The school may take a dim view of name changing, but there's no insuperable obstacle. Sometimes the parents feel that their choices are being criticized. This, too, should not stand in the way of such changes as are indicated above. Perhaps, when youngsters desire to change their names, there's a new sense of self-developing.

What's the Verdict

END OF WAR

Q. Martin was an American Army officer. Some months after the German surrender he was assigned to duty in Berlin, and fell to death from a hotel window there. His insurance policy specified that if his death occurred outside the United States while he was in the military or naval service of any country engaged in war, the only amount payable to his beneficiary would be the return of the premiums. Martin's widow, the beneficiary, demands payment of the full amount of the policy. The company's attitude is that the "cold" war is just as much a war as the "shooting" war. Correct?

A. This is a problem in the interpretation of a contract—specifically the meaning of the words "engaged in war." To the ordinary mind, legal or otherwise, these words would mean actual physical hostilities. That is the criterion that would be applied to this contract. For insurance policy purposes, in most situations, the war ended when the shooting ended. For purposes of emergency rent statutes, and other situations, the end of the war will be decided by other circumstances. The widow wins the full amount of the policy.—F. L. D.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Reporter George Garner did a sports page story recently about Red Fedder, the ballplayer in the Mickey Finn comic strip.

In his story, Garner said that Fedder would "return to Sawpits to become sports director for the Philip Finn Youth Foundation." Somebody is very mixed up.

It's my impression that the Philip Finn Youth Foundation is not located in Sawpits, but in a large, nameless city which has an overlapping county government where Uncle Phil functions as county sheriff.

I suggest that you go to whatever trouble and expense are necessary to find out who is right.

James J. Gleason.
Alexandria, Va.

Dear Jim:

Without any research whatever I feel qualified to raise your hand in victory.

Sawpits is the city in which Red played ball. It's not the one in which Uncle Phil is sheriff, or has established his Youth Foundation.

To the best of my knowledge, Uncle Phil's home town has never been named. But after listening to Phil's creator, Lank Leonard, as he tangled with Smokey Bill Holman, I'd guess that the town may now be called "Notarysojacnixnix." Bill.

Bennett Bought 3 U. S. Yachts

By Drew Pearson

When good old Clyde Hoey, the swallow-tailed Senator from North Carolina, announced there would be no more hearings on General Vaughan, John Maragon and the five per-centers, it didn't surprise anybody on the inside.

HOEY

For insiders have known how much pressure has been exerted by the White House to shut the investigation up.

One month ago it was announced that public hearings would be suspended in order to give the committee staff a chance to do more investigating, also to give committee Counsel Rogers a two-week vacation. Since then, however, White House pressure has been terrific, with even staff investigators threatened with loss of Government pensions.

Since then also some sensational leads have been glossed over by committee investigators or carefully stowed away in pigeonholes.

One of the most interesting figures whom Senator Hoey and his staff have turned their back on is David A. Bennett, the perfume manufacturer, who sent seven deep freezes to General Vaughan, Mrs. Truman and other bigwigs at about the time Vaughan's friend, John Maragon, was trying to smuggle Bennett's perfume into the United States disguised as champagne for the White House.

Yachts and Deep Freezes

There are some other interesting things about Mr. Bennett which the public doesn't know, and most of the record is in Government files, where any Senate investigator could easily dig it out.

For instance, here are two interesting things which the public has a right to know about. Mr. Bennett, at the time he was giving away deep freezes, acquired four Government airplanes without competitive bidding, and four luxury yachts, three of them from the United States Government.

Four yachts are a lot for any one man to have. For that matter, so are four airplanes. However, Deep-Freeze-Giver Bennett wasn't satisfied with four yachts, and wanted to buy another. To this end, a letter was written to John Maragon, care of General Vaughan at the White House, by one of Bennett's subordinates. The letter, dated November 19, 1945, is the files of Senator Hoey's Committee, but since he doesn't seem interested in doing anything about it, this column is glad to publish the letter as follows:

Mr. John Maragon, C/O Brig.
Gen. Harry Vaughan's Office,
White House, Washington, D. C.

Dear John:

At the request of Mr. Bennett, am sending you herewith reprint of an advertisement—on 'yachting' and 'motorboating.' Mr. Bennett would like you to contact Commodore Moran of the Small-Boats Division, Maritime Commision, Miss Barrett, secretary, and find out what condition this is in, and what price they are asking for same.

Mr. Bennett is feeling fine again after his little rest in the country, and is planning on leaving here again tomorrow to spend Thanksgiving there.

Hope you are in the best of health, and with kindest regards. . . .

Poker Parties on Yachts

At the time this letter was written to Maragon, Bennett already had the following luxury yachts: Carnan, 600 horsepower, 121 feet, 221 tons; Valerie V; 84 feet, 124 tons; Caroline, 45 feet, 24 tons; Nedra B., 111 feet, 101 tons. All these, except the Valerie V, were purchased direct from the Maritime Commission. And when the Maritime Commission was asked to disclose who else bid on the vessels, and how much was bid, the information was refused.

When asked whether the bids had been advertised, Miss Mary Barrett, referred to in the above letter to Maragon, flew into a rage.

One reason why Senator Hoey may wish to deal lightly with the man who had so many deep freezes and yachts at his disposal was because Harry Truman, when Vice President, was a guest aboard the Bennett yachts.

In fact, the yachts were used for some of the famed Truman-Vaughan poker parties, and this longtime intimacy between the President of the United States and the President of the Verley Perfume Co. may be why Maragon felt that he could with impunity label his perfume as consigned to the White House and try to smuggle it through United States customs.

At that time—around 1945—one Bennet yacht was moored on the Potomac, another at Saugatuck, Mich., and another in Florida. Since then—perhaps because he has been less active in lobbying—Bennett has disposed of three yachts, but still keeps the Nedra B.

Case Against Reds Due To Go to Jury in Week

New York, Oct. 6 (AP).—The conspiracy case against 11 top American Communists should go to the jury by Friday of next week, Federal Judge Harold R. Medina said today.

He made the statement as he recessed the 38-week-old trial until Friday because of illness of a defense lawyer, Richard Gladstein.

WHY SHOULD I STORE SUMMER CLOTHES?
BECAUSE Arcade-Sunshine winter storage prevents moths and mildew.
BECAUSE it gives me more closet and drawer space all winter.
BECAUSE clothes come back cleaned, pressed, ready to wear
